Mary Dove
Federal Elections Commission
Washington, DC

Dear Ms. Dove:

I understand that the Federal Elections Commission is considering whether or not monies raised through the ActBlue entity should count for matching funds and other public financing purposes.

As I understand it, the public financing system is designed to let various campaigns -- not just one particular candidate -- match small dollar contributions from supporters. ActBlue makes those small dollar contributions count and gives the small dollar donor a place at the table, which considering the domination of politics by big-money interests is no small thing . Therefore, contributions via ActBlue should most definitely count for public financing purposes.

Thank you for your time and attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Tamara Baker
