American voters are more and more distanced and disconnected, shoved and elbowed out of the process of elections of their own leaders. We've got elections that have been "corporatized" with secret proprietary software, we've got the Almighty MSM (Corporate) Media acting as kingmaker influencing what people get to see of the candidates that are running—and excluding who they don't want to be seen, we've got corporations making HUGE campaign finance donations to candidates expected to be forever beholden to their (corporate) interests, and that only scratches the surface. Elections belong to We, The People.

The public financing law was established to prevent matching of big money donors such as corporations. ActBlue is different. ActBlue helps facilitate those SMALL dollar contributions. Translation: the donations of regular, everyday voters. You know. WE, THE PEOPLE. There's NO reason contributions via ActBlue should not count for public financing purposes.

DO THE RIGHT THING. DON'T SHUT OUT THE VOICE OF WE, THE PEOPLE, IN OUR OWN ELECTIONS.

Establish an exception for ActBlue as their funds are well-known to represent the small dollar donations and the voices of We, The People.

Very truly yours,
