EXECUTIVE SESSION

SUBMITTED LATE

TO: The Commission

FROM: Vice Chairman Thomas
Commissioner Potter

DATE: April 23, 1992

RE: Possible Pre-Murs
(Corporate Contributions)

In accordance with the Commission's current Directive Six, we recommend that the Commission refer the attached accounts of recent and potentially illegal corporate activity to the Office of General Counsel. These accounts have already been circulated to the Commissioners by the Commission's Press Office as part of the news summary process.

We do not take this step lightly, and are doing so on a bipartisan basis to ensure impartiality. We have chosen not to wait until the Commission has considered revising the Directive Six procedures because we believe these matters are of sufficient potential importance that they should be dealt with on an expedited basis.

In our joint view, the use of corporate resources on behalf of federal candidates is a potentially serious problem at this time. Allegations of possible coercion make some matters even more disturbing. Whether any of the corporations identified in these materials in fact violated the law is a matter for investigation, and cannot now be determined. However, the potential for the improper use of corporate resources in the context of fundraising for Presidential campaigns is clearly raised by these materials, and the allegations have been the subject of widespread publication and public comment.

Our request that the Commission refer this matter to the Office of General Counsel does not mean that we will be proposing many similar referrals, nor that OGC should in the future devote resources only to corporate-type MURs. However, we believe that the Commission would be remiss if it did not at least investigate these particular corporate matters at this time.

Bush Dinner Raises Funds And Eyebrows

Listing of Companies Called a 'Mistake'

By Ann Devroy and Mark Stencel
Washington Post Staff Writers

The Michigan fund-raiser looked like any of the other fancy galas President Bush has been throwing to raise campaign money, but when his aides picked up their programs Tuesday night at the $1.1 million dinner, they spotted some political dynamite: Five corporations were listed as major donors, despite the law banning corporate contributions.

Scrambling yesterday to explain the listing of the five corporate "hosts," Bush campaign aides called it "an embarrassing, stupid mistake." Campaign spokeswoman Torie Clarke said, "We take the law and the spirit of the law very, very seriously. There was no violation. There was a mistake but all those involved had been reprimanded and all our finance people will be reminded of the law."

It was a "mistake," officials of the corporations say. The funds were lawful personal contributions from employees, not from the companies themselves. But behind it is a more complex election-year reality for both parties. Corporate executives continue to raise money and donate large amounts, sometimes through "bundling," a practice much decried by critics of the campaign finance system but still alive and well.

An employee of one of the five corporations listed as a sponsor of the Bush fund-raising event explained how it works. According to Peggy Pentacost, an administrative assistant at the accounting firm of Deloitte & Touche in suburban Detroit, she was in charge of collecting money for the dinner and "went around to the partners and collected checks from them and their wives and bundled it up and sent it off" to the Bush-Quayle organization.

Pentacost estimated that a third to half of the firm's 59 partners "participated" by buying $1,000 tickets, the maximum individual contribution allowed by federal law. Thus, at least $20,000 was raised.

Each of the checks was drawn on an individual's account, Pentacost said.

The firm has a corporate political action committee for political donations, but "we didn't use that for this."

The law limits PAC contributions to $5,000, significantly less than Deloitte & Touche executives ended up giving. The president has said he opposes PAC contributions and ordered his campaign to refuse them, campaign officials said.

But Bush is also on record against "bundling," where an individual gathers money from members of his firm or other group and donates it to a candidate in one bundle, a technique that increases the impact of the donation.

Three years ago, in his first speech on campaign reform as president, Bush deplored the influence of money in politics and said, "I propose to end the practice that's known as bundling, where business and unions encourage or coerce contributions from employees or members and then give these contributions as one single donation."

The historical problem with bundling, according to Fred Wertheimer, president of Common Cause, is that "if corporate executives can gather a large sum and turn it over on behalf of the institution, you wind up with the same capacity for corruption and influence-selling as if the corporation made the contribution in the first place."

Wertheimer said bundling is one of the "major loopholes" for getting around contribution ceilings and the ban on corporate donations. It would be remedied, he said, by the broad election law revisions pending in Congress. He and leaders of other major campaign spending overhaul groups, including the League of Women Voters and Public Citizen, called on Bush yesterday not to follow through on his threat to veto the bill.

Pentacost was asked why her firm, Deloitte & Touche, was listed as a host—a distinction reserved for donations of at least $10,000. She responded that it was because she told the campaign that the ticket-selling was a "corporation effort," with no one individual responsible. The dinner, in Dearborn, included 1,100 donors who paid $1,000 each to attend.

Those who raised $10,000 or more were also entitled to a personal "photo opportunity" with the president, a momentary "grip-and-grin" in which the president grabs the donor's hand while his campaign photographer takes a quick picture. The donor later gets an autographed print.

Miller Energy Inc. of Kalamazoo was also listed as a sponsor. The company "did sponsor the event," according to John Miller, chief executive office of the oil and gas exploration business. That meant, Miller said, that he raised "a little under $15,000" from executives at his family-run firm, including members of his own family, and from executives at other energy firms in the state.

Miller, who said he performed similar chores for President Ronald Reagan, said normally he could "raise $35,000 or $40,000 for an event like this" from among his energy industry associates. But "due to the fact that this president has no energy policy . . . some of the usual contributors could not or would not contribute."

Asked if he had pressed Bush on this issue during the photo opportunity at a pre-dinner reception for even bigger donors, Miller said he sent his son to the event instead of going himself. "I've talked to everyone in this administration" from Vice President Quayle to Commerce Secretary Robert A. Mosbacher about getting more done about energy problems, Miller said, "but you get lots of pleasant treatment and kind attention but no action."

Executives of the other three listed firms, Dig John Co., Chrysler Corp. and Guardian Industries, all said the donations were individual ones, not corporate contributions, and were raised partially in the firm and partially outside.

Deloitte & Touche, which was formed in a 1989 merger between Deloitte Haskins and Sells and Touche Ross & Co., has been cited in numerous government lawsuits for lax accounting in past work for failed savings and loans. It was also among the accounting firms accused in class action lawsuits of helping former saving and loan chief Charles Keating Jr. in the bond sales scandal involving his California thrift and its Phoenix-based parent.

The Keating scandal is one Wertheimer cited as a "classic example" of why bundling should be banned, since the savings and loan operator raised large sums for the campaigns of the "Keating Five" senators from whom he was seeking help on his business problems.

Campaign sources said the fund-raising for the Bush dinner in Michigan was typical of the large dinner events he has hosted around the country this year. The campaign has raised about $23 million so far, much of it in dinners and luncheons rather than in small-contributor mail solicitations. One source noted, "This is how you raise money. You go to your friends and they go to their friends and business associates. It has always been done this way, and no coercion is involved."

...awsuit Alleges Coercion in President's Dinner Ticket Sales

By Ann Devroy
Washington Post Staff Writer

...ven R. Elliott, president of Cherry Pay... Systems, a midwestern marketing com..., is one of two dozen co-chairmen from ...ss the country in charge of selling places ...ext week's President's Dinner, the major ...-raising event President Bush is hosting on ...lf of Republican congressional candidates. ...aturday, a former employee of his firm, ...ren P. Neiss, alleged in a civil suit that ...liott a... two of his top executives coerced ... and ...ployees in 25 of the firm's offices ...ach ...tribute $1,500 to the dinner. When ...e refused, he said, he was fired.

Elliott was convicted of federal bank fraud charges in 1980s and released from prison in 1987, according to former Illinois governor James R. Thompson (R), Elliott's lawyer.

Thompson said yesterday that Elliott had not seen the suit but that he denies coercing employees to contribute. Thompson described Elliott as a "young man who went bad and has reformed and is interested in the political process."

Neiss's suit includes letters and messages sent to Cherry Payment Systems employees that provide a window on national fund-raising operations this election year at a time Congress and the White House are at odds on overhauling the campaign financing system.

It also paints a picture of potential contributors being offered access to their choice of administration officials in exchange for large donations and offers one worker's allegations on how he was pulled into the fund-raising apparatus against his will.

Neiss alleged in his suit that Elliott, 39, and two of his top executives engaged in a "scheme to coerce, intimidate and extort employees of Cherry Systems to make significant monetary contributions" to the President's Dinner. In the suit, filed in Dane County, Wis., Circuit Court, Neiss, an employee in Cherry Systems' Milwaukee office, asks for damages resulting from his dismissal.

According to the suit and attached documents, Neiss received a letter from Elliott on Feb. 13. Elliott, chairman of the board and president of the Illinois-based Cherry Payment Systems, had sent the letter to Neiss and at least 25 other regional managers nationwide informing them that he had been named "co-chairman" of the dinner and asking that they contribute.

Attached to the letter was a list of prices, ranging from $1,500 for one ticket to $20,000 for a table. The letter, noting the prestigious audience expected to attend the event, expressed the "hope" that the employee "could buy, or fill, at least one table" so the employee could then also attend pre-dinner events.

According to the list, which dinner officials in Washington confirmed was part of their promotional material, a table-buyer would be entitled to the dinner, as individual diners are, and could attend a private reception hosted by the president and Barbara Bush or a reception hosted by the Cabinet, plus interact at the vice presidential [illegible] hosted by Vice President Quayle, as a breakfast hosted by Senate Majority Leader Robert J. Dole (R-Kan.) and House Minority Leader Robert H. Michel (R-Ill.).

A purchaser who sold one table also could request a specific House member or senator to be seated there, and for selling two, a specific member of the "Senior Administration Official." For selling $92,500 worth of tickets, the donor was offered an individual picture of the president and the president.

[illegible] Sweeney, an official of the National Republican Congressional Committee, a co-host of the dinner along with its Senate counterpart, said that the issue was [illegible] "We do not have to rely on hard-selling actions, if they occurred in the future. If employees were [illegible] we would like it."

[illegible] officials said the dinner in 1991 "far more than [illegible] as easily as "the most successful fund-raising event in the [illegible] history. . . ."

[illegible] does not raise funds for the President's reelection, although the guaranteed seating with a "Top Presidential Dinner" [illegible] has been suggested as a possible campaign asset. The dinner tickets go to the two Republican congressional campaign committees, which are allowed to accept up to $15,000 in individual contributions, compared to $1,000 for the presidential campaign, and be refunded amount in a separate fund.

Besides the Elliott letter, the suit includes a series of memorandums and messages sent by fax to Neiss and, he alleges, to other regional managers. Signed by Peter Moles, regional marketing director who also is named in the suit, the messages refer to Elliott's request. One, dated Feb. 15, notes, "I would like to know who is going to be part of the long-term growth of this operation and therefor who will be in attendance for this great opportunity to be able to rub elbows with the most powerful people in this country."

Another message notes, "If you're asking yourself, can I afford to make this trip, then ask yourself if you can afford not to" and "We will truely see what kind of cloth your cut from when I hear from those of you that plan to participate."

Neiss, in his suit, maintains the same messages were sent to 25 officers in 14 states where the firm operates its business marketing credit-card and check-approval systems to businesses and leasing related equipment to businesses. A final message orders Neiss to reply by Feb. 24 and notes those who agree "are going to display their commitment towards . . . this company." It adds, "Let your wallet be your guide. Your either here for the long term or your on vacation."

Neiss's suit alleges that after a series of additional messages and phone calls, he was ordered to answer by March 2 and called Moles and declined to buy tickets. The next day, Neiss said, he was fired.

Thompson said Neiss was a disgruntled employee who did not measure up as a salesman and that the firing was coincidental. He said if employees believed they were being coerced, it was "a misunderstanding" and added that Elliott "volunteered" to co-chair the event as a favor to him. Thompson, who is one of the deputy chairmen of the dinner, said he picked Elliott as one of the co-chairmen in his region.

Elliott and his firm also have been involved in separate fund-raising efforts for Bush's campaign. He was among nine contributors from Charry Payment Systems who gave $1,000 each to the reelection campaign on one day last November. He also has given $20,000 to the Republican National Committee and $5,000 to the National Republican Senatorial Committee, according to Federal Election Commission records.

Elliott was indicted more than six years ago on charges of mail and wire fraud, racketeering and misapplication of bank funds as part of a federal investigation of a complex real estate scheme involving Manning Savings and Loan Association, an Illinois thrift closed by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in 1933.

Elliott was accused of helping arrange a condominium deal that inflated Manning's net worth. Manning reportedly lost more than $3 million in the deal, which regulators said contributed to the thrift's failure.

Elliott was convicted in federal court in 1990 on charges of chasing two loans from programs out of more than $135,000 and was on probation at the time of the Manning indictments. He cooperated with authorities in the Manning case and agreed to plead guilty to one count of mail fraud.

Moles was among the Chicago-area salesmen for First Commodities of Boston, a defunct trading firm, who were indicted in federal court more than three years ago on charges of using high-pressure sales tactics to swindle investors, according to a report in the Chicago Tribune.

'Bundling' Skirts Campaign Gift Curbs

Corporate Contributions Outlawed, but Executives Raise Large Amounts

By Mark Stencel
Washington Post Staff Writer

David F. DeLucia, a general partner at Goldman, Sachs & Co. in New York, at first said he didn't remember giving $1,000 to Bill Clinton's presidential campaign, and then he said he wasn't sure how it had happened.

"I may have" contributed, he said in a telephone interview last week, "through another partner or our firm. . . . Sometimes [partners] ask their friends to attend breakfasts or lunches" to raise money for politicians.

DeLucia and at least 60 other partners at Goldman, Sachs are listed as contributors in fund-raising reports filed by Clinton's campaign with the Federal Election Commission. Collectively, the partners from this investment banking firm have given the Arkansas governor nearly $64,600, almost 11 times the amount a company's political action committee (PAC) would be allowed to contribute to a candidate.

Kenneth D. Brody, Clinton's chief fund-raiser in New York, is the limited partner at Goldman, Sachs who sought contributions from DeLucia and other partners. "There is no central direction at all. . . . It is solely the fact that they're my friends, not that they happen to be partners," he said. "These are people giving out of their own pockets. They're acting as normal people."

Direct campaign contributions from companies such as Goldman, Sachs have been illegal since 1907, but executives like Brody continue to raise large amounts of cash for candidates by legally "bundling" individual contributions from their co-workers and employees. Individuals can contribute up to $1,000 to a candidate per election.

President Bush's reelection campaign was embarrassed last week when several corporations acknowledged that employees had bundled contributions for the president after the companies themselves were accidentally listed as sponsors on the program for a $1 million fund-raiser in Michigan.

The Washington Post found another instance in which nearly all of the senior executives at IBM Corp. bundled $14,500 for the Bush campaign last November.

See BUNDLING, A8, Col. 1

Common Cause, Public Citizen and other political watchdog groups have criticized this fund-raising practice. They suggest that bundled contributions from a large number of executives buy the same amount of political influence as the equally large corporate gifts that were outlawed 85 years ago. However, fund-raisers and some scholars who specialize in campaign finance say that executives enjoy the same constitutionally protected right to support a candidate monetarily as anyone else.

"We try to comply with the law as best we know how," Clinton spokesman Jeff Eller said. "There are people at Goldman, Sachs that didn't write checks."

It is impossible to say how much campaign cash is raised in bundles because many contributors do not list their place of work or other personal information that is required from anyone who gives a candidate $200 or more. But bundling is commonly practiced by fund-raisers for many candidates—Democrats and Republicans.

On Nov. 12, IBM Chairman and Chief Executive John F. Akers served as co-chairman at a New York fund-raiser for Bush. FEC reports show that 19 senior executives at IBM, including Akers, contributed nearly three times the $5,000 contribution limit for a corporate PAC. IBM does not have a PAC and Bush's campaign, like Clinton's, does not take PAC money.

Direct campaign contributions from companies have been illegal since 1907.

IBM spokesman Michael Dutton said none of the executives who contributed did not attend the fund-raiser. But all 19 contributions were dated either Nov. 14 or Nov. 18 in Bush fund-raising reports.

"Involvement was voluntary," Dutton said. "Apparently, it was addressed by phone or in a group. . . . It was presented as a voluntary situation."

Three years ago, Bush called for an end to bundling in a speech on campaign finance. But he says he will veto a Democratic bill before Congress that would restrict the practice and impose other changes, because it also would allow taxpayer financing for congressional campaigns.

Even if enacted, a bundling ban would be hard to enforce because of the difficulties in proving that contributions were solicited and bundled and were not merely personal expressions of support.

'Bundling' Skirts Rules On Campaign Donations

BUNDLING, From A1

"I don't have much patience with the notion that bundling is terrible," said Herbert E. Alexander, director of the Citizens' Research Foundation at the University of Southern California and a campaign finance specialist. "There's an assault on all kinds of fund-raising. Some people aren't happy with any kind of private fund-raising."

Brody said, "The way our system works you have to raise money, so you call everyone you know and you try to get them exposed to Bill Clinton and you try to get them to call their friends."

But some of those Brody has raised money from do not share his enthusiasm for the governor. "I don't want to get into any of that quite frankly," DeLucia said when asked if his $1,000 contribution meant he supports Clinton. "I never think it's good to talk about politics."

The failure of many contributors to disclose their place of work, or even their address, would present additional enforcement difficulties under the proposed bundling ban.

For example, four IBM contributors, including President Jack D. Kuehler and three senior vice presidents, did not name their employer when each contributed $1,000 to Bush on Nov. 14.

Among the Clinton contributors who did not provide their place of work were at least 22 Goldman, Sachs partners who collectively gave the governor more than $20,000. In other words, more than a third of the Goldman, Sachs partners who have given money to Clinton cannot be easily identified from fund-raising documents filed with the FEC.

These contributors were identified by comparing FEC computer lists of contributions with lists of corporate officers and partners.

In addition, spouses and other family members frequently attend fund-raisers with corporate contributors. Bush received at least $6,000 in corresponding contributions from spouses or relatives of the IBM executives while Clinton received at least another $29,000 from more than 30 Goldman, Sachs families.

An FEC spokesman said the agency lost in court when it challenged Ronald Reagan's 1976 presidential campaign for failing to collect required personal information from contributors. It now enforces disclosure requirements by simply asking campaign organizations to demonstrate an effort to collect personal information from supporters.

Perry Pockros, the staff director for the House Task Force on Campaign Finance Reform, estimated that a third of all political contributors do not provide all the required personal information. "The problem on enforcement has always been disclosure," he said.

The congressional campaign finance bill would lower the amount of contributions requiring personal information from $200 to $50, but Pockros said neither chamber's version of the bill included stronger enforcement measures.

The legislation, which passed in the House earlier this month and will be taken up by the Senate after the current recess, tries to restrict bundling in other ways. Under the proposed law, a person bundling contributions for a corporation would not be allowed to solicit more than $1,000 total from co-workers and employees—an amount equal to a contributor's personal limit for a single candidate. Corporate PACs, which sometimes bundle individual gifts for candidates who don't take PAC money or to get around the PAC contribution limits, could only bundle up to the $5,000 PAC limit.

Alexander said this sort of restriction would stand in the way of "the freedom Americans ought to enjoy to do things jointly on behalf of a candidate."

"There is a thin line between the right of assembly . . . and bundling," he said. "This is a group of people who have gotten together to support a candidate."

But Pockros said Supreme Court rulings that uphold Congress's power to limit campaign contributions from individuals and PACs would cover the bundling provisions in the current bill.

Brody, the investment banker who is raising funds for Clinton, said he would like to see the current system for raising campaign money changed. "I can think of a number of systems that would be better than the one we have now," he said. "But you've got to live within the system you have until the system is changed."

CHECOTA FIRM WORKERS URGED TO AID RACE

by Craig Gilbert, Milwaukee Journal, 4/15/92

Many of businessman Joe Checota's more than 100 employes were asked recently to contribute a portion of their salaries to Checota's US Senate campaign, according to four people who work for his Milwaukee company, Universal Medical Buildings.

Workers in at least two departments at the firm were called in personally by their bosses on the last day of March and urged to make campaign contributions, said employes who spoke to The Journal.

Three employes said they and their co-workers were summoned into meetings with supervisors that day and asked to give 1% of their yearly salary to the campaign.

Others were solicited over the phone by company executives and asked to give whatever amount they wished, the employes said.

Employes were not ordered to donate, they said, but some were asked a second time after initially declining. Some decided to contribute, some didn't.

Of four employes who spoke to The Journal, three said they regarded the solicitations from supervisors, department heads and high- ranking executives as being highly inappropriate. A fourth wasn't disturbed by the request for a contribution, and said it was made in a non-threatening way.

Checota

Each spoke to The Journal on the condition that their names not be used. Those who complained about the solicitations said they feared losing their jobs if their identities were known.

"I would call it extortion," one professional employed at Checota's firm said of the requests for campaign donations.

In response, a Checota campaign spokesman said Tuesday that if any employes were put on the spot or pressured to contribute, it was not at Checota's direction.

"If it happened that way, it doesn't sound appropriate," said Checota's political consultant, Bill Christofferson. But, he said, "I have no way of knowing" if the allegations are true.

"I can tell you flat-out that Checota did not direct that to be done," Christofferson said. "Checota himself has not solicited anyone in the company. Checota himself has made it quite clear to the company's employes that they were not required to give."

According to a spokesman for the Federal Elections Commission, federal law does not directly address situations in which employes of candidates are asked to give to a candidate's campaign.

Asked if he would make Checota available to discuss the matter with a reporter, Christofferson said no. A message was left at Checota's home Tuesday night, but he did not return the call.

"He doesn't have anything to say about it. He would say what I have just said, except that I probably know more about it than he does," Christofferson said.

Checota, 52, is chairman and chief executive officer of Universal Medical Buildings, a company that develops medical buildings around the country. A self-made multimillionaire who has never held elected office, he is one of three Democrats seeking the job now filled by Republican Sen. Bob Kasten. He has said he plans to spend $5 million on the race, half of it his own money and half of it raised from campaign contributors.

Checota's latest campaign finance report indicates 15 mostly high-ranking company employes had given to the campaign as of March 31, the day contributions from employes were requested.

Official Hopes It Didn't Happen

Two Universal vice presidents reached by The Journal refused to comment on the solicitations or on their own contributions to the campaign. Company controller Edith Peters, who is also treasurer of the Checota campaign, said:

"I know of nothing inappropriate that has gone on. People overreact. There are some people around here who are very gung-ho about Joe, and I suppose there are some that don't like Joe."

As for department heads pressing employes for contributions, "I would certainly hope that it didn't happen," she said. "I can't say it didn't happen. I certainly hope it didn't.

"Joe made it perfectly clear a long time ago he didn't want anyone to feel that their jobs would be in jeopardy over this campaign."

Employes who spoke to The Journal said they believed most of their co-workers at the company were asked for campaign contributions on or about March 31, the date of an evening fund-raiser for Checota to which many employes had been invited.

A 'Revolving Door' of Employes

Two of the employes who spoke to The Journal said they and their co-workers were called in individually to see a supervisor that day.

"The way it was explained to me was we were being asked to cheerfully donate 1% of our salary to Joe Checota," said one employe. "They said it would be very nice if we gave today."

The employe described being stunned by the request.

"Basically, my direct supervisor was asking," the employe said. "This is something that is unacceptable behavior. Most people were kind of flabbergasted."

Another employe told a similar story, saying there was a "revolving door" of employes called in to see their supervisors March 31. The person asking for contributions was "the same [person] who doles out raises, bonuses, hires and fires," this employe said.

The employe said he was told by that supervisor: "We're asking all of our employes to donate one point of our annual income to the campaign."

The supervisor suggested an exact dollar amount as a gift to the Checota campaign, the employe said, and was told to regard it as a "personal contribution, not a political one."

The employe said the supervisor "did say it was optional but also called back two people (the next day) and asked them where their checks were."

The employe called the situation an "absolute outrage."

"Because the company is really run with an iron fist, the unspoken part of it was if you value your position in the company you will consider making a contribution," the employe said.

A third employe who described being solicited by a company executive was also indignant about the incident.

"Nobody says no to Joe Checota. That's the atmosphere there. If you say no, you really don't know what to expect," said the employe. "He's the guy that signs our paychecks."

Not All Employes Objected

A fourth employe described being solicited by two higher-ups at the company in a meeting March 31.

"It was strongly suggested we give," said the employe, who was also asked to contribute 1% of salary, and like the others was asked to make a contribution that very day.

But this employe was not offended by the request or the way in which it was made. The employes who spoke to The Journal work in three different areas of the company. Several employes in other departments at the firm refused comment Tuesday night.

Employes at Universal fall into several different areas, such as marketing, sales and leasing, accounting, design and production, pricing and estimating and construction management.

As evidence that Checota had made it clear to employes they were not obligated to give to his campaign, Christofferson cited the invitation Checota sent employes to his fund-raiser on March 31. It noted, "no contribution is required; your presence is the important thing."

INTERNAL REPORTS CHECKED: Audit Division Matching Fund Records

FEDERAL AGENCY CHECKED: General Services Administration

STATE AGENCY CHECKED: District Attorney's Office, Madison, WI

I. GENERATION OF MATTER

On April 28, 1992, the Commission determined to refer this matter to the Office of the General Counsel for its analysis and recommendations. On May 18, 1992, this Office requested the Audit Division's assistance and on June 16, 1992, and June 30, 1992, Audit provided this Office with records of contributions. (See Attachments A, B).

The matter arises from several news clippings compiled by the Commission's Press Office in the ordinary course of its operations and involves a number of different transactions, events, and entities. All of the reports have a common denominator: the apparent use of business firm resources to raise substantial sums of money for federal election campaigns. Two of the fact patterns, involving Cherry Payment Systems and Universal Medical Buildings, raise the possibility of coercion of employees and subordinates. As this report will discuss, the articles along with other information compiled from public sources by this Office point to potential violations of law which may be substantial. Therefore, the Office of the General Counsel recommends reason to believe findings and initiation of a complete investigation to fully explore the activities and events.

Although some documentary evidence is already in the Commission's possession with respect to the activities, the primary source of the allegations is in the form of news articles. These articles describe the activities at issue as well as quote responses to reporters' questions by the actors involved. It is important to note that this Office does not view these articles as actual evidence of the facts reported or the statements quoted. Rather, as contemplated by Directive Six, these articles play a more limited role: as a predicate for initiation of an investigation.

As noted above, the Audit Division provided this Office with a partial listing of contributions. This Office has compiled a contributor chart from the contributor database and the matching fund records, which contain an incomplete listing of the contributions made by employees of entities discussed in this report (Attachment C).[1/] The contributor chart will be referred to throughout this report.

1/ The sources used for the chart rely on contributors listing their occupation and employer and does not include contributions where contributors fail to do so. The Commission recently recognized this problem, with respect to the presidential campaigns, and sent a letter dated July 1, 1992, to the presidential candidates explaining the reporting laws and encouraging them to make "best efforts" to obtain the necessary employer information from all contributors.

II. LEGAL PRINCIPLES

A. Corporate Prohibition

Pursuant to 2 U.S.C. § 441b, it is unlawful for any corporation to make a contribution or expenditure in connection with a Federal election, or for a candidate or political committee knowingly to accept such a contribution. It is also unlawful for any corporate officer or director to consent to any such contribution. This broad prohibition extends to "anything of value" given to a federal candidate or campaign. 2 U.S.C. § 441b(b)(2).

Although corporations are prohibited from making any such contribution, the Act exempts a corporation's internal communications with its executive and administrative personnel. 2 U.S.C. § 441b(b)(2)(A).[2/] The Commission's regulations permit a corporation to make partisan communications to its restricted class, including endorsing candidates and urging their support. 11 C.F.R. § 114.3(a)(1),(c)(1); Advisory Opinions 1987-29, 1982-2. The Commission has repeatedly made clear, however, that corporations may not step beyond the line of "communication" to actually collecting contribution checks or otherwise facilitating the making of contributions to a Federal candidate. See Advisory Opinions 1987-29, 1986-4, 1982-2, and 1977 Explanation and Justification (describing permissible corporate communication).

Other Commission regulations provide that employees of a corporation may make "occasional, isolated or incidental use of the facilities of a corporation for individual volunteer activity in connection with a Federal election...." 11 C.F.R. § 114.9(a)(1). Employees must reimburse the corporation only for any increased overhead or operating costs. Id. In MUR 1690, however, this Office advised the Commission that "the plain intent of [11 C.F.R. § 114.9(a)]... excludes from the scope of 'individual volunteer activity' collective enterprises where the top executives of firms direct their subordinates in fundraising projects..., use resources of the corporation such as lists of vendors and customers..., solicit whole classes of corporate executives and employees..., or attempt to ensure that the corporation is the beneficiary of the candidate's appreciation...." General Counsel's Report dated October 2, 1986. See also MUR 2668, General Counsel's Report dated November 17, 1988 at pp. 7-8 (corporate president's use of corporate television network to contact employees and systematic involvement of corporate vice-presidents is basis for analysis that activity is outside "individual volunteer activity").

2/ Elaboration of the class of corporate employees that fall within this exception is found at 2 U.S.C. § 441b(b)(7) and 11 C.F.R. § 114.1(c) of the Commission's regulations.

9704380294 9

In summary, where fundraising activities involve the use of corporate resources and facilities and such activities are beyond the safe harbor of the Act and regulation's exceptions, the corporation has contributed something "of value" to the beneficiary candidate, in violation of section 441b.

Additionally, the manner in which company fundraising from employees or vendors takes place may have consequences under other generally applicable provisions of the Act. Where contributions are "earmarked or otherwise directed through an intermediary or conduit to such candidate," the Act requires the "intermediary or conduit" to report such transmissions. 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(8). The Commission's regulations in this area, newly revised in 1989, define "conduit or intermediary" to include "any person who receives and forwards an earmarked contribution to a candidate," 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2), and explains that campaign employees, full-time volunteers, or individuals who have significant positions within the campaign who are expressly authorized to fundraise are not conduits for purpose of the regulations. 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2)(i)(A), (E).

Under these regulations, if a person collects contributions as a conduit, and exercises "direction or control" over the making of the contribution, the contribution is chargeable to the conduit's limit for the recipient candidate in addition to the limit of the actual donor.[3/] 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(d)(2). This regulation was based on the 1974 Conference Committee Report on the earmarking provision at section 441a(a)(8), stating that "if a person exercises any direct or indirect control over the making of a contribution, then such contribution shall count toward the limitation imposed with respect to such person" under the Act.

3/ Furthermore, in AO 1980-46 the Commission stated that expenditures made by the conduit or intermediary for the purpose of solicitation are considered in-kind contributions to the candidate and are reportable as such. 2 U.S.C. § 434. Once the conduit collects and forwards the checks to the candidate, the candidate's acceptance of the checks constitutes acceptance of the costs incurred by the conduit in connection with the solicitation. See AO 1980-46.

H.R. Conf. Rep. No. 93-1438, 93rd Cong., 2d Sess. 51 (1974), reprinted in Legislative History of the Federal Election Campaign Act Amendments of 1974, at 995, 996 (1977). Corporations are explicitly forbidden from acting as conduits for contributions. 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2)(ii). Nonetheless, following Congress' broadly expressed intent, corporations that exercise any control over contributions should be responsible for these contributions, i.e. the contributions themselves are chargeable to the corporation.

The Commission articulated this position in Advisory Opinion 1986-4. There, the Commission concluded that where a company collects contributions to candidates from its executives, actively persuading its executives to participate, and deciding what candidate would be supported and in what amount, the corporation would "exercise direction and control over the making of such earmarked contributions as well as act as the conduit and intermediary for them."[4/] It follows that if a company through its officers employs coercive tactics in order to collect contributions, it plainly exercises control over the contributions. "[Where] a job or livelihood may be jeopardized by a refusal to comply, and the contact between solicitor and solicitee may be direct and personal . . . the potential clearly exists for earmarked contributions to have been 'directed or controlled' by means of coercion, harassment, or undue pressure."

4/ Section 441b's broad prohibition of "direct or indirect" gifts of anything of value, see 2 U.S.C. § 441b(b)(2), provides further support for this conclusion.

Statement of Reasons, Commissioner Josefiak, MUR 2282, p. 14. Thus, in addition to contributing something "of value" by facilitating the making of contributions, under the settled principles discussed above, the resulting contributions would be chargeable to the company itself. Indeed, this conclusion should follow in any circumstances similar to that envisioned in AO 1986-4 where a company orchestrates a fundraising activity for the benefit of a specific candidate and asks a class of its employees to participate.

B. Federal Government Contractor Prohibition

Section 441c expressly prohibits any person who enters into a U.S. government contract directly or indirectly to make any contribution of money or other things of value, to any federal candidate. 2 U.S.C. § 441c(a)(1) and 11 C.F.R. § 115.2. Additionally, section 441c makes it illegal for any person "knowingly to solicit any such contribution . . ." 2 U.S.C. § 441c(a)(2).

Pursuant to section 431(11), a partnership is considered a "person." As such, the regulations state: "[t]he assets of a partnership which is a Federal contractor may not be used to make contributions or expenditures in connection with Federal elections." 11 C.F.R. § 115.4(a). However, individual partners and employees of the partnership are permitted to make contributions in their own names from their personal assets. 11 C.F.R. § 115.4(b), (c). See also AO 1991-1.

Additionally, a federal contractor is prohibited from acting as a conduit. The regulations provide: "[a]ny person who is prohibited from making contributions or expenditures in connection with an election for Federal office shall be prohibited from acting as a conduit for contributions earmarked to candidates or their authorized committees." 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2)(E)(ii).

In conclusion, neither corporations nor federal contractors are permitted to contribute anything of value to federal elections. Thus, the prohibitions which limit corporate activity similarly limit the activity of federal contractors.

C. Liability of Campaign Committees

Section 441b(a) makes it illegal for political committees to knowingly accept or receive contributions from prohibited entities such as corporations. 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a). An analogous prohibition exists in the statute governing federal contractors. 2 U.S.C. § 441c(a)(2) (unlawful for any person "knowingly to solicit" contributions from government contractors). In the case of fundraising by a corporation or a government contractor, if there is proof of the committee's knowledge of the circumstances under which the contributions were raised, there is a basis for finding that the committee knowingly accepted prohibited contributions.

Where corporate officers act on behalf of political committees and are given fundraising duties and roles, it suggests that these individuals may have been authorized to raise funds on behalf of the committee. See 11 C.F.R. § 102.8(b) (setting out obligations of "[e]very person who receives a contribution . . . for a political committee"); cf. 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2)(E) (describing persons who are not conduits); 11 C.F.R. § 109.1(b)(5)

(definition of "agent" for purpose of making expenditures). In such a situation, under settled principles of agency law the committee is charged with the knowledge of its agents and may be liable for having knowingly accepted prohibited contributions.

D. Contribution Limitation

Pursuant to 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(1)(A), no person shall make contributions to any candidate and his or her authorized political committees with respect to any election to federal office which, in the aggregate, exceed $1,000. The Act defines "person" to include partnerships. 2 U.S.C. § 431(11). No candidate or political committee shall knowingly accept any contribution made in violation of section 441a. 2 U.S.C. § 441a(f).

III. FACTS AND ANALYSIS

A. Bush-Quayle '92 Michigan Fundraiser

On April 14, 1992, Bush-Quayle '92 held a fundraiser at the Ritz Carlton Hotel in Dearborn, Michigan. Substantial press attention focused on the program the Bush campaign had prepared for the fundraiser. This program, reproduced in the Washington Post article dated April 16, 1992, contains a list of the persons who raised $10,000 or more for the event, described as the campaign's "Host Committee." This list included five business firms (in order of appearance): Chrysler Corporation; Deloitte & Touche; Guardian Industries; Miller Energy Incorporated; and The Upjohn Company.

The article's information about Deloitte & Touche's involvement comes from the firm's administrative assistant who was charged with collecting the checks. According to the article,

Peggy Pentacost collected contributions from 1/3 to 1/2 of the firm's 59 partners, all in the form of personal checks, and forwarded the checks as a package to Bush-Quayle.[5/] Ms. Pentacost reportedly makes clear that the firm's PAC, which could contribute only $5,000 to the Bush campaign, was not at all involved in the activity. The article goes on to state:

> Pentacost was asked why her firm, Deloitte & Touche, was listed as a host--a distinction reserved for donations of at least $10,000. She responded that it was because she told the campaign that the ticket-selling was a "corporation effort," with no one individual responsible.

Attachment D.

Another listed sponsor was Miller Energy Inc., a family-run oil and gas exploration company. The article quotes CEO John Miller as acknowledging that the firm "'did sponsor the event.'" Mr. Miller reportedly raised approximately $15,000 from executives of the firm and of other energy firms, although he explained that this was substantially less than he usually raised in this fashion for the campaigns of former President Reagan.

The article provides little specific information about the other three listed corporations, The Upjohn Co., Chrysler Corp., and Guardian Industries. According to the article, "all said the donations were individual ones not corporate contributions, and were raised partially in the firm and partially outside." Thus, 5/ The contributor chart shows that in the two months prior to the Michigan fundraiser, the Bush-Quayle Committee received 49 contributions totaling $24,825 from Deloitte & Touche employees/partners. Of the 49 contributions, 17 were received on February 21, 1992, totaling $4,500 (Attachment C, 1, 2).

no one on behalf of these firms has offered a public explanation of how the corporation itself came to be listed as responsible for at least $10,000 in contributions for the event.6/

As discussed above, the Act prohibits corporations from giving any support to federal candidates, including publicly funded presidential primary campaigns such as Bush-Quayle '92. Although little information is available about the involvement of several of the companies, the news article raises the question of possible corporate sponsorship of fundraising for the Bush campaign which may not fall within any regulatory exceptions. For this reason, the Office of the General Counsel recommends the Commission find reason to believe that Chrysler Corporation, Guardian Industries, Miller Energy Incorporated, and The Upjohn Company violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a). This Office also recommends a section 441b finding against John Miller, CEO of Miller Energy Incorporated, for consenting to the corporate contribution. This Office has no information about what high level officers of the other firms were involved in solicitation or collection of contributions and so recommends no other section 441b findings against persons associated with the firms at this time.

Deloitte & Touche appears to be a federal contractor to 6/ The contributor chart shows that 14 of the 16 reported contributions from Chrysler Corporation employees in the month of April were received on April 22, 1992, and totaled $12,500. Four contributions from individuals who listed their employer as either Guardian Industries, Miller Energy, or The Upjohn Company totaled $5,000 (Attachment C, 4, 5).

which section 441c's prohibition applies.[7/] As is the case with corporations, federal contractors are prohibited from giving any direct or indirect support to federal candidates. If, as is suggested by the article, Deloitte & Touche contributed something of value to the Bush-Quayle campaign, section 441c's prohibition applies. Therefore, this Office recommends the Commission find reason to believe that Deloitte & Touche violated section 441c.

The newspaper reports also form the basis for reason to believe findings against Bush-Quayle '92. The Washington Post article stated that those who raised contributions of $10,000 or more were rewarded by having their name listed as a sponsor on the program for the event. According to the news report the campaign stated: "We take the law and the spirit of the law very, very seriously. There was no violation. There was a mistake but all those involved had been reprimanded and all our finance people will be reminded of the law." (Attachment D). While the Bush campaign appears to argue that the listing of the corporations on the campaign's own program was a mistake, this listing indicates at least some knowledge by the campaign of the firms' involvement in the raising of the contributions. Therefore, there is reason to believe that the Bush-Quayle '92 Primary Committee, Inc. and J. Stanley Huckaby, as treasurer, accepted the corporate donation of

7/ Deloitte & Touche requested an advisory opinion in January 1991 (AO 1991-1) regarding authorization of periodic credit card contributions to its PAC from Deloitte & Touche employees. In its request, Deloitte & Touche stated that it was a federal government contractor and that none of its partners were individually incorporated (Attachment E, 3).

value, in violation of 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a).

B. Cherry Payment Systems

1. Analysis

According to the Washington Post article dated April 23, 1992, James Elliott is President and Chairman of the Board of Cherry Payment Systems (CPS) an Illinois-based corporation, whose operations in 14 states involves selling credit card and check-approval systems to business and leasing related equipment (Attachment F, 1). According to the article, Mr. Elliott along with a number of CPS executives had previously contributed $1,000 each to the Bush-Quayle '92 Primary Committee in November, 1991.[8/] According to a Washington Post news report, at the insistence of former Illinois Governor James Thompson, Mr. Elliott became a co-chairman of "The President's Dinner," an annual fundraising event held to benefit the National Republican Senatorial Committee (NRSC) and the National Republican Congressional Committee (NRCC). Apparently, Mr. Thompson was a deputy chairman of the Dinner, and picked Mr. Elliott as one of the co-chairmen in his region.[9/] The article describes Mr. Elliott's and his subordinates' efforts to raise contributions for this event from employees of his corporation around the country. As a consequence of these efforts, a former employee named William Neiss filed a wrongful termination lawsuit against Cherry Payment Systems in Wisconsin state court, and much of the article's description of the events is based upon the contents of this suit.

9704380029 59

8/ Indeed, the contributor chart shows that 15 contributions totaling $15,000 were reported received by the Bush-Quayle Committee from Cherry Payment Systems employees. Eight of these contributions totaling $8,000 were received on November 25, 1991 (Attachment C, 1).

9/ Later reports indicate that after the substantial adverse publicity next described, James Elliott withdrew as a co-chairman of the event.

This Office contacted the United States Attorney's office in Madison, Wisconsin to procure copies of the public filings in the case and staff was then put in contact with the District Attorney in the same city. The District Attorney was quite helpful, and forwarded these pleadings as well as numerous other materials including investigative reports compiled by that office.[10] The materials include a letter dated February 14, 1992, which Mr. Elliott sent to the corporation's regional managers across the country. The letter solicited the employee's contributions to the President's Dinner. The letter stated in part: "I am eager to have you join us and am asking for your participation at the highest level at which you may commit."[11]

10/ Separate from Mr. Neiss's civil suit, the District Attorney was investigating possible criminal misdemeanor violations of a Wisconsin statute which makes it illegal for a person to cause another to contribute to a candidate by means of the denial of employment, discharge, or demotion. That provision explicitly extends to contributions to "candidate[s] to national, state or local office." Wisconsin Statute § 12.07(4). Excerpts of the investigative materials provided by the District Attorney are appended as Attachment G, and the balance are on file in the Docket Room of the General Counsel's Office.

11/ The letter included a list of prices that was a part of the event's promotional material. This list indicated that the purchase price of a ticket was $1,500 and the cost of a table was $20,000. As added inducement, individuals purchasing, or selling tickets to, a full table were entitled to attend certain private events which preceded the dinner (Attachment G).

Additionally, the letter instructed employees as to how to donate their money: "You may make your contributions . . . . and forward your check to my secretary . . . . and she will help to co-ordinate the further details." The letter concluded: "My hope would be that you could buy, or fill, at least one table . . ." Another corporate official, regional marketing director Peter Moles, sent follow-up solicitations via facsimile, apparently to the same audience. The article describes at least three such messages, and the quoted passages reflect increasing urgency.12/ The third of Mr. Moles' messages urges the reader to join himself,

9704380296I

12/ A message dated February 14th, just after Mr. Elliott's initial letter, noted:

> I would like to know who is going to be a part of the long term growth of this corporation and there for, [sic] who will be in attendance for this great opportunity, to be able to rub elbows with the most powerful people in this country.

The same message stated:

> If you're asking yourself, can I afford to make this trip, then ask yourself if you can afford not too! [sic]
>
> We will truely [sic] see what kind of cloth your [sic] cut from when I hear from those of you that plan to participate.

(Attachment I, 2).

A final message of February 21, 1992, ordered a reply and noted that those employees who contributed > are going to display their commitment towards . . . this company . . . .

> Let your wallet be your guide. You're either here for the long term, or your [sic] on vacation.

(Attachment I, 4).

Mike Coffey (another regional marketing director), and the company chairman of the board and president at the Dinner. Mr. Neiss alleges that after additional messages and phone calls he called Mr. Moles to decline the invitation and that he was discharged the very next day.

Later news articles describe interviews with other regional sales managers (none of whom would be publicly identified) to the effect that they felt pressure to contribute, but not on pain of discharge. Washington Post, April 24, 1992 (Attachment J, 2). An additional article about Mr. Elliott, however, includes the name of another former employee, J.R. Vaughn, who alleges the same charge as Mr. Neiss, i.e., that he was fired one day after declining to buy a ticket to the President's Dinner. Washington Post, April 28, 1992 (Attachment K).[13/] The later articles also report a statement by Mr. Elliott in response to the suit, acknowledging that 30 employees contributed to the President's Dinner but contending that they had not been coerced, and asserting that Mr. Moles' messages were unauthorized. Washington Post, April 24, 1992 (Attachment J, 2). An Investigative Memo provided to this Office by the Wisconsin District Attorney's office cites CPS' contention that Mr. Neiss was fired for performance reasons (Attachment G, 12). The Memo also noted CPS' disclosure that four office managers of the 30 employees who contributed are no longer in their positions at the firm.[14/]

13/ Mr. Vaughn reportedly was told it would be "easier to get a manager who was a team player."

From the actual correspondence sent by Mr. Elliott and his subordinate, it appears that Cherry Payment Systems President and Chairman Elliott solicited federal campaign contributions from a large class of corporate employees and that corporate subordinates may have been involved in monitoring responses. It appears that this was a corporate undertaking, and thus there is no exception under 11 C.F.R. § 114.9 for individual volunteer activity to cover the activity in question. The possible monitoring of every recipient's response to the solicitation and apparent collection of the contribution checks by Mr. Elliott's secretary suggest that the corporation's involvement also may have gone beyond 2 U.S.C. § 441b's "communication" exception. Therefore, it appears that Cherry Payment Systems contributed something of value in connection with a federal election in violation of 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a).

For all of these reasons, this Office recommends the Commission find reason to believe that Cherry Payment Systems, Inc. and James R. Elliott violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a). Regarding 14/ Following his investigation, Dane County Wisconsin District Attorney C. William Foust revealed that he would not file any criminal charges against James Elliott. This Office received a letter dated June 18, 1992, from DA Foust in which he concluded that Mr. Neiss' allegations were "unprovable." (Attachment L, 1). In a letter dated June 11, 1992, to Moles' defense counsel, DA Foust revealed that of the 3,200 Cherry Payment Systems employees throughout the country, only 36 bought tickets to the Dinner. Of the 130 CPS managers only 21 bought tickets (Attachment L, 2, 3). With respect to Mr. Neiss, witnesses in Madison, Wisconsin informed the DA that Neiss predicted his own removal from office for performance reasons.

CPS regional marketing directors Peter Moles and Michael Coffey, it is uncertain whether they are titled "officers" of CPS. However, their high posts within the corporation and their level of management responsibilities suggest that Messrs. Moles and Coffey are "officers" within the meaning of section 441b(a) who may have consented to the corporate contributions. See, e.g., MUR 2575. Therefore, this Office also recommends that the Commission find reason to believe that Peter Moles and Mike Coffey violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a). Pending investigation, this Office makes no recommendations regarding other executives of Cherry Payment Systems.

The April 23, 1992 news article quotes an NRCC official as disclaiming any knowledge of the issue raised by Mr. Neiss's lawsuit. Significantly, it is not knowledge of the corporate solicitation that is disclaimed, but rather only the alleged coercion involved: "If employees were coerced, we repudiate it" (Attachment F, 1). This same position is attributed to James Thompson, a deputy chairman of the Dinner who had recruited Mr. Elliott to participate and is reportedly Mr. Elliott's counsel: "He [Thompson] said if employees believed they were being coerced, it was 'a misunderstanding.'" As a co-chairman and a deputy chairman of the President's Dinner, Messrs. Elliott and Thompson may have been authorized to raise funds on behalf of the benefiting political committees. As discussed above, political committees are chargeable with the knowledge the individual fundraising agents have regarding the circumstances under which the contributions are raised. The "President's Dinner/aka 1992 Republican Senate-House Dinner Committee" was the joint fundraising committee of the NRSC and NRCC for this event. Therefore, this Office recommends that the Commission find reason to believe that the National Republican Congressional Committee and Donna Singleton, as treasurer, the National Republican Senatorial Committee and James L. Nagan, as treasurer, and the President's Dinner/aka 1992 Republican Senate-House Dinner Committee, and J. Stanley Huckaby, as treasurer, violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a).

2. Additional Issues

Two potential issues are raised by the articles which discuss the President's Dinner. Although the amounts solicited as contributions substantially exceeded the $1,000 that individuals could permissibly give to the Bush campaign, the strong suggestion from the title of the event was that it was on behalf of George Bush. According to the April 23rd Post article, "Elliott and his team suggested it was a Bush campaign event." (Attachment F, 1). Indeed, later news articles describe Bush campaign materials at the Dinner itself:

> Bush campaign officials bent over backwards to distance the president from the event. A large "Bush-Quayle" sign in the hall disappeared shortly before the dinner. "It started falling, so, for safety's sake, we took it down," explained a dinner spokesman. "Bush-Quayle" headbands on Styrofoam party hats were also removed because "the way the words were" looked too much like the campaign logo.

Washington Post, April 29, 1992 (Attachment FF). Along the same lines, the Washington Times reported:

> [J]ust before the 4,000 high-rolling guests began to arrive for Tuesday Night's President's Dinner - which raised more > than $9 million -- organizers and volunteers frantically ripped off the "Bush/Quayle '92" stickers that had adorned the Styrofoam brims.

>
> It was all a question of avoiding any impropriety, dinner organizer Rich Galen said.
> "The design was too reminiscent of the campaign logo," he explained. "We didn't want there to be any confusion about the nature of the event."

Washington Times, May 1, 1992 (Attachment M). On the other hand, the solicitation material does appear to make clear that the NRCC and NRSC were the beneficiaries of the fundraiser (Attachment H, 6). This Office does not therefore make any recommendations on these facts.

A second additional issue is presented, however, in connection with the necessary allocation of expenses for the Dinner, because the Dinner also solicited "soft money" contributions prohibited under the Act (Attachment H, 5).[15/]

Another article published after the Dinner reported that a trade association and two companies contributed beef tenderloin, mineral water and brandy for the approximately 4,000 Dinner guests. New York Times, April 28, 1992, "President's Dinner Draws Donations, and Criticism" (Attachment O, 1). Under 11 C.F.R. § 104.13(a)(2), in-kind contributions are reported as expenditures. The Regulations also require that for events intended to raise a mix of federal and non-federal funds, each fundraising expenditure be allocated between the party committee's 15/ Later news articles reported that the President's Dinner allegedly received more than $2 million dollars from corporations or from individuals in excess of federal limitations. Baltimore Sun, April 29, 1992 (Attachment N, 1).

9704380029966

federal and non-federal accounts, 11 C.F.R. § 106.5(g)(1)(i), (ii) (contemplating mix of federal and non-federal funds be used to pay for each allocable expense). Since news reports indicate that the entire fundraising expenditure in the form of in-kind support came from corporate entities, possible section 441b(a) violations are raised by these transactions. This issue will be included in the inquiry into the committees' possible section 441b violations.[16/]

C. Goldman, Sachs & Co.

According to the Washington Post article dated April 20, 1992, at least 60 partners of this Wall Street brokerage firm contributed to Clinton for President. Kenneth Brody, reportedly the Clinton campaign's chief fundraiser in New York, is a limited partner of the firm and apparently was the person responsible for the contributions. According to the newspaper report, Mr. Brody stated, "[t]here is no central direction at all....It is solely the fact that they're my friends, not that they happen to be partners." The article, however, contrasts this statement with that of another partner, David DeLucia, who is listed as having contributed to the Clinton campaign but at first did not remember making the contribution: "'I may have' contributed, he said in a telephone interview last week, 'through another partner at our firm....Sometimes [partners] ask their friends to attend breakfasts or lunches to raise money for politicians.'"

9704380029967

16/ In AOR 1992-33, the Commission is presently considering an advisory opinion request on the treatment of corporate in-kind donations for mixed federal and non-federal events and expenses by national party committees.

(Attachment P, 1).

The contributor chart shows that all of the 65 Goldman, Sachs contributions totaling $55,800 were received on one of nine dates. Of this total, 29 contributions totaling $38,300 were received on December 13 and December 18, 1991. Goldman, Sachs partners have contributed nearly $56,000 to the Clinton campaign to date. The number and pattern of contributions suggests an organized solicitation of high-level Goldman, Sachs employees (partners) which may not fairly be attributed to an effort independent of the brokerage firm or an effort independent of Mr. Brody's employment at the brokerage firm. As such, Goldman, Sachs may have contributed something of value to the Clinton campaign.

Although Goldman, Sachs is a partnership and not a corporation, the brokerage firm may be a federal contractor prohibited from making any contribution to the Clinton campaign. This prohibition is analogous to the corporate prohibition set forth in section 441b. In its request for an Advisory Opinion in 1985, Goldman, Sachs stated that it was under contract with the U.S. Department of Transportation (Attachment Q, 1).[17/] As previously set forth, section 441c prohibits federal contractors from contributing anything of value to federal candidates. If, as is suggested by the article, Goldman, Sachs contributed something "of value" to the Clinton campaign, the partnership may be in violation of section 441c. Therefore, this Office recommends the Commission find reason to believe that Goldman, Sachs & Co. violated 2 U.S.C. § 441c.

17/ A corporate subsidiary of Goldman, Sachs & Co. requested clarification as to its ability to establish a separate segregated fund since its stock is solely owned by Goldman, Sachs, a limited partnership which is a Federal contractor. Although this Office has been unable to determine whether Goldman, Sachs continues to be a federal contractor, in its request, Goldman, Sachs asked the Commission to assume it would remain one in the future.

According to a news report, the Clinton campaign acknowledged the Goldman, Sachs contributions. The report quoted a Clinton campaign spokesman: "We try to comply with the law as best we know how. There are people at Goldman, Sachs that did not write checks." Washington Post April 20, 1992. As a Goldman, Sachs partner, Kenneth Brody presumably possessed knowledge of Goldman, Sachs' status as a federal contractor. Additionally, news reports indicate that Brody may have been a fundraising agent for the Clinton campaign. If so, the Clinton campaign is chargeable with Brody's knowledge of Goldman, Sachs' status as a federal contractor and so this Office recommends that the Commission find reason to believe that the Clinton for President Committee and Robert A. Farmer, as treasurer, violated section 441c. From the news reports, it appears that Mr. Brody initiated the fundraising activity on behalf of the Committee. Therefore, this Office recommends that the Commission find reason to believe that Kenneth Brody solicited contributions from a federal contractor, in violation of 2 U.S.C. § 441c.

This Office recommends alternative findings if Goldman, Sachs is no longer a federal government contractor. First, an issue presented is whether Goldman, Sachs should have reported to the Clinton campaign and to the Commission as a conduit. See 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(1). In AO 1986-4, the Commission made clear that conduits receiving earmarked contributions must report their activity to the Commission in accordance with 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(8). As discussed above, it appears that the fundraising activity cannot be attributed to the individual volunteer effort of Kenneth Brody. Goldman, Sachs did not report as a conduit with respect to the contributions it may have collected on behalf of the Clinton campaign. Therefore, this Office recommends the Commission find reason to believe Goldman, Sachs violated 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(8) and 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(1).

The news reports do not clearly indicate the extent of Goldman, Sachs' contribution to the Clinton campaign. However, in AO 1980-46, the Commission set forth the principle that a conduit's indirect costs associated with the making of a contribution (e.g., in this case, company time, resources, and facilities) constitute in-kind contributions to the benefiting campaign. Further, the value of the firm's facilitation of contributions is measured not only by the direct costs involved. Cf. MUR 1690 (value of corporate facilitation of contributions measured in part by resulting contributions). Indeed, there may be a question whether the contributions themselves are chargeable to the partnership in view of the firm's possible orchestration of the contributions, 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(d); cf. AO 1986-4. For all of these reasons, this Office alternatively recommends the Commission find reason to believe that Goldman, Sachs made an excessive contribution in violation of section 441a(a)(1)(A).

This Office also recommends parallel alternative findings against the Clinton campaign. As discussed above, news reports indicate that the Clinton campaign was aware of Goldman, Sachs' involvement and that Kenneth Brody may have been a fundraising agent for the campaign. The Clinton campaign did not, however, disclose the Goldman, Sachs contributions as received through a conduit. See 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(2). Additionally, the campaign may have accepted excessive contributions from Goldman, Sachs. See 2 U.S.C. § 441a(f). Therefore, this Office recommends the Commission find reason to believe the Clinton for President Committee and Robert A. Farmer, as treasurer, violated 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(2) and 2 U.S.C. § 441a(f).

D. IBM Corp.

According to the April 20 Post article, IBM Chairman and Chief Executive Officer John F. Akers served as co-chairman at a New York fundraiser for President Bush on November 12, 1991. The same Post article revealed that nineteen senior executives at IBM gave $14,500 to the Bush campaign, apparently in connection with the fundraiser.[18/] In addition to the executives, Bush also reportedly received at least $6,000 from spouses or relatives of IBM executives. According to the Post article, IBM spokesman Michael Dutton said that the decision to make contributions was voluntary and that not all executives who made contributions attended the fundraiser. The Post article quoted Dutton:

18/ The contributor chart shows that 24 contributions totaling $17,520 were received from IBM employees of which 18 contributions totaling $14,000 were received on November 14, 1991 (Attachment C, 4, 5).

"Apparently, it was addressed by phone or in a group... It was presented as a voluntary situation." Washington Post, April 20, 1992 (Attachment P, 1). It is significant that the Washington Post article reported that IBM does not deny organized solicitation of corporate executives. Further, the statement suggests that IBM utilized corporate facilities in this endeavor.

As previously discussed, 11 C.F.R. § 114.9 allows corporate employees to make occasional, isolated or incidental use of the premises for "individual volunteer activity." IBM employees contributed over $17,000 to the Bush campaign. If, as is suggested by the Post article, John Akers solicited contributions from high-level IBM executives in an organized manner, it is questionable whether Mr. Akers could have been acting independent of his employment at IBM. Indeed, several employee contribution check copies provided to this Office by the Audit Division include notes on the memo line to this effect: "solicited by John Akers." Other checks contained the phrase "Akers/NY." (Attachment R). While it is unclear how contributions were forwarded, Dutton's reported statement that not all contributors attended the fundraiser suggests that the contributions may have been collected and forwarded by the corporation. Therefore, this Office recommends the Commission find reason to believe that IBM and John Akers violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a).

As discussed above, section 441c prohibits federal contractors from contributing anything of value to federal elections. This Office understands that IBM may be currently under contract for computer software with the federal government.[19] As Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of IBM, it can be assumed that John Akers had knowledge of this situation. Therefore this Office recommends the Commission find reason to believe that IBM and John Akers violated section 441c.

At this point, it is unclear whether the Bush campaign knew of the circumstances under which the IBM executives' contributions were made. However, John Akers is described as a co-chairman of the fundraiser for which the executives' contributions were collected. Because he may have been a fundraising agent of the Bush campaign, the Bush campaign may be chargeable with knowledge of the circumstances surrounding the IBM contributions as well as IBM's status as a federal government contractor. Therefore, this Office recommends the Commission find reason to believe that the Bush-Quayle '92 Primary Committee Inc. and J. Stanley Huckaby, as treasurer, violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b and 2 U.S.C. § 441c.

E. Universal Medical Buildings

Joe Checota is a U.S. Senate candidate and the Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of a Milwaukee corporation, Universal Medical Buildings. Many of Mr. Checota's more than 100 employees at University Medical Buildings were reportedly asked to contribute a portion of their salaries to his U.S. Senate Campaign. "Checota Firm Workers Urged to Aid Race," Milwaukee Journal, April 15, 1992 (Attachment 8, 1). According to three 19/ This information was obtained from publicly available sources within the General Services Administration's Federal Supply Service Bureau.

---

employees (none of whom would be publicly identified), they and their co-workers were called into meetings with their supervisors on March 31, 1992, the date of a Checota fundraiser, and allegedly asked to give 1% of their yearly salary to the campaign.[20/] Company executives reportedly solicited other employees over the phone and asked them to give whatever amount they wished. Although the article states that employees were not ordered to donate, some were asked a second time after initially declining.[21/]

Three of the four Checota employees the Milwaukee Journal interviewed reportedly regarded the solicitations as highly inappropriate. The Journal reported that one employee said that there was a "revolving door" of employees called in to see their supervisors on March 31, 1992. The same employee was reportedly told by a supervisor: "We're asking all of our employees to donate one point of our annual income to the campaign." Milwaukee Journal, April 15, 1992 (Attachment S, 2).

Mr. Checota's campaign reportedly denied his involvement with the requests. According to the Journal article, Bill Christofferson, Mr. Checota's political consultant, stated:

I can tell you flat-out that Checota did not direct 20/ The contributor chart shows that 18 contributions totaling $13,000 were made by Universal Medical Buildings employees, 15 of which totaling $10,900 were made on March 31, 1992, the reported date of the Checota fundraiser (Attachment C, 5).

21/ According to the Journal article, one employee who was upset over the solicitation revealed: "Nobody says no to Joe Checota. That's the atmosphere there. If you say no, you really don't know what to expect. He's the guy that signs our paychecks." Milwaukee Journal, April 15, 1992 (Attachment T, 3).

> that to be done. Checota himself has not solicited anyone in the company. Checota himself has made it quite clear to the company's employees that they were not required to give.

The article states that Mr. Christofferson pointed out the invitation sent to employees for the March 31 fundraiser read: "no contribution is required; your presence is the important thing."

As previously set forth, section 441b prohibits corporations from contributing anything of value to federal candidates. A corporate effort to collect contributions from most of a company's employees would fall outside the exception for individual volunteer activity, 11 C.F.R. § 114.9(a)(1), as well as the exception for internal communications, 11 C.F.R. § 114.3(a)(1). Such corporate fundraising for federal candidates would result in a donation of something of value to the recipient campaign in violation of section 441b(a). Further, in light of this corporation's alleged direct appeal to subordinates, the alleged frequency of appeals, as well as the candidate to whom the contributions were to be made, Universal Medical Buildings may have exercised direction or control over the resulting contributions. See AO 1986-4. Therefore, this Office recommends the Commission find reason to believe that Universal Medical Buildings violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a).

As chairman of the company, Joe Checota reportedly knew of the organized solicitation done on his behalf -- his protests in the press dealt mainly with the idea that the employees were not coerced. Thus, Checota may have consented to the corporate contributions and so this Office recommends the Commission find reason to believe that Joe Checota violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a). If in fact Mr. Checota consented to the contributions, he was simultaneously the benefiting candidate. Indeed, Edith Peters, the treasurer of the Joe Checota for Senate Campaign, is also the controller of the company. Therefore, the Joe Checota for Senate Campaign and Mr. Checota as the candidate, may have accepted something of value from the corporation, in violation of section 441b. Therefore, this Office recommends the Commission find reason to believe that the Joe Checota for Senate Campaign and Edith Peters, as treasurer, and Joe Checota violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a).

IV. INVESTIGATION

With respect to the firms involved in the fundraising events, this Office will seek all letters, memos, and records of oral and written communications related to the events from: Cherry Payment Systems; Chrysler Corporation; Deloitte & Touche; Goldman, Sachs & Co.; Guardian Industries; IBM; Miller Energy Inc.; Universal Medical Buildings; and The Upjohn Company. Because of this Office's desire to proceed expeditiously in this matter, this Office recommends that the Commission issue subpoenas, and we have attached a sample subpoena for documents (Attachment V, page 1). Additionally, this Office recommends that the Commission approve deposition subpoenas to all of the above-listed firms to present persons knowledgeable of the circumstances under which contributions were raised (sample at Attachment U, page 1). Also, this Office recommends deposition subpoenas for the following individuals identified by the news reports as persons involved with the raising of contributions: Peggy Pentacost; John Miller; James Elliott; James Thompson; Peter Moles; Mike Coffey; William Neiss; Kenneth Brody; John Akers; Joe Checota; and Edith Peters.

To fully explore whether corporate facilitated contributions were made, this Office will also seek information from the recipient committees. This Office has prepared more limited document subpoenas to the committees to discover communications (both oral and written) relating to fundraising activities between the firms listed above and the following committees: Bush-Quayle '92 Primary Committee, Inc.; NRSC; NRCC; The President's Dinner/aka 1992 Republican Senate-House Dinner Committee; Clinton for President Committee; and Joe Checota for Senate Campaign (sample at Attachment V, page 5). Also, this Office has attached a sample deposition subpoena to these Committees to present all persons who had contacts with the above-listed firms and their representatives (Attachment U, page 2).

MEMORANDUM

TO: The Commission

FROM: Lawrence M. Noble
General Counsel

BY: Lois G. Lerner
Associate General Counsel

SUBJECT: Pre-MUR 259

On October 20, 1992, the Commission made numerous reason to believe findings in this matter and approved the Factual and Legal Analyses attached to the General Counsel's Report without revision. There was, however, an inconsistency in the reason to believe finding and Factual and Legal Analysis regarding the Bush-Quayle '92 Primary Committee. Specifically, in light of Commissioner Thomas' recusal regarding IBM and Upjohn Company, the Bush-Quayle '92 reason to believe finding (by a vote of 4-2) excluded these firms and the Factual and Legal Analysis should reflect this exclusion. This Office recommends that the Commission rescind approval of the Factual and Legal Analysis for Bush-Quayle '92 and approve the revised attached Factual and Legal Analysis. The revised analysis excludes all mention of the IBM and Upjohn Company contributions. It should be noted that the Commission's reason to believe findings against these two firms themselves are unaffected by this revision.

In addition, the Commission's reason to believe finding regarding Bush-Quayle '92 is altered by the recusal. Because the 2 U.S.C. § 441c (government contractor) finding was based on IBM Chief Executive Officer John Akers' apparent role as co-chairman of a Bush-Quayle '92 fundraiser (see General Counsel's Report pp. 26-28), this Office recommends that the Commission rescind the 441c finding against Bush-Quayle '92.

Finally, if there are any objections to these recommendations, this Office requests that this matter be placed on the agenda for Tuesday, October 27, 1992.

9704380299C

RECOMMENDATIONS

1. Rescind approval of the Factual and Legal Analysis for the Bush-Quayle '92 Primary Committee Inc. and J. Stanley Huckaby, as treasurer.

2. Approve the revised attached Factual and Legal Analysis for for the Bush-Quayle '92 Primary Committee Inc. and J. Stanley Huckaby, as treasurer.

3. Rescind the 2 U.S.C. § 441c finding against the Bush-Quayle '92 Primary Committee Inc. and J. Stanley Huckaby, as treasurer.

FEDERAL ELECTION COMMISSION
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20463

November 4, 1992

Kenneth Brody
c/o Goldman, Sachs & Company

New York, NY 10004

RE: MUR 3672

Dear Mr. Brody:

On October 20, 1992, the Federal Election Commission found that there is reason to believe you violated 2 U.S.C. § 441c, a provision of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("the Act"). The Factual and Legal Analysis, which formed a basis for the Commission's finding, is attached for your information.

Under the Act, you have an opportunity to demonstrate that no action should be taken against you. You may submit any factual or legal materials that you believe are relevant to the Commission's consideration of this matter. Please submit such materials to the General Counsel's Office within 30 days of your receipt of this letter. Where appropriate, statements should be submitted under oath.

In the absence of any additional information demonstrating that no further action should be taken against you the Commission may find probable cause to believe that a violation has occurred and proceed with conciliation.

If you are interested in pursuing pre-probable cause conciliation, you should so request in writing. See 11 C.F.R. § 111.18(d). Upon receipt of the request, the Office of the General Counsel will make recommendations to the Commission either proposing an agreement in settlement of the matter or recommending declining that pre-probable cause conciliation be pursued. The Office of the General Counsel may recommend that pre-probable cause conciliation not be entered into at this time so that it may complete its investigation of the matter. Further, the Commission will not entertain requests for pre-probable cause conciliation after briefs on probable cause have been mailed to the respondent.

Requests for extensions of time will not be routinely granted. Requests must be made in writing at least five days prior to the due date of the response and specific good cause must be demonstrated. In addition, the Office of the General Counsel ordinarily will not give extensions beyond 20 days.

If you intend to be represented by counsel in this matter, please advise the Commission by completing the enclosed form stating the name, address, and telephone number of such counsel, and authorizing such counsel to receive any notifications and other communications from the Commission.

This matter will remain confidential in accordance with 2 U.S.C. §§ 437g(a)(4)(B) and 437g(a)(12)(A), unless you notify the Commission in writing that you wish the investigation to be made public.

For your information, we have enclosed a brief description of the Commission's procedures for handling possible violations of the Act. If you have any questions, please contact Richard M. Zanfardino at (202) 219-3690.

FEDERAL ELECTION COMMISSION

FACTUAL AND LEGAL ANALYSIS

RESPONDENT: Kenneth D. Brody MUR: 3672

A. Generation of Matter

In the ordinary course of carrying out its supervisory responsibilities, the Federal Election Commission has discovered that Kenneth Brody may have violated the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("the Act").

B. Legal Principles

1. Corporate Contributions

Pursuant to 2 U.S.C. § 441b, it is unlawful for any corporation to make a contribution or expenditure in connection with a Federal election, or for a candidate or political committee knowingly to accept such a contribution. It is also unlawful for any corporate officer or director to consent to any such contribution. This broad prohibition extends to "anything of value" given to a federal candidate or campaign. 2 U.S.C. § 441b(b)(2).

Although corporations are prohibited from making any such contribution, the Act exempts a corporation's internal communications with its executive and administrative personnel. 2 U.S.C. § 441b(b)(2)(A).[1/] The Commission's regulations thus permit a corporation to make partisan communications to its restricted class, including endorsing candidates and urging their support. 11 C.F.R. § 114.3(a)(1),(c)(1); Advisory Opinions 1987-29, 1982-2. The Commission has repeatedly made clear, however, that corporations may not step beyond the line of "communication" to actually collecting contribution checks or otherwise facilitating the making of contributions to a Federal candidate. See Advisory Opinions 1987-29, 1986-4, 1982-2, and 1977 Explanation and Justification (describing permissible corporate communication).

1/ Elaboration of the class of corporate employees that fall within this exception is found at 2 U.S.C. § 441b(b)(7) and 11 C.F.R. § 114.1(c) of the Commission's regulations.

9704380299 96

Other Commission regulations provide that employees of a corporation may make "occasional, isolated or incidental use of the facilities of a corporation for individual volunteer activity in connection with a Federal election...." 11 C.F.R. § 114.9(a)(1). Employees must reimburse the corporation only for any increased overhead or operating costs. Id. In MUR 1690, however, the Office of the General Counsel advised the Commission that "the plain intent of [11 C.F.R. § 114.9(a)]... excludes from the scope of 'individual volunteer activity' collective enterprises where the top executives of firms direct their subordinates in fundraising projects..., use resources of the corporation such as lists of vendors and customers..., solicit whole classes of corporate executives and employees..., or attempt to ensure that the corporation is the beneficiary of the candidate's appreciation...." General Counsel's Report dated October 2,

In summary, where fundraising activities involve the use of corporate resources and facilities and such activities are beyond the safe harbor of the Act and regulation's exceptions, the corporation has contributed something "of value" to the beneficiary candidate, in violation of 2 U.S.C. § 441b.

Additionally, the manner in which company fundraising from employees or vendors takes place may have consequences under other generally applicable provisions of the Act. Where contributions are "earmarked or otherwise directed through an intermediary or conduit to such candidate," the Act requires the "intermediary or conduit" to report such transmissions. 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(8). The Commission's regulations in this area, newly revised in 1989, define "conduit or intermediary" to include "any person who receives and forwards an earmarked contribution to a candidate," 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2), and explains that campaign employees, full-time volunteers, or individuals who have significant positions within the campaign who are expressly authorized to fundraise are not conduits for purpose of the regulations, 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2)(i)(A),(E).

Under these regulations, if a person collects contributions as a conduit, and exercises "direction or control" over the making of the contribution, the contribution is chargeable to the conduit's limit for the recipient candidate in addition to the limit of the actual donor.[2/] 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(d)(2). This regulation was based on the 1974 Conference Committee Report on the earmarking provision at section 441a(a)(8), stating that "if a person exercises any direct or indirect control over the making of a contribution, then such contribution shall count toward the limitation imposed with respect to such person" under the Act. H.R. Conf. Rep. No. 93-1438, 93rd Cong., 2d Sess. 51 (1974), reprinted in Legislative History of the Federal Election Campaign Act Amendments of 1974, at 995, 996 (1977). Corporations are explicitly forbidden from acting as conduits for contributions, 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2)(ii). Nonetheless, following Congress' broadly expressed intent, corporations that exercise any control over contributions should be responsible for these contributions, i.e. the contributions themselves are chargeable to the corporation.

The Commission articulated this position in Advisory Opinion 1986-4. There, the Commission concluded that where a company collects contributions to candidates from its executives, actively persuading its executives to participate, and deciding what candidate would be supported and in what amount, the corporation would "exercise direction and control over the making of such earmarked contributions as well as act as the conduit and intermediary for them."[3/] It follows that if a company through its officers employs coercive tactics in order to collect contributions, it plainly exercises control over the contributions. "[Where] a job or livelihood may be jeopardized by a refusal to comply, and the contact between solicitor and solicitee may be direct and personal . . . the potential clearly exists for earmarked contributions to have been 'directed or controlled' by means of coercion, harassment, or undue pressure." Statement of Reasons, Commissioner Josefiak, MUR 2282, p. 14. Thus, in addition to contributing something "of value" by facilitating the making of contributions, under the settled principles discussed above, the resulting contributions would be chargeable to the company itself. Indeed, this conclusion should follow in any circumstances similar to that envisioned in AO 1986-4 where a company orchestrates a fundraising activity for the benefit of a specific candidate and asks a class of its employees to participate.

2/ Furthermore, in AO 1980-46 the Commission stated that expenditures made by the conduit or intermediary for the purpose of solicitation are considered in-kind contributions to the candidate and are reportable as such. 2 U.S.C. § 434. Once the conduit collects and forwards the checks to the candidate, the candidate's acceptance of the checks constitutes acceptance of the costs incurred by the conduit in connection with the solicitation. See AO 1980-46.

2. Federal Government Contractor Prohibition

Section 441c expressly prohibits any person who enters into a U.S. government contract directly or indirectly to make any contribution of money or other things of value, to any federal candidate. 2 U.S.C. § 441c(a)(1) and 11 C.F.R.

3/ Section 441b's broad prohibition of "direct or indirect" gifts of anything of value, see 2 U.S.C. § 441b(b)(2), provides further support for this conclusion.

9704380300C

§ 115.2. Additionally, section 441c makes it illegal for any person "knowingly to solicit any such contribution . . . " 2 U.S.C. § 441c(a)(2).

Pursuant to section 431(9)(A)(11), a partnership is considered a "person." As such, the regulations state: "[t]he assets of a partnership which is a Federal contractor may not be used to make contributions or expenditures in connection with Federal elections." 11 C.F.R. § 115.4(a). However, individual partners and employees of the partnership are permitted to make contributions in their own names from their personal assets. 11 C.F.R. § 115.4(b),(c). See also AO 1991-1.

Additionally, a federal contractor is prohibited from acting as a conduit. The regulations provide: "Any person who is prohibited from making contributions or expenditures in connection with an election for Federal office shall be prohibited from acting as a conduit for contributions earmarked to candidates or their authorized committees." 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2)(E)(ii).

In conclusion, neither corporations nor federal contractors are permitted to contribute anything of value to federal elections. Thus, the prohibitions which limit corporate activity similarly limit the activity of federal contractors.

C. Analysis

Kenneth Brody, reportedly the Clinton campaign's chief fundraiser in New York, is a limited partner of Goldman,

Sachs & Co. According to a news report, at least 60 Goldman, Sachs partners contributed to Clinton for President. It appears that Mr. Brody was the person responsible for the contributions. According to the newspaper report, Brody stated, "[t]here is no central direction at all....It is solely the fact that they're my friends, not that they happen to be partners." Washington Post, April 20, 1992. The article, however, contrasts this statement with that of another partner, David DeLucia, who is listed as having contributed to the Clinton campaign but at first did not remember making the contribution: "'I may have' contributed, he said in a telephone interview last week, 'through another partner at our firm....Sometimes [partners] ask their friends to attend breakfasts or lunches to raise money for politicians.'" Washington Post, April 20, 1992.

The Commission's records show that all of the 65 Goldman, Sachs contributions totaling $55,800 were received on one of nine dates. Of this total, 29 contributions totaling $38,300 were received on December 13 and December 18, 1991. Goldman, Sachs partners have contributed nearly $56,000 to the Clinton campaign to date. The number and pattern of contributions suggests an organized solicitation of high-level Goldman, Sachs employees (partners) which may not fairly be attributed to an effort independent of the brokerage firm or an effort independent of Mr. Brody's employment at the brokerage firm. As such, Goldman-Sachs may have contributed something of value to the Clinton campaign.

Although Goldman, Sachs is a partnership and not a corporation, the brokerage firm may be a federal contractor prohibited from making any contribution to the Clinton campaign. This prohibition is analogous to the corporate prohibition set forth in 2 U.S.C. § 441b. In its request for an Advisory Opinion in 1985, Goldman, Sachs stated that it was under contract with the U.S. Department of Transportation.[4/] As previously set forth, section 441c prohibits federal contractors from contributing anything of value to federal candidates.

As a Goldman, Sachs partner, Kenneth Brody presumably possessed knowledge of Goldman, Sachs' status as a federal contractor. Additionally, news reports indicate that Mr. Brody may have been a fundraising agent for the Clinton campaign. From the news reports, it appears that Mr. Brody initiated the fundraising activity on behalf of the Clinton campaign. Therefore, there is reason to believe that Kenneth Brody solicited contributions from a federal contractor, in violation of 2 U.S.C. § 441c.

4/ A corporate subsidiary of Goldman, Sachs Co. requested clarification as to its ability to establish a separate segregated fund since its stock is solely owned by Goldman, Sachs, a limited partnership which is a federal contractor. In its request, Goldman, Sachs asked the Commission to assume it would remain a federal contractor in the future.

FEDERAL ELECTION COMMISSION

FACTUAL AND LEGAL ANALYSIS

RESPONDENT: Goldman, Sachs & Co. MUR: 3672

A. Generation of Matter

In the ordinary course of carrying out its supervisory responsibilities, the Federal Election Commission has discovered that Goldman, Sachs & Co. may have violated the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("the Act").

B. Legal Principles

1. Corporate Prohibitions

Pursuant to 2 U.S.C. § 441b, it is unlawful for any corporation to make a contribution or expenditure in connection with a Federal election, or for a candidate or political committee knowingly to accept such a contribution. It is also unlawful for any corporate officer or director to consent to any such contribution. This broad prohibition extends to "anything of value" given to a federal candidate or campaign. 2 U.S.C. § 441b(b)(2).

Although corporations are prohibited from making any such contribution, the Act exempts a corporation's internal communications with its executive and administrative personnel. 2 U.S.C. § 441b(b)(2)(A).[1] The Commission's regulations thus permit a corporation to make partisan communications to its restricted class, including endorsing candidates and urging their support. 11 C.F.R. § 114.3(a)(1),(c)(1); Advisory Opinions 1987-29, 1982-2. The Commission has repeatedly made clear, however, that corporations may not step beyond the line of "communication" to actually collecting contribution checks or otherwise facilitating the making of contributions to a Federal candidate. See Advisory Opinions 1987-29, 1986-4, 1982-2, and 1977 Explanation and Justification (describing permissible corporate communication).

1. Elaboration of the class of corporate employees that fall within this exception is found at 2 U.S.C. § 441b(b)(7) and 11 C.F.R. § 114.1(c) of the Commission's regulations.

9704380301C

Other Commission regulations provide that employees of a corporation may make "occasional, isolated or incidental use of the facilities of a corporation for individual volunteer activity in connection with a Federal election...." 11 C.F.R. § 114.9(a)(1). Employees must reimburse the corporation only for any increased overhead or operating costs. Id. In MUR 1690, however, the Office of the General Counsel advised the Commission that "the plain intent of [11 C.F.R. § 114.9(a)]... excludes from the scope of 'individual volunteer activity' collective enterprises where the top executives of firms direct their subordinates in fundraising projects..., use resources of the corporation such as lists of vendors and customers..., solicit whole classes of corporate executives and employees..., or attempt to ensure that the corporation is the beneficiary of the candidate's appreciation...." General Counsel's Report dated October 2,

In summary, where fundraising activities involve the use of corporate resources and facilities and such activities are beyond the safe harbor of the Act and regulation's exceptions, the corporation has contributed something "of value" to the beneficiary candidate, in violation of section 441b.

Additionally, the manner in which company fundraising from employees or vendors takes place may have consequences under other generally applicable provisions of the Act. Where contributions are "earmarked or otherwise directed through an intermediary or conduit to such candidate," the Act requires the "intermediary or conduit" to report such transmissions. 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(8). The Commission's regulations in this area, newly revised in 1989, define "conduit or intermediary" to include "any person who receives and forwards an earmarked contribution to a candidate," 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2), and explains that campaign employees, full-time volunteers, or individuals who have significant positions within the campaign who are expressly authorized to fundraise are not conduits for purpose of the regulations, 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2)(i)(A),(E).

Under these regulations, if a person collects contributions as a conduit, and exercises "direction or control" over the making of the contribution, the contribution is chargeable to the conduit's limit for the recipient candidate in addition to the limit of the actual donor.[2] 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(d)(2). This regulation was based on the 1974 Conference Committee Report on the earmarking provision at section 441a(a)(8), stating that "if a person exercises any direct or indirect control over the making of a contribution, then such contribution shall count toward the limitation imposed with respect to such person" under the Act. H.R. Conf. Rep. No. 93-1438, 93rd Cong., 2d Sess. 51 (1974), reprinted in Legislative History of the Federal Election Campaign Act Amendments of 1974, at 995, 996 (1977). Corporations are explicitly forbidden from acting as conduits for contributions, 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2)(ii). Nonetheless, following Congress' broadly expressed intent, corporations that exercise any control over contributions should be responsible for these contributions, i.e. the contributions themselves are chargeable to the corporation.

The Commission articulated this position in Advisory Opinion 1986-4. There, the Commission concluded that where a company collects contributions to candidates from its executives, actively persuading its executives to participate, and deciding what candidate would be supported and in what amount, the corporation would "exercise direction and control over the making of such earmarked contributions

2. Furthermore, in AO 1980-46 the Commission stated that expenditures made by the conduit or intermediary for the purpose of solicitation are considered in-kind contributions to the candidate and are reportable as such. 2 U.S.C. § 434. Once the conduit collects and forwards the checks to the candidate, the candidate's acceptance of the checks constitutes acceptance of the costs incurred by the conduit in connection with the solicitation. See AO 1980-46.

as well as act as the conduit and intermediary for them."[3] It follows that if a company through its officers employs coercive tactics in order to collect contributions, it plainly exercises control over the contributions. "[Where] a job or livelihood may be jeopardized by a refusal to comply, and the contact between solicitor and solicitee may be direct and personal . . . the potential clearly exists for earmarked contributions to have been 'directed or controlled' by means of coercion, harassment, or undue pressure." Statement of Reasons, Commissioner Josefiak, MUR 2282, p. 14. Thus, in addition to contributing something "of value" by facilitating the making of contributions, under the settled principles discussed above, the resulting contributions would be chargeable to the company itself. Indeed, this conclusion should follow in any circumstances similar to that envisioned in AO 1986-4 where a company orchestrates a fundraising activity for the benefit of a specific candidate and asks a class of its employees to participate.

2. Federal Government Contractor Prohibition

Section 441c expressly prohibits any person who enters into a U.S. government contract directly or indirectly to make any contribution of money or other things of value, to any federal candidate. 2 U.S.C. § 441c(a)(1) and 11 C.F.R § 115.2. Additionally, section 441c makes it illegal for any person "knowingly to solicit any such contribution . . . " 2 U.S.C. § 441c(a)(2).

3. Section 441b's broad prohibition of "direct or indirect" gifts of anything of value, see 2 U.S.C. § 441b(b)(2), provides further support for this conclusion.

Pursuant to section 431(9)(A)(11), a partnership is considered a "person." As such, the regulations state: "[t]he assets of a partnership which is a Federal contractor may not be used to make contributions or expenditures in connection with Federal elections." 11 C.F.R. § 115.4(a). However, individual partners and employees of the partnership are permitted to make contributions in their own names from their personal assets. 11 C.F.R. § 115.4(b),(c). See also AO 1991-1.

Additionally, a federal contractor is prohibited from acting as a conduit. The regulations provide: "Any person who is prohibited from making contributions or expenditures in connection with an election for Federal office shall be prohibited from acting as a conduit for contributions earmarked to candidates or their authorized committees." 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2)(E)(ii).

In conclusion, neither corporations nor federal contractors are permitted to contribute anything of value to federal elections. Thus, the prohibitions which limit corporate activity similarly limit the activity of federal contractors.

3. Contribution Limitation

Pursuant to 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(1)(A), no person shall make contributions to any candidate and his or her authorized political committees with respect to any election to federal office which, in the aggregate, exceed $1,000. The Act defines "person" to include partnerships. 2 U.S.C. § 431(11).

C. Analysis

According to a news report, at least 60 partners of Goldman, Sachs & Co. contributed to Clinton for President. Kenneth Brody, reportedly the Clinton campaign's chief fundraiser in New York, is a limited partner of the firm and apparently was the person responsible for the contributions. According to the newspaper report, Brody stated, "[t]here is no central direction at all....It is solely the fact that they're my friends, not that they happen to be partners." Washington Post, April 20, 1992. The article, however, contrasts this statement with that of another partner, David DeLucia, who is listed as having contributed to the Clinton campaign but at first did not remember making the contribution: "'I may have' contributed, he said in a telephone interview last week, 'through another partner at our firm....Sometimes [partners] ask their friends to attend breakfasts or lunches to raise money for politicians.'" Washington Post, April 20, 1992.

The Commission's records show that all of the 65 Goldman, Sachs contributions totaling $55,800 were received on one of nine dates. Of this total, 29 contributions totaling $38,300 were received on December 13 and December 18, 1991. Goldman, Sachs partners have contributed nearly $56,000 to the Clinton campaign to date. The number and pattern of contributions suggests an organized solicitation of high-level Goldman, Sachs employees (partners) which may not fairly be attributed to an effort independent of the brokerage firm or an effort independent of Mr. Brody's employment at the brokerage firm. As such, Goldman, Sachs may have contributed something of value to the Clinton campaign.

Although Goldman, Sachs is a partnership and not a corporation, the brokerage firm may be a federal contractor prohibited from making any contribution to the Clinton campaign. This prohibition is analogous to the corporate prohibition set forth in 2 U.S.C. § 441b. In its request for an Advisory Opinion in 1985, Goldman, Sachs stated that it was under contract with the U.S. Department of Transportation.[4] As previously set forth, 2 U.S.C. § 441c prohibits federal contractors from contributing anything of value to federal candidates. If, as is suggested by the article, Goldman, Sachs contributed something "of value" to the Clinton campaign, the partnership may be in violation of section 441c. Therefore, there is reason to believe that Goldman, Sachs violated 2 U.S.C. § 441c.

If Goldman, Sachs is not a government contractor, an issue presented is whether Goldman, Sachs should have reported to the Clinton campaign and to the Commission as a conduit. See 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(1). In AO 1986-4, the Commission made clear that conduits receiving earmarked contributions must report their activity to the Commission in accordance with 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(8). As discussed above, it appears that the fundraising activity cannot be attributed to the individual volunteer effort of Kenneth Brody. Goldman, Sachs did not report as a conduit with respect to the contributions it may have collected on behalf of the Clinton campaign. Therefore, there is reason to believe Goldman, Sachs violated 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(8) and 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(1).

4. A corporate subsidiary of Goldman, Sachs Co. requested clarification as to its ability to establish a separate segregated fund since its stock is solely owned by Goldman, Sachs, a limited partnership which is a federal contractor. In its request, Goldman, Sachs asked the Commission to assume it would remain a federal contractor in the future.

The news reports do not clearly indicate the extent of Goldman, Sachs' contribution to the Clinton campaign. However, in AO 1980-46, the Commission set forth the principle that a conduit's indirect costs associated with the making of a contribution (e.g. in this case, company time, resources, and facilities) constitute in-kind contributions to the benefiting campaign. Further, the value of the firm's facilitation of contributions is measured not only by the direct costs involved. Cf. MUR 1690 (value of corporate facilitation of contributions measured in part by resulting contributions). Indeed, there may be a question whether the contributions themselves are chargeable to the partnership in view of the firm's possible orchestration of the contributions, 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(d); cf. AO 1986-4. For all of these reasons, there is reason to believe that Goldman, Sachs made an excessive contribution in violation of 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(1)(A).

RE: MUR 3672
Clinton for President Committee and Robert Farmer, as treasurer

Dear Mr. Farmer:

On October 20, 1992, the Federal Election Commission found that there is reason to believe that the Clinton for President Committee ("Committee") and you, as treasurer, violated 2 U.S.C. §§ 441a(f), 441c, and 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(2), provisions of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("the Act") and the Commission's regulations. The Factual and Legal Analysis, which formed a basis for the Commission's finding, is attached for your information.

Under the Act, you have an opportunity to demonstrate that no action should be taken against the Committee and you, as treasurer. You may submit any factual or legal materials that you believe are relevant to the Commission's consideration of this matter. Statements should be submitted under oath. All responses to the enclosed Subpoena to Produce Documents must be submitted within 30 days of your receipt of this subpoena. Any additional materials or statements you wish to submit should accompany the response to the subpoena.

You may consult with an attorney and have an attorney assist you in the preparation of your responses to this subpoena. If you intend to be represented by counsel, please advise the Commission by completing the enclosed form stating the name, address, and telephone number of such counsel, and authorizing such counsel to receive any notifications or other communications from the Commission.

In the absence of any additional information which demonstrates that no further action should be taken against the Committee and you, as treasurer, the Commission may find probable cause to believe that a violation has occurred and proceed with conciliation.

If you are interested in pursuing pre-probable cause conciliation, you should so request in writing. See 11 C.F.R. § 111.18(d). Upon receipt of the request, the Office of the General Counsel will make recommendations to the Commission either proposing an agreement in settlement of the matter or recommending declining that pre-probable cause conciliation be pursued. The Office of the General Counsel may recommend that pre-probable cause conciliation not be entered into at this time so that it may complete its investigation of the matter. Further, requests for pre-probable cause conciliation will not be entertained after briefs on probable cause have been mailed to the respondent.

Requests for extensions of time will not be routinely granted. Requests must be made in writing at least five days prior to the due date of the response and specific good cause must be demonstrated. In addition, the Office of the General Counsel ordinarily will not give extensions beyond 20 days.

This matter will remain confidential in accordance with 2 U.S.C. §§ 437g(a)(4)(B) and 437g(a)(12)(A), unless you notify the Commission in writing that you wish the investigation to be made public.

For your information, we have attached a brief description of the Commission's procedures for handling possible violations of the Act. If you have any questions, please contact Richard M. Zanfardino at (202) 219-3690.

FEDERAL ELECTION COMMISSION

FACTUAL AND LEGAL ANALYSIS

RESPONDENTS: Clinton for President and Robert A. Farmer as treasurer

MUR: 3672

A. Generation of Matter

In the ordinary course of carrying out its supervisory responsibilities, the Federal Election Commission has discovered that the Clinton for President Committee and Robert A. Farmer, as treasurer, may have violated the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("the Act").

B. Legal Principles

1. Corporate Prohibitions

Pursuant to 2 U.S.C. § 441b, it is unlawful for any corporation to make a contribution or expenditure in connection with a Federal election, or for a candidate or political committee knowingly to accept such a contribution. It is also unlawful for any corporate officer or director to consent to any such contribution. This broad prohibition extends to "anything of value" given to a federal candidate or campaign. 2 U.S.C. § 441b(b)(2).

Although corporations are prohibited from making any such contribution, the Act exempts a corporation's internal communications with its executive and administrative personnel. 2 U.S.C. § 441b(b)(2)(A).[1] The Commission's regulations thus permit a corporation to make partisan communications to its restricted class, including endorsing candidates and urging their support. 11 C.F.R. § 114.3(a)(1),(c)(1); Advisory Opinions 1987-29, 1982-2. The Commission has repeatedly made clear, however, that corporations may not step beyond the line of "communication" to actually collecting contribution checks or otherwise facilitating the making of contributions to a Federal candidate. See Advisory Opinions 1987-29, 1986-4, 1982-2, and 1977 Explanation and Justification (describing permissible corporate communication).

Other Commission regulations provide that employees of a corporation may make "occasional, isolated or incidental use of the facilities of a corporation for individual volunteer activity in connection with a Federal election...." 11 C.F.R. § 114.9(a)(1). Employees must reimburse the corporation only for any increased overhead or operating costs. Id. In MUR 1690, however, the Office of the General Counsel advised the Commission that "the plain intent of [11 C.F.R. § 114.9(a)]... excludes from the scope of 'individual volunteer activity' collective enterprises where the top executives of firms direct their subordinates in fundraising projects..., use resources of the corporation such as lists of vendors and customers..., solicit whole classes of corporate executives and employees..., or attempt to ensure that the corporation is the beneficiary of the candidate's appreciation...." General Counsel's Report dated October 2, 1986.

In summary, where fundraising activities involve the use of corporate resources and facilities and such activities are beyond the safe harbor of the Act and regulation's exceptions, the corporation has contributed something "of value" to the beneficiary candidate, in violation of section 441b.

Additionally, the manner in which company fundraising from employees or vendors takes place may have consequences under other generally applicable provisions of the Act. Where contributions are "earmarked or otherwise directed through an intermediary or conduit to such candidate," the Act requires the "intermediary or conduit" to report such transmissions. 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(8). The Commission's regulations in this area, newly revised in 1989, define "conduit or intermediary" to include "any person who receives and forwards an earmarked contribution to a candidate," 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2), and explains that campaign employees, full-time volunteers, or individuals who have significant positions within the campaign who are expressly authorized to fundraise are not conduits for purpose of the regulations, 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2)(i)(A),(E).

Under these regulations, if a person collects contributions as a conduit, and exercises "direction or control" over the making of the contribution, the contribution is chargeable to the conduit's limit for the recipient candidate in addition to the limit of the actual donor.[2] 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(d)(2). This regulation was based on the 1974 Conference Committee Report on the earmarking provision at section 441a(a)(8), stating that "if a person exercises any direct or indirect control over the making of a contribution, then such contribution shall count toward the limitation imposed with respect to such person" under the Act. Pursuant to section 431(9)(A)(11), a partnership is considered a "person." As such, the regulations state: "[t]he assets of a partnership which is a Federal contractor may not be used to make contributions or expenditures in connection with Federal elections." 11 C.F.R. § 115.4(a). However, individual partners and employees of the partnership are permitted to make contributions in their own names from their personal assets. 11 C.F.R. § 115.4(b),(c). See also AO 1991-1.

Additionally, a federal contractor is prohibited from acting as a conduit. The regulations provide: "Any person who is prohibited from making contributions or expenditures in connection with an election for Federal office shall be prohibited from acting as a conduit for contributions earmarked to candidates or their authorized committees." 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2)(E)(ii).

In conclusion, neither corporations nor federal contractors are permitted to contribute anything of value to federal elections. Thus, the prohibitions which limit corporate activity similarly limit the activity of federal contractors.

3. Liability of Campaign Committees

Section 441b(a) makes it illegal for political committees to knowingly accept or receive contributions from prohibited entities such as corporations. 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a). An analogous prohibition exists in the statutes governing federal contractors. 2 U.S.C. § 441c(a)(2) (unlawful for any person "knowingly to solicit" contributions from government contractors). In the case of fundraising by a corporation or a government contractor, if there is proof of the committee's knowledge of the circumstances under which the contributions were raised, there is a basis for finding that the committee knowingly accepted prohibited contributions.

Where individuals act on behalf of political committees and are given fundraising duties and roles, it suggests that these individuals may have been authorized to raise funds on behalf of the committee. See 11 C.F.R. § 102.8(b) (setting out obligations of "[e]very person who receives a contribution . . . for a political committee"); cf., 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(b)(2)(E)(describing persons who are not conduits); 11 C.F.R. § 109.1(b)(5)(definition of "agent" for purpose of making expenditures). In such a situation, under settled principles of agency law the committee is charged with the knowledge of its agents and may be liable for having knowingly accepted prohibited contributions.

Finally, pursuant to 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(1)(A), no person shall make contributions to any candidate and his or her authorized political committees with respect to any election to federal office which, in the aggregate, exceed $1,000. The Act defines "person" to include partnerships. 2 U.S.C. § 431(11). No candidate or political committee shall knowingly accept any contribution made in violation of section 441a. 2 U.S.C. § 441a(f).

C. Analysis

According to a news report, at least 60 partners of Goldman, Sachs & Co. contributed to Clinton for President. Kenneth Brody, reportedly the Clinton campaign's chief fundraiser in New York, is a limited partner of the firm and apparently was the person responsible for the contributions. According to the newspaper report, Brody stated, "[t]here is no central direction at all....It is solely the fact that they're my friends, not that they happen to be partners." Washington Post, April 20, 1992. The article, however, contrasts this statement with that of another partner, David DeLucia, who is listed as having contributed to the Clinton campaign but at first did not remember making the contribution: "'I may have' contributed, he said in a telephone interview last week, 'through another partner at our firm....Sometimes [partners] ask their friends to attend breakfasts or lunches to raise money for politicians.'" Washington Post, April 20, 1992.

The Commission's records show that all of the 65 Goldman, Sachs contributions totaling $55,800 were received on one of nine dates. Of this total, 29 contributions totaling $38,300 were received on December 13 and December 18, 1991. Goldman, Sachs partners have contributed nearly $56,000 to the Clinton campaign to date. The number and pattern of contributions suggests an organized solicitation of high-level Goldman, Sachs employees (partners) which may not fairly be attributed to an effort independent of the brokerage firm or an effort independent of Mr. Brody's employment at the brokerage firm. As such, Goldman, Sachs may have contributed something of value to the Clinton campaign.

According to a news report, the Clinton campaign acknowledged the Goldman, Sachs contributions. The report quoted a Clinton campaign spokesman: "We try to comply with the law as best we know how. There are people at Goldman, Sachs that did not write checks." Washington Post April 20, 1992.

As previously set forth, 2 U.S.C. § 441c prohibits federal contractors from contributing anything of value to federal candidates. In its request for an Advisory Opinion in 1985, Goldman, Sachs stated that it was under contract with the U.S. Department of Transportation.[4] As a Goldman, Sachs partner, Kenneth Brody presumably possessed knowledge of Goldman, Sachs' status as a federal contractor. From the news reports, it appears that Brody initiated the fundraising activity on behalf of the Committee. If so, the Clinton campaign is chargeable with Brody's knowledge of Goldman, Sachs' status as a federal contractor. Therefore, there is reason to believe that the Clinton for President Committee and Robert A. Farmer, as treasurer, violated 2 U.S.C. § 441c.

4. A corporate subsidiary of Goldman, Sachs Co. requested clarification as to its ability to establish a separate segregated fund since its stock is solely owned by Goldman, Sachs, a limited partnership which is a federal contractor. In its request, Goldman, Sachs asked the Commission to assume it would remain a federal contractor in the future.

Additionally, news reports indicate that Kenneth Brody may have been a fundraising agent for the Clinton campaign. If Goldman, Sachs is not a government contractor, an issue presented is whether the Clinton campaign should have disclosed the Goldman, Sachs contributions as received through a conduit, which it did not do. See 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(2).

Finally, the campaign may have accepted excessive contributions from Goldman, Sachs. See 2 U.S.C. § 441a(f). The news reports do not clearly indicate the extent of Goldman, Sachs' contribution to the Clinton campaign. However, in AO 1980-46, the Commission set forth the principle that a conduit's indirect costs associated with the making of a contribution (e.g. in this case, company time, resources, and facilities) constitute in-kind contributions to the benefiting campaign. Further, the value of the firm's facilitation of contributions is measured not only by the direct costs involved. Cf. MUR 1690 (value of corporate facilitation of contributions measured in part by resulting contributions). Indeed, there may be a question whether the contributions themselves are chargeable to the partnership in view of the firm's possible orchestration of the contributions, 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(d); cf. AO 1986-4. In light of the circumstances, there is reason to believe the Clinton for President Committee and Robert A. Farmer, as treasurer, violated 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(2) and 2 U.S.C. § 441a(f).

As we discussed, we will be contacting the partners of Goldman Sachs to determine whether there exist any documents that are responsive to the subpoena. We understand that this will be regarded as adequate compliance at this stage.

Please contact us if our understanding of our discussion does not match yours in any respect. Thanks again for seeing us.

Re: MUR 3672

Dear Mr. Noble:

This firm represents Kenneth D. Brody, a respondent in the above-captioned MUR. I am writing in response to the Commission's determination that there is reason to believe Mr. Brody violated 2 U.S.C. §441c by soliciting contributions from a federal contractor.

This determination is groundless. The Factual and Legal Analysis which forms the predicate for this determination is apparently based on no more than a single newspaper article discussing contributions made to the Clinton for President Committee by some partners at Goldman, Sachs & Co.

The gravamen of the Commission's analysis is that Mr. Brody knowingly solicited "contributions" to the Clinton campaign from Goldman, Sachs, a purported federal contractor.[1] The

1/ Goldman, Sachs is a partnership. The Commission offers no basis for its assumption that Goldman, Sachs is currently a federal contractor, other than a representation, made seven years ago, that the firm had a single federal contract at that time. Even if the Commission's supposition about the firm's

Commission's Factual and Legal Analysis is imprecise as to what was "contributed" by the firm.

If the speculation, assumption and hypothesis in the Analysis is set aside, the only fact discussed is that some 60 of the firm's more than 140 partners made individual contributions to the Clinton campaign which, in aggregate, totalled a little less than $56,000. The Analysis then juxtaposes Mr. Brody's statement in the press that there was no "central direction" to the solicitation of these contributions, with the unremarkable comment of one of his partners who said simply that he could not specifically remember making a contribution. From these thin facts, the Commission has concluded that there is reason to believe "an organized solicitation" occurred, an effort which the Analysis claims must have impermissibly involved institutional resources because -- without explaining why -- the solicitation "may not fairly" be attributed to an effort "independent of the firm."

The Commission's leap of logic is wrong. The facts relating to Mr. Brody are set forth in an accompanying Affidavit, and demonstrate the following:

First, Mr. Brody, an early supporter of Governor Clinton, served as chair of the New York fundraising effort for the Clinton campaign. Brody Aff. at ¶3. Prior to assuming this post in October, 1991, Mr. Brody announced his intention to change his status at Goldman, Sachs from that of general partner to limited partner, a change that is the equivalent of retiring from the firm. Id. at ¶2.

Second, Mr. Brody's volunteer efforts on behalf of the Clinton campaign were not instigated or directed by the firm, or officially endorsed by the firm. Mr. Brody's campaign work was entirely individual and voluntary. Id. at ¶4.

Third, the contributions to the Clinton campaign from partners at Goldman, Sachs were not a result of any organized, institutional solicitation, nor in any way centrally coordinated status is correct, there is no evidence that Mr. Brody was aware that Goldman, Sachs is a federal contractor. As he states in his Affidavit, Mr. Brody was aware of the one federal contract that the Commission cites in its Analysis, but he was also aware that the contract was no longer outstanding. Brody Aff. at ¶9.

or managed by the firm. Mr. Brody solicited many, but not all, of the contributions made by partners at Goldman, Sachs. Id. at ¶7. He solicited substantially fewer than all of the partners at the firm, and by no means did all of the partners he solicited make contributions. Id. In no way did Mr. Brody explicitly or implicitly coerce his partners to contribute. Id. Even if one were to assume that somehow it is inherently coercive for one general partner to solicit another -- a proposition of law the Commission has never stated and a premise we strongly reject -- that would not be an issue here. Mr. Brody announced his intention to become a limited partner well before his volunteer work for the campaign began; his publicly known status as a limited partner removed whatever institutional leverage he might otherwise have wielded, even if he had been of a mind to attempt to exercise coercive influence on his partners. Id.

Mr. Brody solicited not only some of his partners at Goldman, Sachs, but also many partners at other investment banking firms, law firms and other institutions throughout New York. Id. at ¶8. That was his role as chief campaign fundraiser in New York. He did not rely on lists of Goldman, Sachs vendors or customers in making his solicitations; rather he solicited, by and large, his extensive network of personal contacts both inside and outside Goldman, Sachs based on years of experience as a prominent banker in New York financial circles. Id.

In short, Mr. Brody did not design or participate in any organized, institutional effort on behalf of Goldman, Sachs to raise money for the Clinton campaign. Rather, he acted as an individual volunteer for the campaign and conducted fundraising both inside and outside his firm. Nothing Mr. Brody did amounted to solicitation of a contribution from Goldman, Sachs, the only charge against him made in the reason to believe determination.

Accordingly, we request that the Commission determine to take no further action against Mr. Brody in this matter.

Respectfully,

Donald J. Simon
Attorney for Kenneth D. Brody

BEFORE THE FEDERAL ELECTION COMMISSION

In re: MUR 3672

AFFIDAVIT OF KENNETH D. BRODY

Kenneth D. Brody, being duly sworn, hereby deposes and says:

1. Goldman, Sachs & Co. is a partnership that engages in investment banking. I began my employment with Goldman, Sachs in July, 1971 and became a general partner in November, 1978.

2. In July, 1991, I announced my decision to become a limited partner of the firm as of November 30, 1991. This announcement was widely known within Goldman, Sachs and was reported in the press. Assuming limited partner status is the equivalent of retiring from the firm. Although a limited partner maintains a financial interest in the firm, he or she no longer shares in the profits of the firm or actively participates in the business of the firm, and is under no obligation to conduct any business on behalf of the firm.

3. After the announcement of my intent to become a limited partner, I was named New York finance chairman for the Clinton for President campaign. I began serving in this role in October, 1991. I also served on the national finance committee of the Clinton campaign. In both capacities I served as a volunteer for the campaign.

4. My volunteer efforts on behalf of the Clinton campaign were motivated solely by my individual support of Governor Clinton. At no time did anyone in Goldman, Sachs urge me to work for the Clinton campaign and no official in the firm directed or even encouraged my efforts. I did not seek, nor did I receive, approval from the firm before starting my volunteer work for the campaign.

5. The time I devoted to my volunteer efforts for the campaign did not detract from performing my responsibilities at the firm. As a general partner, I had substantial discretion over my time and activities. Once I became a limited partner, I had no responsibility to work on firm matters.

6. Most of my work as a volunteer fundraiser for the Clinton campaign was devoted to soliciting contributions to the campaign. For this, I relied on my network of friends, associates and business contacts that I had developed over the past 20 years as an active member of the New York financial community. Virtually all of my solicitations were made by telephone.

7. Among those I solicited were some, but not all, of my partners at Goldman, Sachs. There was no institutional pressure or encouragement from the firm for partners to contribute to the campaign. I had no ability to pressure my partners to contribute because, as a limited partner (or soon to become one), I had little or no remaining authority within the firm. Certainly, not all of the partners I solicited within the firm contributed to the campaign. Many said no.

8. Just as I solicited many of my contacts within Goldman, Sachs, so too I solicited contributions from many people outside the firm, including acquaintances of mine at investment banks, law firms and other institutions throughout New York.

9. At no time during my volunteer activities did I have any knowledge that Goldman, Sachs is a federal contractor. Although I was aware that the firm had been a federal contractor in a matter involving Conrail some years earlier, I knew that matter had terminated well before my volunteer activity for the campaign began.

Further affiant sayeth not.

Re: MUR 3672 Goldman, Sachs & Company

Dear Mr. Noble:

Enclosed are documents submitted in response to the November 4, 1992 subpoena that the Federal Election Commission ("FEC") issued in MUR 3672 to Goldman, Sachs & Co. ("Goldman Sachs"). Goldman Sachs received the subpoena on November 9, 1992. See November 23, 1992 letter from Geoffrey F. Aronow and Kathleen M.H. Wallman to Richard Zanfardino.

The "Factual and Legal Analysis" ("Analysis") that accompanied your November 4, 1992 letter asserts that Goldman Sachs "may have violated" certain provisions of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971 and its regulations (the "Act") by making a contribution or excessive contribution to the Clinton campaign or by acting as an unreported "conduit" in forwarding to the Clinton campaign contributions made by others. The thrust of the Analysis is that the fundraising activities of Mr. Kenneth Brody, a general partner of Goldman Sachs until November 29, 1991, when he became a limited partner, "may not fairly be attributed to an effort independent of the brokerage firm or an effort independent of Mr. Brody's employment at the brokerage firm." Pages 7-8.[1] This assertion appears to have

[1] The Analysis asserts that Goldman Sachs is a federal contractor. Although the discussion in this letter is not affected by this assertion, the activity on behalf of the Department of Transportation discussed in Goldman arisen entirely from an article in the April 20, 1992 issue of the Washington Post regarding contributions to the Clinton campaign by various persons, including some Goldman Sachs partners.

Goldman Sachs is not aware of any support for this assertion. As confirmed by Mr. Brody's affidavit filed with his response to the similar November 4, 1992 letter that he received from the FEC, the inference based upon the Post article is mistaken. The fundraising by Mr. Brody among his friends and acquaintances, including but by no means limited to the Goldman Sachs partners described in the April 20 Washington Post article, was the volunteer political activity of Mr. Brody, as stated in his affidavit. Brody Aff. ¶¶ 3,4. As such, it does not constitute a contribution by Goldman Sachs to the Clinton campaign. As the Analysis acknowledges, "[I]ndividual partners and employees of the partnership are permitted to make contributions in their own names from their personal assets." Page 6.

Mr. Brody was an early supporter of Governor Clinton and served as New York finance chair for the Clinton campaign. Brody Aff. ¶ 3. Until November 29, 1991, Mr. Brody was a general partner of Goldman Sachs. General partners have discretion to engage in volunteer activity, such as charitable or political volunteer work. On July 25, 1991, it had been announced that Mr. Brody would retire as a general partner and take limited partner status. His retirement as a general partner was effective at the close of business on November 29, 1991; since that date, he has been a limited partner. As a limited partner, under the partnership agreement, he is a passive investor in Goldman Sachs, without any obligation to devote any time or attention to, or any influence or involvement in, the day-to-day operations of Goldman Sachs or its subsidiaries and affiliates. Therefore, the time that Mr. Brody spent on his volunteer fundraising for the Clinton campaign, both as a general partner and subsequently as a limited partner, was at his own discretion and in his personal capacity and was not at the expense of the normal work that he was expected to perform. Mr. Brody's efforts on behalf of the Clinton campaign were not instigated or coordinated by Goldman Sachs. Brody Aff. ¶ 4.

Sachs' request for an advisory opinion in 1985 and referenced in the Analysis ended no later than 1987.

Moreover, the Goldman Sachs partners whom Mr. Brody solicited were simply part of a much larger group of persons, consisting primarily of persons having no affiliation with Goldman Sachs, from whom Mr. Brody solicited contributions on behalf of the Clinton campaign. Brody Aff. ¶¶ 6,7. Indeed, Mr. Brody did not solicit contributions from all Goldman Sachs partners, and not all the partners that he did solicit contributed to the Clinton campaign in response. Id. Mr. Brody did not construct or lead any de facto "official" Goldman Sachs fundraising effort for the Clinton campaign. Nor is Goldman Sachs aware of any other circumstances that would support a finding of such an effort.

Goldman Sachs has made a good faith effort to locate all nonprivileged, responsive documents. See Bates-stamped nos. 1 through 19. In that regard, the subpoena is ambiguous insofar as it lacks definitions of certain key terms used in the document requests. Goldman Sachs, therefore, has construed the subpoena in a reasonable and good faith manner in light of the often ambiguous statutes, regulations, advisory opinions and other sources of guidance that may impact its meaning. Nevertheless, in an effort to be as cooperative and forthcoming as possible, Goldman Sachs is voluntarily producing nonprivileged documents (Bates-stamped nos. 20 through 218), discovered in the course of the effort to respond to the subpoena, related to volunteer activities by certain partners.[2]

Included are communications to the Clinton for President Committee related to certain office expenses (and some telephone calls from his home) incidental to volunteer work by Mr. Robert Rubin. Payment for these expenses has been received (see Bates-stamped nos. 25, 26). Because no written communications with the Committee regarding certain expenses accumulated through Mr. Brody's office were found, Goldman Sachs is providing Mr. Brody's underlying travel and entertainment reports reflecting such expenses. Goldman

Sachs believes that payment has been received for these expenses as well.

The limited number of documents that Goldman Sachs found responsive to the subpoena reflects the fact that there was no concerted activity by Goldman Sachs to raise funds on behalf of the Clinton campaign.

Goldman Sachs is providing the enclosed documents, all of which are stamped "confidential," without waiver of any objection that it may have to the subpoena. Although Goldman Sachs believes that its file search is substantially complete, if additional nonprivileged, responsive documents are located, Goldman Sachs will of course forward them to you as quickly as possible.

December 20, 1991

Dear <salutation>:

Our dinner for Bill Clinton last week was a major success and you made a real difference. To put the $260,000.00 we raised in perspective, it doubled what he raised in Los Angeles and quadrupled what the next closest Democratic contender is said to have raised this year in a single event in New York. The national finance effort appears to be rapidly approaching its three million dollar December 31 goal.

On the political front, Bill is starting to separate himself from the field. The country seems to be ready for a compassionate centrist who has demonstrated an enormous capacity to be thoughtful about the country's problems and opportunities. Although the race will undoubtedly take many twists and turns in 1992, come what may, our support is meaningful to a truly worthy candidate.

Paul Carey joins me in thanking you very much for your hard work and results. And Paul reminds me, there is still plenty of time left to add to the Clinton campaign coffers.

Best regards.

Sincerely,

Kenneth D. Brody

Re: Campaign Expenses

As we discussed, I am sending an analysis of certain expenses incurred by Bob Rubin for which he would like reimbursement from the campaign. As you suggested, I have divided the expenses into those pre- and post- the nominating convention.

As we compile additional expenses, I will notify you.

If you require any further information, please let me know. Bob would be grateful if you could expedite the reimbursement. The reimbursement check (in the name of Robert E. Rubin) should be sent to him at 85 Broad Street, New York, New York 10004.

Re: Bob Rubin's Trip to Lansing, Michigan on Monday, October 19, 1992

Mark received a check in the amount of $1,413.00 (copy attached) from the Clinton/Gore Committee for the equivalent of two first-class tickets New York/Lansing/New York for Bob Rubin and Roger Altman's roundtrip to Lansing, Michigan on Monday, October 19, 1992.

Mark Winkelman said the rate agreed upon was twice the hourly fuel rate @ $325 = $650/hour. The trip took 3.1 hours and there were three landing fees. The total for the trip therefore is:

$650 x 3.1 = $2,015.00 (flight charge)
2 Landing Fees @ $50 each = $100.00
1 Landing Fee @ $150 = $150.00

	$2,015.00
	100.00
	+ 150.00
Total =	$ 2,265.00
Amount paid =	- 1,413.00
Balance due =	$ 852.00

(You said Bob Rubin wanted to personally reimburse Mark for the balance owed.)

Prepared by the Market Research Department of Cushman & Wakefield, Inc.

FYI 1/28

NOVEMBER 1991

The Downtown office market experienced modest leasing activity during November totalling just 218,000 square feet, bringing year-to-date activity to over 3.2 million square feet. This trailed the same period last year by 38 percent.

The largest transactions for the month were Continental Stock & Transfer Company's 28,000-square foot commitment at Two Broadway, followed by the law firm of Aubrey Lanston's 25,000-square foot lease at One Chase Manhattan Plaza, and Johnson, Tannen, Brecher, Fishman, Feit and Heller's lease for 15,900 square feet at 222 Broadway. Two companies chose to renew existing leases and remain in their current locations: MCI International, Inc. renewed for 71,400 square feet at 17 Battery Place North, while Farrell Lines, Inc. renewed for 28,900 square feet at One Whitehall Street.

No new construction was completed during November, and no new development is expected for some time. This has prompted owners to begin the renovation of older, existing structures to effectively compete with newer buildings. Several buildings, including One Chase Manhattan Plaza, 100 Wall Street and One New York Plaza are witnessing extensive capital improvement programs.

The primary vacancy rate decreased for the second consecutive month to 16.6 percent from 16.9 in October. The secondary vacancy rate edged up to 24.9 percent from 24.5. The primary asking rental rate decreased only slightly during November to $31.93 from $31.95 per square foot. After ten months in decline, the secondary asking rental increased to $21.36 from $21.34 per square foot.

RE: MUR 3672

Dear Mr. Farmer:

On November 4, 1992, you were notified that the Federal Election Commission found reason to believe that the Clinton for President Committee and you, as treasurer, had violated 2 U.S.C. §§ 441a(f) and 441c, and 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(2), provisions of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended, and the accompanying regulations. Included with the notification was a subpoena to produce documents. The subpoena was sent via certified mail, and a return receipt was signed on November 10, 1992. The response to this subpoena was due thirty days from the date of your receipt of the notification, on December 10, 1992. To date, we have not received a response or a written request for an extension of time to answer the subpoena.

Please respond immediately upon your receipt of this letter so that the Commission may be assured that you intend to comply with the subpoena. Without such a response, the Office of the General Counsel may recommend that the Commission authorize suit under 2 U.S.C. § 437d to enforce the subpoena.

I can be reached at (202) 219-3690.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Bernstein

Re: MUR 3672

Dear Mr. Zanfardino:

I am writing to confirm our telephone conversation of December 7, 1992. Enclosed please find a Statement of Designation of Counsel in this matter. As we discussed, I received the Commission's letter and enclosures on December 7. In the interests of providing a full response to the Commission's request, we requested an extension of time for response to the subpoena and for submission of additional materials and statements until December 30, 1992, which you indicated would be acceptable to the Commission. We also discussed the possibility of an additional reasonable extension beyond that date if necessary for the Committee to provide a complete response.

Please let me know if your understanding differs from the foregoing. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely yours,

L. Anthony Sutin

Dear Mr. Allen:

As we discussed yesterday, and as stated in my December 8 letter, it appears necessary for the Clinton for President Committee to request a further extension to respond to the Commission's subpoena. This request is necessitated both by the impending holidays and the fact that the former Committee personnel who are likely to be familiar with the facts and circumstances of the matter and existence of potentially responsive documents are currently working in the transition and inaugural efforts and have been unavailable to assist in the preparation of the Committee's response. Accordingly, the Committee requests a further extension of time until Friday, January 29, 1993 for the submission of any responsive documents and its response to the subpoena.

If this request is unacceptable to the Commission, please let me know as soon as possible. Thank you for your assistance.

Sincerely yours,

L. Anthony Sutin

In the Matter of:	MUR NO. 3672
CLINTON FOR PRESIDENT and ROBERT A. FARMER as Treasurer, Respondents.

RESPONSE OF CLINTON FOR PRESIDENT AND ROBERT A. FARMER AS TREASURER

Respondents Clinton for President Committee and Robert A. Farmer, as Treasurer, submit this response to the Factual and Legal Analysis of the General Counsel ("Analysis") pursuant to which the Commission found reason to believe that Respondents violated 11 CFR § 110.6(c)(2), 2 U.S.C. § 441a(f) and 2 U.S.C. § 441c in connection with contributions to the Committee by persons affiliated with Goldman, Sachs & Co. For the reasons stated below, Respondents deny that any violation of law has taken place.

I. BACKGROUND

The Commission's internally-generated complaint appears to have arisen from a combination of a Washington Post article in which a Goldman, Sachs partner is quoted as being unable to recall the precise circumstances of his contribution to the Committee and contribution records that demonstrate that 65 contributions were received from persons affiliated with

9704380327 5

Goldman, Sachs, a firm with approximately 6,500 employees, 1/ mostly on nine particular dates. From these two elements, the Commission reasons that the contributions may have been the product of an organized solicitation effort by Goldman, Sachs, constituting an excessive partnership and possibly government contractor contribution.

Respondents are aware of no facts suggesting that any organized fundraising or solicitation activity was directed by Goldman, Sachs to its partners or employees. Rather, several Goldman, Sachs partners were early supporters of Bill Clinton's candidacy. One partner, Kenneth Brody, served as a co-chair of the campaign's National Finance Committee. Their individual, one-on-one efforts may well have resulted in friends and colleagues at Goldman, Sachs deciding to contribute, as well as friends and colleagues who may be employed elsewhere. However, the campaign conducted no solicitation or fundraising activity specifically directed to Goldman, Sachs or based upon organized efforts by Goldman, Sachs management. 2/

1/ 2 Ward's Business Directory at 1861 (1993 ed.).

2/ The Analysis makes a cryptic reference that "[a]ccording to a news report, the Clinton campaign acknowledged the Goldman, Sachs contributions." Analysis at 9. The news report does not suggest that the Clinton campaign acknowledged any contributions from Goldman, Sachs itself, but rather

II. THE COMMITTEE ACCEPTED NO PROHIBITED OR EXCESSIVE CONTRIBUTIONS

The Commission finds reason to believe that Respondents violated 2 U.S.C. § 441c by accepting "something of value" from Goldman, Sachs, which the Commission presumes to be a federal contractor. Analysis at 9. This conclusion is based on three assumptions, none of which Respondent accepts as true.

A. Goldman, Sachs Did Not Provide "Something of Value"

First, the Commission assumes that Goldman, Sachs provided "something of value." The "something of value" apparently refers to partnership resources that allegedly orchestrated an "organized solicitation of high level Goldman, Sachs employees (partners) which may not be fairly attributed to an effort independent of the brokerage firm or an effort independent of Mr. [Kenneth] Brody's employment at the firm."

acknowledges the undeniable and unnoteworthy fact that campaign contributions were received from persons affiliated with Goldman, Sachs.

It should be noted that the Clinton campaign rented office space from Goldman, Sachs. This rental, and ancillary services, were billed by Goldman, Sachs to the campaign at fair market value and were paid by the campaign. Although not directly relevant to the subject matter of this MUR, Respondents are producing copies of documents relating to these payments.

Id. Respondents are unaware of any organized solicitation by Goldman, Sachs. Moreover, it is entirely plausible -- as well as factually accurate -- that contributions were made without the sort of organized solicitation that the Commission feels must have taken place. Partners and employees are permitted, on an individual basis and consistent with the Commission's guidelines on use of time and facilities, to enlist the financial and other support of co-workers for a presidential campaign. See Advisory Opinion ("Adv. Op.") 1980-107 (Oct. 6, 1980) (governing partner's volunteer efforts); Adv. Op. 1979-58 (March 5, 1980) (same); Adv. Op. 1979-22 (June 19, 1979) (permitting "occasional, isolated and incidental" use of partnership facilities in connection with volunteer services).

In its Analysis, the Commission relies on Adv. Op. 1986-4 (Feb. 27, 1986) and MUR 1690 as examples of impermissible contributions through organized corporate solicitations. Both of those matters involved clear indications of management orchestration of contributions not present here. In Adv. Op. 1986-4, the Commission considered a proposal by Armstrong World Industries for a formal program under which "Armstrong will actively persuade its executives to participate in its program [of encouraging political contributions], will seek specific pledges of contributions from them, and will receive reports to monitor the extent and level of their participation, pledges and contributions." Id.,

2 Fed. Election Camp. Fin. Guide (CCH) ¶ 5846 at 11,247. Moreover, "[i]ts Washington office will distribute, periodically and on request, information concerning Federal congressional races of interest to Armstrong or its executives, and may include recommendations regarding the amount and the recipient of contributions." Id. The Commission concluded that the Armstrong plan would result in impermissible corporate contributions or expenditures and that the contemplated activity must be undertaken through the establishment of a separate segregated fund, noting that "Armstrong will direct and supervise this program, making the significant decisions, and will influence or direct contributor decisions regarding how and to whom contributions are made." Id.

In MUR 1690, the Commission's General Counsel recommended a finding of probable cause to believe that Prudential Bache Securities, Inc. violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a) and 11 CFR 110.6 in connection with the use of the firm's resources in connection with the extensive and varied efforts of Harry Jacobs, chairman of the board of Pru-Bache, to assist Senator Glenn's 1984 presidential candidacy. In February 1983, Mr. Jacobs hosted a large fundraiser on company premises, sent out 250 invitations to this fundraiser, and used company resources to keep track of contributors. Senator Glenn and four aides flew the Pru-Bache corporate jet from an Ohio fundraiser to New Hampshire and according to the General

Counsel's brief, the Glenn Committee had not even reimbursed Pru-Bache by the date of his brief. Pru-Bache also provided Senator Glenn with a chauffeured car for all or part of ten days he spent in New York during 1983, for which it appeared Pru-Bache had never been reimbursed.

Also in MUR 1690, a Conciliation Agreement with Donaldson, Lufkin & Jenrette, Inc. found that the corporation's Chairman and CEO sent memoranda through the firm's internal mail soliciting contributions to the Glenn campaign in connection with a fundraiser held at the firm. The memoranda were sent at firm expense to the corporation's top executives and 1,000 "professional staff." Conciliation Agreement ¶¶ 1-5. The General Counsel also contended that the Chairman's "persistent solicitation of subordinates throughout the corporation" confirmed the "effective corporate sponsorship" of the fundraiser, a point that the Chairman conveyed in communications to the Glenn campaign. General Counsel's Brief at 10-11.

In this case, in contrast, Respondents are not aware of any centrally directed plan or program by Goldman, Sachs to encourage or direct contributions to the Clinton campaign. Likewise, Respondents know of no centralized monitoring or supervision by Goldman, Sachs management similar to that contemplated by Armstrong, or an "orchestration of contributions" that carried such an arguable imprimatur of institutional support as that in MUR 1690. Nor are respondents aware of any communications by Goldman, Sachs partners, acting as such, encouraging contributions by subordinates. 3/

B. There Is No Basis to Conclude that Goldman, Sachs Is a Federal Contractor

Second, the Commission assumes that Goldman, Sachs was a federal contractor during the 1991-1992 election cycle. This conclusion is supported only by a 1985 advisory opinion request in which Goldman, Sachs stated that, at that time, it held a single federal contract. Respondents have no information to suggest that Goldman, Sachs was a federal contractor in 1991 or 1992. Respondents submit that it is inappropriate to premise a "reason to believe" finding on what appears to be speculation as to government contractor status.

C. Respondents Cannot Be Charged With Knowledge of Contractor Status

Third, the Commission charges Mr. Brody with awareness of Goldman, Sachs' alleged contractor status in 1991, and then charges Respondents with Mr. Brody's imputed knowledge. Again, no support for these dual leaps is offered. Assuming arguendo

3/ For the same reasons, the campaign did not accept excessive contributions from Goldman, Sachs. See Analysis at 10, citing 2 U.S.C. § 441a(f).

9704380281

that Mr. Brody acted as Respondents' agent in some matters, the imputation of knowledge made by the Commission violates two fundamental principles of agency law. Knowledge of an agent acquired prior to the existence of the agency may be chargeable to the principal if it is shown that the agent has the information present in his mind, or where it was acquired so recently or under such circumstances that it will be presumed to have been in his mind and memory at the time of the transaction in question. 3 Am. Jur. 2d § 287 at 795. At the very most, the Goldman, Sachs advisory opinion request imputes knowledge to Mr. Brody in 1985. Such knowledge cannot be imputed further to Respondents in 1991.

III. THERE HAS BEEN NO VIOLATION OF 11 CFR 110.6(c)(2)

The Factual and Legal Analysis provided by the Commission suggests that 11 CFR 110.6(c)(2) may have been violated by Respondents not reporting either Kenneth Brody or Goldman, Sachs as "conduits or intermediaries" through which contributions were received.

This provision states:

> The . . . authorized committee shall report each conduit or intermediary who forwards one or more earmarked contributions which in the aggregate exceed $200 in any calendar year.

11 CFR 110.6(c)(2).

A. Mr. Brody Is Exempt From Conduit Reporting

Kenneth Brody was appointed as a National Finance Co-Chair of the Clinton for President campaign in September of 1991. As such, he was "[a]n individual who is expressly authorized by the candidate or the candidate's authorized committee to engage in fundraising, and who occupies a significant position within the candidate's organization." See id. § 110.6(a)(2)(E). Accordingly, to the extent that Mr. Brody transmitted any contributions to the campaign, he falls within the exemption from the definition of "conduit or intermediary" for which reporting is required.

Any contributions passed on by Mr. Brody to the campaign were transmitted in his capacity as National Finance Co-Chair, and not as a representative of Goldman, Sachs. See 11 CFR 110.6(a)(2)(E).

B. Goldman, Sachs Did Not Act As a Conduit

As discussed in Section I, Respondents do not believe that Goldman, Sachs functioned as a conduit or intermediary by facilitating contributions to the Clinton campaign. Respondents have no knowledge of any expenditure of Goldman, Sachs company time, resources or facilities which might have required reporting under 11 CFR 110.6(c)(2).

9704380328 3

IV. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Respondents Clinton for President Committee and Robert A. Farmer, as Treasurer, request that the Commission determine to take no further action against them in this matter.

RESPONSE OF CLINTON FOR PRESIDENT AND ROBERT A. FARMER AS TREASURER TO SUBPOENA FOR PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS

Respondents Clinton for President Committee, Inc. and Robert A. Farmer, as Treasurer, hereby respond to the Commission's November 4, 1992 Subpoena for Production of Documents as follows:

Respondents do not interpret the Document Requests to call for the identification or production of documents such as direct mail solicitations and invitations to fundraising events that may have been mailed to persons who are employed by or affiliated with Goldman, Sachs & Company on the basis that they were mailed to persons with no affiliation to Goldman, Sachs. Similarly, Respondents do not interpret the Requests to seek copies of contribution checks received by the campaign from persons affiliated with Goldman, Sachs & Company because reports of such contributions already have been made to the Commission in accordance with applicable law and regulations. 1/ Rather, Respondents interpret the Requests to seek documents relating to "Goldman, Sachs-specific" fundraising or solicitation efforts. Subject to this interpretation, and after reasonable inquiry of persons familiar with documents in the Committee's possession, Respondents state that they possess no responsive documents. Although not directly responsive to the Document Requests or relevant to the subject matter of this MUR, Respondents are producing to the Commission copies of documents relating to campaign-related disbursements by the Clinton campaign to Goldman, Sachs and persons affiliated with it. Respondents assume that these documents will be reviewed by Commission staff in the course of the ongoing audit.

~~Reimbursement~~ Request

To: Paul R. Carey

From: Kenneth D. Brody

Date: 2/20/92

Please have the campaign comptroller reimburse me in the amount of $ 3838.52 for expenses incurred by me for the Clinton '92 campaign. These expenses were paid by me personally as a courtesy and in advance to secure agreements or reservations with New York vendors or banquet facilities as the New York campaign office, being a temporary entity, was neither estasblished nor able to get a line of credit for such services or due to a time deadline. On other occasions I acted as host for a Clinton reception. All amounts should be re-paid in full immediately.

Payment to: G. Sachs + Co.

Date October + November

For: office space etc.

Note: Please provide all documentation for any payment requests you are making to me. You are not authorized to use my name, accounts or affiliation for any purpose without express permission from me directly. Under no circumstances are you to use the name or accounts of my employer, Goldman Sachs, for any purposes.

Please have the campaign comptroller reimburse me in the amount of $ 715.00 for expenses incurred by me for the Clinton '92 campaign. These expenses were paid by me personally as a courtesy and in advance to secure agreements or reservations with New York vendors or banquet facilities as the New York campaign office, being a temporary entity, was neither estasblished nor able to get a line of credit for such services or due to a time deadline. On other occasions I acted as host for a Clinton reception. All amounts should be re-paid in full immediately.

ASAP

To: Paul R. Carey

From: Kenneth D. Brody

Date: 4/15/92

Please have the campaign comptroller reimburse me in the amount of $ 6819.50 for expenses incurred by me for the Clinton '92 campaign. These expenses were paid by me personally as a courtesy and in advance to secure agreements or reservations with New York vendors or banquet facilities as the New York campaign office, being a temporary entity, was neither estasblished nor able to get a line of credit for such services or due to a time deadline. On other occasions I acted as host for a Clinton reception. All amounts should be re-paid in full immediately.

Payment to: Goldman Sachs

Date Feb-Mar 92

For: Taxis for Clinton campaign

You are not authorized to use my name, accounts or affiliation for any purpose without express permission from me directly. Under no circumstances are you to use the name or accounts of my employer, Goldman Sachs, for any purposes.

Re: MUR 3672 Goldman, Sachs & Co.

Dear Mr. Noble:

On December 9, 1992, we sent you certain documents in connection with the November 4, 1992 subpoena that the Federal Election Commission issued in MUR 3672 to Goldman, Sachs & Co. ("Goldman Sachs"). See December 9, 1992 letter from Geoffrey F. Aronow and Kathleen M.H. Wallman to Lawrence M. Noble. Goldman Sachs committed in the December 9 submission to update its submission as appropriate. Accordingly, enclosed are several nonprivileged documents to supplement the previous submission of documents. See Document Bates-stamped nos. 219 to 226. Goldman Sachs does not believe that these documents are responsive to the subpoena, but, consistent with its previous submission, is voluntarily producing these documents in an effort to be as cooperative and forthcoming as possible.

We are providing a copy of a check, document Bates-stamped no. 220, which is in payment of an invoice we provided on December 9, 1992 (document Bates-stamped no. 29). In addition, document Bates-stamped nos. 225, 226 are copies of another of the checks from the Clinton campaign to Goldman Sachs reimbursing it for certain items reflected in an invoice that we provided on December 9, 1992 (document Bates-stamped nos. 192-194). Goldman Sachs was able to locate this latter check with comparative ease because it apparently was deposited by itself. However, the remaining reimbursement checks from the Clinton campaign cannot be obtained from Goldman Sachs records without a burdensome effort, because they apparently were included with other checks in batch deposits. In any event, we do not believe that the checks are responsive to the subpoena.

Goldman Sachs is providing the enclosed documents, all of which are stamped "confidential," without waiver of any objection that it may have to the subpoena.

Please do not hesitate to contact us if you require further information.

Sincerely,

Geoffrey F. Aronow

RE: Campaign Expenses

In addition to the expenses outlined in Jim McHugh's memos to you of October 27 and 30, Bob Rubin incurred additional post-convention telephone expenses of $15.01 which should be remitted directly to him. I believe this represents his final expenses.

Dear Ms. Varney:

Subsequent to Kevin Whitney's memo to you of December 29, we uncovered an additional campaign-related expense of $95 incurred by Mr. Rubin in October for a trip to Lansing, Michigan; the charges were for a taxi and telephone calls. I would be grateful if you would arrange for Mr. Rubin to be reimbursed directly by the campaign.

Dear Mr. Zanfardino:

On January 29, 1993, the Clinton for President Committee submitted its response to the Commission's subpoena in the above-captioned MUR. Since that time, we have located some additional documents that, while not necessarily called for by the subpoena, bear generally on the subject of the Commission's investigation. These documents are enclosed.

Please call me if you have any questions.

TO: The Commission

FROM: Lawrence M. Noble

BY: Lois G. Lerner
Associate General Counsel

SUBJECT: MUR 3672- Severing Portion of MUR for Transfer to PFESP

On January 6, 1995, this Office circulated a memorandum to the Commission regarding the handling of complaint-generated matters by PFESP. This memorandum outlined the procedures for transfer and identified ten cases appropriate for transfer. In regard to one of the matters identified, MUR 3672, this Office noted that only a portion of the MUR was appropriate for transfer to PFESP.

MUR 3672 is a large case involving several fact patterns. MUR 3672 and the Final Audit Report for the Clinton for President Committee both include the issue of a Goldman, Sachs partner's apparent use of his company expense account to front expenses for the Clinton primary campaign in New York. MUR 3672 also involves Goldman, Sachs' apparent facilitation of numerous contributions to the Clinton Committee by firm partners.

Consequently, this Office is recommending that the Commission severe the portion of the MUR that relates to the Clinton Committee and Goldman, Sachs from MUR 3672 and open a separate MUR for the severed portion. The new MUR will be handled by PFESP in conjunction with the Clinton audit.

RECOMMENDATION

Severe the portion of the MUR that relates to the Clinton Committee and Goldman, Sachs from MUR 3672 and open a separate MUR for the severed portion.

GENERAL COUNSEL'S REPORT

I. GENERATION OF MATTER

This matter was generated from activities that arose in MUR 3672, which was a Directive 6 enforcement matter, and MUR 4172, which was an audit referral of the Clinton for President Committee ("the Committee"). Attachment 1 (Audit Referral).[1]

In MUR 3672, the Commission, on October 20, 1992, found reason to believe that Goldman Sachs and Company ("Goldman Sachs") violated 2 U.S.C. §§ 441a(a)(1)(A), 441a(a)(8), 441c and 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(1), that Ken Brody, a Goldman Sachs' partner, violated 2 U.S.C. § 441c, and that the Committee violated 2 U.S.C. §§ 441a(f), 441c, and 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(2). These findings were based upon information which indicated that Goldman Sachs

1 The Committee is the authorized committee of President William J. Clinton's 1992 Democratic Primary campaign. The Committee qualified for public funds under the Presidential Primary Matching Payment Account Act and received $12,536,135 in matching funds from the United States Treasury. 26 U.S.C. §§ 9033 and 9034. The audit referenced in this report was conducted as a result of the Committee's receipt of public funds. 26 U.S.C. § 9038(a). Although this audit concerned various activities undertaken by the Committee, this Office has included only that portion of the audit referral that concerns the Committee's activities which are at issue in this report. The remaining issues are addressed in MUR 4172.

may have facilitated in the making of contributions from its partners to the Committee and that Ken Brody was at that center of this activity.

The Commission authorized the Office of General Counsel to issue document subpoenas to Goldman Sachs and the Committee. On December 9, 1992, Goldman Sachs produced documents in response to the subpoena request as well as a response to the various issues presented in the Factual and Legal Analysis.[2] Attachment 2. On the same date, Kenneth Brody also submitted his response to the Factual and Legal Analysis. Attachment 3. Lastly, on January 29, 1993, the Committee submitted its response to the subpoena request.[3] Attachment 4. Thereafter, on January 31, 1995, Goldman Sachs was severed from MUR 3672 and MUR 4183 was created to address the Goldman Sachs issues noted in MUR 3672.[4]

By comparison, MUR 4172, the audit referral, included information which showed that the Committee was provided with various services by Goldman Sachs, including the use of office space and other related services.[5] On February 28, 1995, the Commission received a response to

2 As part of its response, Goldman Sachs stated that "[it] had made a good faith effort to locate all nonprivileged, responsive documents." Attachment 3 at 3.

3 On December 8, 1992, the Committee requested an extension of time to respond to the document subpoena request until December 30, 1992. Attachment 5 at 17. On December 23, 1992, the Committee requested an additional extension of time to respond to the subpoena request until January 29, 1993. Id. at 15-16. On January 4, 1993, the Office of General Counsel granted the Committee's second extension request. Id. at 14. On January 29, 1993, the Committee submitted its response to the document subpoena request. Id. at 1-13. The Committee asserts that based on its interpretation of the document request and "after [a] reasonable inquiry of persons familiar with documents in the Committee's possessions . . . they possess no responsive documents." Id. at 13. However, the Committee did produce "copies of documents relating to campaign-related disbursements by the Clinton campaign to Goldman, Sachs and persons affiliated with it." Id.

4 In May 1993, the Office of General Counsel Enforcement Division deactivated MUR 3672. In July 1994, the Enforcement Division reactivated MUR 3672. On January 31, 1995, the Enforcement Division transferred the Goldman Sachs portion of this MUR to the Public Financing, Ethics, and Special Projects Division.

5 Based upon the audit referral, the Commission also found reason to believe that the Committee violated 2 U.S.C. § 441a(f). In addition, the Commission found reason to believe that the Committee violated 2 U.S.C. §§ 434(b)(3)(A), 434(b)(3)(F), 441b, and 11 C.F.R. § 104.3(a)(4)(V), but took no further action with respect to these violations.

the Final Audit Report, which included specific references to the finding involving Goldman Sachs. Attachment 5.[6] Thereafter, on August 16, 1995, the Commission severed the Goldman Sachs matter from MUR 4172 and incorporated it into MUR 4183.

II. RECOMMENDATIONS IN LIGHT OF FEC v. NRA (FINDINGS ARISING OUT OF MUR 3672)

In light of FEC v. NRA Political Victory Fund, 6 F.3d 821 (D.C. Cir. 1993), cert. dismissed, 115 S.Ct. 537 (1994) ("NRA"), this Office recommends that the Commission, consistent with its November 9, 1993 decisions regarding compliance with the NRA decision, revote to find reason to believe that the following violations by the following persons or entities occurred based on the reasoning set forth in the First General Counsel's Report dated September 29, 1992 in MUR 3672: a) Clinton for President Committee and Robert A. Farmer, as treasurer, violated 2 U.S.C. §§ 441a(f) and 441c and 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(2); b) Goldman, Sachs and Company violated 2 U.S.C. §§ 441a(a)(1)(A), 441a(a)(8), and 441c and 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(1); and c) Kenneth Brody violated 2 U.S.C. § 441c.[7]

This Office further recommends that in light of NRA, the Commission revote to authorize the subpoenas to produce documents for the Clinton for President Committee, Goldman, Sachs and Company, and Kenneth Brody as stated in the First General Counsel's Report dated September 29, 1992 in MUR 3672.[8]

6 Attachment 5 contains the portion of the Committee's response to the Final Audit Report that pertains only to its activities involving Goldman Sachs.

7 It should be noted that Robert M. Farmer is no longer the Committee's treasurer. Pursuant to established Commission policy, any additional findings that pertain to the Committee will specify J.L. "Skip" Rutherford, the Committee's present treasurer.

8 The Commission's revoting of a prior finding is a sufficient to remedy any NRA constitutional violations. Federal Election Commission v. Legi-Tech, Inc., No. 94-5379 at 9 (D.C. Cir. Feb. 16, 1996).

III. DISCUSSION

A. Overview

As previously noted, this matter concerns the Committee's use of Goldman Sachs' facilities as well as Goldman Sachs' apparent facilitation of contributions to the Committee. Although the use of corporate facilities and the facilitation of contributions are distinct legal activities, the activities at issue in this matter are interrelated. The evidence shows that the Committee used Goldman Sachs' office space and other facilities from October 1991 through December 1991 and that Goldman Sachs' apparent facilitation of some $55,800 in contributions to the Committee occurred in December 1991, shortly before the Committee relinquished its use of Goldman Sachs' office space. The evidence further shows that it was Kenneth Brody, a Goldman Sachs' partner, who arranged for the Committee to use Goldman Sachs' facilities and who also solicited many of the contributions at issue in the apparent facilitation scheme.

Although many of the circumstances surrounding the various activities in this matter remain to be determined, it appears that the Committee received prohibited contributions from Goldman Sachs. The Commission could pursue these violations through additional discovery. However, this Office recommends that the Commission instead offer to enter into pre-probable cause conciliation negotiations with the Committee and Goldman Sachs based upon the evidence in hand.

B. The Law

Under the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended (the "Act"), corporations are prohibited from making any contribution or expenditure in connection with any election at which presidential and vice-presidential electors are to be voted for, or to make a contribution or expenditure in connection with any primary election or political convention or caucus held to select candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States. 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a). In addition, the Act prohibits any corporate officer or director from consenting to any contribution or expenditure by the corporation. Id. It is also unlawful for any candidate, political committee or other person knowingly to accept or receive any contribution from any corporation or from any officer or any director of any corporation to consent to any contribution or expenditure by the corporation. Id. [9]

For purposes of Section 441b(a), the Act defines a contribution to include "any direct or indirect payment, distribution, loan, advance, deposit or gift of money, or any services, or anything of value" given to a federal candidate or campaign in connection with a federal election. 2 U.S.C. § 441b(b)(2). There are, however, certain exemptions from the broad prohibition against corporate contributions that are relevant in this matter. First, the Commission's regulations permit a political committee to use a corporation's facilities in connection with a federal election. 11 C.F.R. § 114.9(d). See 2 U.S.C. § 431(11) (political committee included in definition of "person" lawfully permitted to use corporate facilities). The committee must, however, reimburse the 9 Although it initially appeared that Goldman Sachs was a partnership, this Office has since learned through discovery that Goldman Sachs is actually a corporation registered in the State of New York. See MUR 3672 First General Counsel's Report. Based upon information obtained from the New York Secretary of State's Office, Goldman Sachs and Company became a registered corporate entity on February 19, 1987. Attachment 6. Goldman Sachs and Company is a subsidiary of The Goldman Sachs Group, Limited Partnership. Attachment 9. The Partnership was formed in 1989 to operate as a holding company for Goldman Sachs and Company and its subsidiaries. Attachment 10. The Partnership is the direct parent of Goldman Sachs and Company. Id. The dominant characteristic of a holding company is the ownership of securities by which it is possible to control or substantially influence the policies and management of one or more operating companies in a particular enterprise. North American Co. v. U.S. Securities and Exchange Comm'n., 327 U.S. 686, 701 (1946). Under New York law, the general rule is that a subsidiary and its parent are legally distinct entities. See Carte Blanche (Singapore) v. Diners Club Int'l., Inc., 2 F.3d 24, 26 (2nd Cir. 1993) (parent corporation and its subsidiary are legally distinct entities). Since the holding company is usually limited to owning securities, the Office of General Counsel believes that the party acting in this matter was the subsidiary corporate entity, Goldman Sachs and Company. corporation within a commercially reasonable time for the usual and normal charge, as defined in 11 C.F.R. § 100.7(a)(1)(iii)(B), for any the use of the corporation's facilities. 11 C.F.R. § 114.9(d).

Second, a candidate, candidate's agent, or person traveling on behalf of a candidate who uses transportation (other than a plane) which is owned or leased by a corporation must reimburse, within a commercially reasonable time, the corporation at the normal and usual rental charge for such transportation. 11 C.F.R. § 114.9(e).[10]

Third, the Commission's regulations also permit the stockholders and employees of a corporation to make occasional, isolated or incidental use of corporate facilities for individual volunteer activity in connection with a federal election. 11 C.F.R. §§ 114.9(a)(1) and (b)(1). Such stockholders and employees will be required to reimburse the corporation only to the extent that the overhead or operating costs of the corporation are increased. Id. If a person makes more than an occasional, isolated or incidental use of corporate facilities, that person must reimburse the corporation within a commercially reasonable time for the usual and normal rental charge, as defined in 11 C.F.R. § 100.7(a)(1)(iii)(B), for the use of the facilities. 11 C.F.R. §§114.9(a)(2) and (b)(2).[11]

[10] The FECA and the Commission's regulations do not define a "commercially reasonable time." However, courts have held that "what constitutes a reasonable time depends upon the circumstances of the particular case . . . in the light of the circumstances and conditions surrounding the transaction." Intech, Inc. v. Consolidated Freightways, Inc., 836 F.2d 672, 675(1st Cir. 1987) (using the concept of "reasonable time" in the context of transporting and delivering a shipment)(citing to Chesapeake & O. Ry. v. Martin, 283 U.S. 209, 213, (1931)). The circumstances of the particular market involved should determine the duration of a "commercially reasonable time." First National Bank of Chicago v. Jefferson Mortgage Co., 576 F.2d 479, 492 (3d Cir. 1978). This Office believes that a "commercially reasonable time" should be interpreted to include the length of time that such facilities were used and the circumstances and conditions surrounding the use of corporate facilities. Therefore, "commercially reasonable time" should also be interpreted to include the standard billing practices of the corporation.

[11] Although the Commission's regulations permit these limited exemptions to the prohibition against corporate contributions, corporations may not engage in other activities that result in the facilitation of contributions to committees. Subsequent to the activities at issue in the matter at hand, the Commission reiterated its policy regarding

The Commission's regulations explain that occasional, isolated or incidental use generally means (i) when used by employees during working hours, an amount of activity during any particular work period which does not prevent the employee from completing the normal amount of work which that employee usually carries out during such work period; or (ii) when used by stockholders other than employees during the working period, such use does not interfere with the corporation in carrying out its normal activities; but (iii) any such activity which does not exceed one hour per week or four hours per month, regardless of whether the activity is undertaken during or after normal working hours, shall be considered as occasional, isolated, or incidental use of the corporate facilities. 11 C.F.R. §§ 114.9(a)(1)(i)-(iii).[12]

Although the Act allows committees to use corporate facilities in connection with a federal election, political committees are required to report the amount and nature of outstanding debts and obligations resulting from the use of facilities. 2 U.S.C. § 434(b)(8); see also 11 C.F.R. § 104.11. The Commission's regulations also provide that if the exact amount of a debt or obligation is not known, the report shall state that the amount reported is an estimate. 11 C.F.R.

the facilitation of contributions by corporations and labor organizations in the rule making process with new regulations that specifically prohibit corporations and labor organizations from facilitating the making of contributions to candidates and political committees, other than the separate segregated fund of the corporations or labor organization. These regulations explain that facilitation means using corporate resources or facilities to engage in fundraising activities in connection with any federal election. 11 C.F.R. § 114.2(f)(1). One of the examples of facilitation included in the regulations includes fundraising activities by corporations that involve officials or employees of the corporation ordering or directing subordinates or support staff (who therefore are not acting as volunteers) to plan, organize or carry out the fundraising project as a part of their work responsibilities using corporate or labor organization resources, unless the corporation receives advance payment for the fair market value of such services. 11 C.F.R. § 114.2(f)(2)(i)(A).

[12] There are other exemptions from the broad prohibition against corporate contributions which are not relevant in this matter. See 2 U.S.C. §§ 441b(b)(2)(C) (expenditures for administration of separate segregated fund exempt), 441b(b)(2)(A) (partisan communications in several formats, as set forth at 11 C.F.R. § 114.3(c)(1)-(4), to its executive and administrative personnel, as defined at 11 C.F.R. § 114.1(c), and their families are exempt) and 441b(b)(2)(B) (non-partisan communications to people outside of its restricted class are exempt).

§ 104.11(b). Once the exact amount is determined, the political committee shall either amend the report containing the estimate or indicate the correct amount on the report for the reporting period in which such amount is determined. Id.

C. Committee's Use of Goldman Sachs' Facilities (MUR 4172)

1. Audit Findings and Committee's Response

The audit of the Committee, conducted pursuant to 26 U.S.C. § 9038, found that Goldman Sachs billed the Committee a total $16,295 for various expenses that the Committee incurred in connection with the use of Goldman Sachs' office space. These expenses are as follows: $3,838.52 for the use of office space and support between October 1991 and December 1991; $1,235 for a breakfast held on October 24, 1991 for then Governor Clinton; $4,401.40 for the use of a car for the period ending February 13, 1992; and $6,819.50 for the use of a car for the period ending March 18, 1992. The $3,838.52 charge for office space included: $750 for office rental; $2,200 for photocopying services; $49.59 for word processing services; $84.48 for messenger services; and $754.45 for telephone charges. Attachments 1 at 5, 2 at 33 and 5 at 14 and 17.[13]

According to the Audit Referral, Kenneth Brody, in his capacity as a member of the Committee's national finance committee and as the Committee's finance chair for New York, arranged for the Committee to lease space from Goldman Sachs from September 1991 through [13] The type of services that Goldman Sachs provided raise the issue of whether they are facilities. Under the Commission's regulations persons may lawfully use corporate facilities, "such as . . . telephones or typewriters . . . or office furniture." 11 C.F.R. § 114.9(d). The information in the matter at hand shows that the Committee used various services, such as a messenger service as well as photocopying and word processing services. The Commission, however, recently revised its regulations governing corporate and labor organization activity in federal elections. Although there were "no changes to [Section 114.9(d)]," see 60 Fed. Reg. 64260, 64264, it is this Office's understanding, based upon the Commission's rule making process, that the various services that the Committee used and reimbursed Goldman Sachs for in the matter at hand would be corporate facilities, which a person could use in connection with federal election activity provided that they reimbursed the corporation within a commercially reasonable time in the amount of the normal and usual rental charge, as defined at 11 C.F.R. § 100.7(a)(1)(iii)(B).

December 1991, prior to the opening of the Committee's New York office. Attachment 1 at 4. Attachment 2 at 13. Mr. Brody, who is also a partner with Goldman Sachs, Limited Partnership, the holding company for Goldman Sachs and Company, purportedly made such arrangements to enable Paul Carey, the Committee's Northeast Finance Coordinator who reported directly to Ken Brody, to begin fundraising efforts. Id. The Audit Referral shows that the Committee also used Goldman Sachs' related office support services, including photocopying, word processing, messenger service and telephone service, during the lease period. Id. An invoice for the breakfast shows that it was organized by Mr. Brody for then Governor Clinton and that the $1,235 in expenses arose from providing food to 19 people at a cost of $65 per person. Id. See also Attachments 2 at 18-19 and 4 at 33. Lastly, the available information shows that Messrs. Brody and Carey also used Goldman Sachs' car service both during and after the period that the Committee leased office space from Goldman Sachs. Attachment 3 at 16-18. See also Attachments 2 and 4.

According to the Audit Referral, although the Committee reimbursed Goldman Sachs for the use of the car service within a commercially reasonable time at the usual and normal charge, it does not appear that the Committee reimbursed Goldman Sachs for the use of the other facilities, including the office space, the related office support services and the expenses incurred in connection with the breakfast, within a commercially reasonable time. First, the Audit Referral explains that Goldman Sachs did not bill the Committee for the office space and related office expenses for the period of September 1991 through December 1991 until February 19, 1992, and the Committee did not pay this invoice until April 16, 1992. The Audit Referral notes that the two largest invoices cover the period of December 27, 1991, through March 7, 1992, yet the invoice covering activity through December 27, 1991, was not billed until March 23, 1992, while the invoice covering activity through March 23, 1992, was not billed until April 15, 1992. In addition, the Audit Referral notes that the invoice for the expenses incurred for the October 24, 1991 breakfast was not sent to the Committee until November 24, 1992, some 13 months after the event.

Second, the Audit Division notes that the Committee's response to the Interim Audit Report does not provide any specific examples of other clients of similar size and risk, examples of similar types of activities where billings were delayed several months to over one year or where Goldman Sachs donated its services at cost. In response to the Interim Audit Report the Committee submitted affidavits from two Goldman Sachs Vice Presidents familiar with the expenses incurred by the Committee who merely note that the Committee was billed "in a manner wholly consistent with the Division's ordinary commercial practice and experience." Attachment 1 at 5. In his affidavit, Harry Silver, a Goldman Sachs Vice President and Chief Administrator of the Investment Banking Division, explained that his division processed the invoices for the office expenses incurred by the Committee and that there are no mandatory time parameters governing the process of reviewing disbursements and billing third parties. Id. Similarly, in his affidavit, Kenneth Norton, another Goldman Sachs Vice President who is one of the individuals responsible for the management of the Accounting Services Department, stated that in the case of the invoices for the breakfast and car services there are no time parameters governing billing third parties for reimbursement of these expenses. Id. He further stated that the process of billing third parties for such expenses ranged anywhere from several months to one year or more from the time the expense was actually incurred. Id.

2. Discussion

Although the Audit Referral concluded that the Committee may not have reimbursed Goldman Sachs in a commercially reasonable time for the use of an office space as well as various related office services, the Committee's response to the Final Audit Report included additional information showing that Goldman Sachs apparently did not deviate from its standard billing practices when it sought reimbursement from the Committee. The information submitted includes additional affidavits from Messrs. Silver and Norton, who explain in greater detail the manner in which the Committee was billed for office space and other related office support services, including the breakfast and car services. Attachment 5. In his affidavit, Mr. Silver states that "reimbursement of disbursements from third parties" normally occurs "after a phase of a project has ended or a discrete series of expenses has been fully incurred" even though "no mandatory time parameters [exist] within [their] Division governing the process of reviewing disbursements and billing third parties for purposes of obtaining reimbursement." Attachment 5 at 12. Mr. Silver stated that Goldman Sachs had approximately 207 instances whereby Goldman Sachs billed its clients approximately three (3) months or more after a matter was closed, and that the amount of time which elapsed prior to billing was not reflective of "the client's size or risk." Id. at 8-9.

In his affidavit, Mr. Norton states that all Goldman Sachs partners and selected employees "are furnished vouchers for their [car service] accounts and are generally free to use various services engaged by the firm at their discretion, for both business and personal purposes." Attachment 5 at 16. Mr. Norton also states that such individuals receive a monthly statement and that the individual is responsible for "reviewing his or her printout for accuracy, allocating the charges to business or personal matters, and providing reimbursement for the personal charges." Id. at 17. Mr. Norton further states that "the process of receiving, reviewing, and processing car service charges routinely involves anywhere from several months to one (1) year or more from the time that the expense is actually incurred." Id. Additionally, Mr. Norton states that "there are no time parameters governing billing third parties for reimbursement of in-house food service expenditures incurred to the firm . . . the processing of general expenses and billing of third parties ranges anywhere from several months to one (1) year or more from the time that the expense is actually incurred." Id. at 19.

In addition, a chart provided in the response to the final audit report shows numerous instances in which Goldman Sachs billed entities for the use of its facilities many months after the use of such facilities occurred. Attachment 5 at 21-26. According to this information, between December 1991 and November 1992, Goldman Sachs had: (a) 207 instances where it billed clients approximately three months or more after the use of the facilities occurred; (b) 61 instances were the billing occurred one year or more after the use of the facilities occurred; and (c) thirteen instances were the billing occurred more than two years after the use of the facilities occurred. Id. at 8.

The audit showed that Goldman Sachs billed the Committee for the use of its office space and furniture, telephones and word processing services on February 19, 1992, approximately three months after the Committee's use of the office space and that the Committee paid the bill on April 16, 1992, within 60 days from when it was received. This appears to be within the range of Goldman Sachs billing to other entities for the use of its facilities. Attachment 1 at 4-5.[14] Therefore, it appears that the Committee reimbursed Goldman Sachs within a commercially reasonable time.

Nevertheless, the available information shows that the Committee did not pay the usual and normal charge for the office space that it leased. An invoice dated February 19, 1992, from Goldman Sachs to the Committee shows that the total rent for the Committee's use of Goldman Sachs' office space between October and December 1991 was $750. Attachments 7 at 4, 6, 8 at 9. An internal Goldman Sachs memorandum dated February 19, 1992 explains that the rental amount was "[b]ased on estimates provided by Ken Brody given his best judgment on the space he could have secured for Paul Carey: $30.00 per square foot for a 150-square foot office for two months." Attachment 7 at 6.

However, another internal Goldman Sachs memorandum dated January 21, 1992 states that the Committee owed Goldman Sachs $3,475 for rental of its office space based on rates given by an outside agency of $1,500 per month for a 150 square foot office and a one-time installation charge of $475 for furniture and telephone. Attachments 8 at 9 and 7 and 8. Yet another undated Goldman Sachs document contains writings from Ken Brody questioning the $3,475 rental charge. Id. at 4. Specifically, Mr. Brody states, in part, that the specified rental amount "is incorrect to a very substantial degree. It almost looks like a non-professional approach that is disguised to appear something other than it is. Please check with me." Id. An additional undated Goldman Sachs document contains writings from Mr. Brody that changes the office rental amount from [14] This Office notes that the Committee is not a client of Goldman Sachs. Notwithstanding this fact, this Office believes that Goldman Sachs' client billing provides comparable information that is helpful in determining whether Goldman Sachs billed the Committee within a "commercially reasonable time." See supra note 10.

Thus, not only does the evidence show that Mr. Brody reduced the rent charged to the Committee from $3,475 to $750, but Goldman Sachs' own documentation contains an estimate from an outside agency that comparable office space (with furniture and phone) in New York, New York in late 1991 leased for $1,500 per month with a one-time installation charge of $475. Attachment 8 at 8. Moreover, Mr. Brody provides no objective basis for his determination that the rental charge for the office space totaled $750. In fact, the only basis Mr. Brody used for his determination was his "best judgment." Attachment 7 at 6.

In addition, the $750 rental charge is actually less than the charge described in Goldman Sachs' February 19, 1992 invoice to the Committee. The documentation related to that invoice explained that the $750 charge was calculated at $30.00 per square foot for a 150 square foot office over the course of two months. Attachment 8 at 9. However, at $30 a square foot for a 150 square foot office, the Committee would have owed Goldman Sachs $4,500 per month, for a total of $9,000. The rental charge of $750 equals $2.50 a square foot, an amount that is significantly below the fair market value of comparable office space in New York, New York in late 1991.

Based upon the available information, it appears that the usual and normal charge for the office space in question was $3,475. This is based upon the documentation provided by Goldman Sachs which shows that an outside agency calculated the fair market value for the 150 square foot office space in question at $1,500 per month with a one-time installation charge of $475 for furniture and telephone. The Committee, however, paid Goldman Sachs a total of $750 for the office space in question. This resulted in a prohibited contribution from Goldman Sachs to the Committee in the amount of $2,725.

office space in question. This resulted in a prohibited contribution from Goldman Sachs to the Committee in the amount of $2,725.

In addition to the office space, Goldman Sachs also invoiced the Committee for office related support services, including: $49.59 for word processing, $2,200 for photocopying, $84.48 for messenger services and $754.45 for telephone services. At this time, however, it is unclear whether the Committee paid the usual and normal rental charge for the use of these facilities or whether Goldman Sachs understated the value of these particular facilities when it invoiced the Committee, in much the same way that it did with the office space. Likewise, it is unclear whether the Committee's payment of $1,235 for the October 24, 1991 breakfast and $11,220.90 for the car service resulted in the usual and normal rental charge for the use of the particular facilities in question.[15]

Therefore, the Office of General Counsel recommends that the Commission find reason to believe that Goldman Sachs and Company violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a) by making a prohibited contribution to the Clinton for President Committee totaling at least $2,275. Additionally, this Office recommends that the Commission find reason to believe that the Committee, and J.L. "Skip" Rutherford, as treasurer, violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a) by accepting a prohibited contribution of at least $2,725 from Goldman Sachs and Company.

The Act also prohibits any corporate officer from consenting to the making of any contribution or expenditure by the corporation. It is unclear whether Mr. Brody was a corporate [15] We further note that, with regard to the breakfast, we do not know where this event was held, who may have attended it. Nor do we know the basis for the cost of $65 per person. The cost may have been based upon an invoice from an outside catering company or it may have been calculated based upon the cost of services provided by Goldman Sachs' own in-house food services. On the other hand, the $65 fee could have been based upon the cost of using a Goldman Sachs' meeting room. Likewise, it is unclear whether the car service that Messrs. Brody and Carey used was owned or leased by Goldman Sachs, as is required under the Commission's regulations. 11 C.F.R. § 114.9(e)(2).

officer, however, as previously noted, see supra note 9, Goldman Sachs and Company is owned by Goldman Sachs L.P., and, according to a Dun and Bradstreet Report, Goldman Sachs and Company employs approximately 6,800 people, including the partners of Goldman Sachs L.P. This same Dun & Bradstreet report disclosed that Goldman Sachs and Company is managed by an oversight Committee that is comprised of various general partners from Goldman Sachs L.P. Thus, it appears that a general partner at Goldman Sachs L.P. would have the authority similar to that of a corporate officer at Goldman Sachs and Company, the corporate respondent in this matter. In fact, the available information shows that Mr. Brody arranged for the Committee to use Goldman Sachs' office space. In addition, it appears that Mr. Brody is the Goldman Sachs' official who reduced the amount of rent that would be charged to the Committee to an amount below the market value for the office space in question. Under these circumstances, it appears that Mr. Brody consented to the making of a contribution from Goldman Sachs' to the Committee. If he was acting as an officer of Goldman Sachs at the time he did this, then he may have violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a).

Accordingly, this Office recommends that the Commission find reason to believe that Kenneth Brody violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a) by consenting to the making of Goldman Sachs' contribution to the Committee.

Additionally, the Committee was required to report the debt that it owed to Goldman Sachs for the use of its facilities during the time that such debt was outstanding.

The total amount of such debt based upon the invoices that Goldman Sachs submitted to the Committee was $16,295. See supra at 5-6. In addition, the Committee was required to report the debt resulting from its use of Goldman Sachs' office space that resulted in $2,725 in prohibited contributions to the Committee. Although the actual value of the various Goldman Sachs facilities that the Committee used remains to be determined, it appears that the Committee should have reported a debt owed to Goldman Sachs of at least $19,020 ($16,295 + $2,725). See supra at 12-13.

Therefore, the Office of General Counsel further recommends that the Commission find reason to believe that the Clinton for President Committee, and J.L. "Skip" Rutherford, as treasurer, violated 2 U.S.C. § 434(b)(8) by failing to report debts totaling at least $19,020.

D. Apparent Facilitation of Contributions (MUR 3672)

1. Background and Responses to Factual and Legal Analyses

At the time of the Commission's reason-to-believe findings in MUR 3672, the available information showed that 65 Goldman Sachs partners contributed $55,800 on one of nine dates. Of this total, 29 contributions totaling $38,300 were received on December 13 and December 18, 1991. Based on the number and pattern of contributions, it appeared that an organized solicitation of high-level Goldman Sachs employees may have occurred and that this activity may have been undertaken by Goldman Sachs and in particular by one of its partners, Kenneth Brody, who served as a financial advisor to the Committee and who, as the subsequent audit of the Committee revealed, also arranged for the Committee's use of Goldman Sachs' facilities. Thus, it appeared that Goldman Sachs may have provided "something of value" to the Committee.[16]

[16] At the time of the Commission's reason-to-believe findings the available information suggested that although Goldman Sachs was a partnership outside of the prohibitions of Section 441b, Goldman Sachs was nonetheless a federal contractor subject to the prohibition of Section 441c. Thus, the Commission found reason to believe that Goldman Sachs violated 2 U.S.C. § 441c. In addition, since Kenneth Brody presumably had knowledge of Goldman Sachs' status as a federal contractor, and since he may have been a fundraising agent for the Committee who conducted fundraising activity for the Committee, the Committee is charged with Mr. Brody's knowledge of Goldman Sachs' status as a federal contractor. Therefore, the Commission found that there was reason to believe that the

a. Kenneth Brody

In his response to the Commission's reason-to-believe finding, Mr. Brody acknowledges that he solicited contributions from various Goldman Sachs' partners, but maintains that his efforts on behalf of the Committee were "individual and voluntary" and were not the result of "any organized, institutional solicitation, nor in any way centrally coordinated or managed by" Goldman Sachs. Attachment 3 at 1-3. Mr. Brody further states that although he solicited many Goldman Sachs partners, he did not solicit each partner who contributed to the Committee nor did he "explicitly or implicitly coerce his partners [who he did solicit] to contribute." Id. at 3. Mr. Brody also acknowledges that he solicited contributions from many other sources, including partners in other investment banking firms, law firms and other institutions throughout New York, and that such solicitations were based on his "extensive network of personal contacts both inside and outside Goldman Sachs based on years of experience as a prominent banker in New York financial circles." Id. at 3.

Sachs may have acted as a conduit by facilitating in the making of the various contributions. In light of the firm's possible orchestration of the contributions, and since the contributions themselves may be chargeable to Goldman Sachs' contribution limit, see 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(d)(2), the Commission found reason to believe that Goldman Sachs violated 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(8), 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(1) and 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(1)(A). It also appeared that the Committee was aware that Goldman Sachs and Ken Brody may have been fundraising agents for the Committee. However, the Committee did not disclose the receipt of the contributions in question as coming from a conduit. Additionally, the Committee may have accepted excessive contributions from Goldman Sachs resulting from the facilitation of contributions. Therefore, the Commission found reason to believe that Committee and its treasurer violated 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(2) and 2 U.S.C. § 441a(f).

Based upon the investigation conducted thus far, it now appears that Goldman Sachs is a corporation subject to the prohibition set forth at Section 441b. See supra note 9. Thus, the contribution limitations at Section 441a of the Act as well as the conduit reporting requirements at Section 110.6 of the Commission's regulations would not apply here. In addition, information obtained from the United States General Services Administration as well as from the Respondents in this matter shows that Goldman Sachs was not a federal contractor during 1991 or 1992. Thus, the prohibition at Section 441c of the Act would not apply here.

b. Goldman Sachs

Goldman Sachs also acknowledges that Mr. Brody solicited the contributions in question and maintains that his activities constitute volunteer political activities that did not involve Goldman Sachs. Attachment 2 at 2. Goldman Sachs explains that as of November 29, 1991, Mr. Brody became a limited partner at Goldman, Sachs, L.P., the holding company for Goldman Sachs and Company, and as such, he was a passive investor who did not have any day-to-day involvement in the operation of Goldman Sachs. Id. Thus, Goldman Sachs claims that Mr. Brody's fundraising activities for the Committee were conducted in his personal capacity, at his own discretion and did not interfere with the normal amount of work he was expected to perform. Id. at 2-3. Goldman Sachs further states Mr. Brody solicited only certain partners at Goldman Sachs and other individuals outside of Goldman Sachs whom he personally knew. The Committee maintains that this type of fundraising is reflective of an individual's efforts to raise funds rather than any systematic approach to fundraising that Goldman Sachs might have instigated which, presumably would have involved the solicitation of each partner at the firm. Id.

c. Committee

The Committee maintains that it "conducted no solicitation or fundraising activity specifically directed to Goldman Sachs or based upon organized efforts by Goldman, Sachs management" and was unaware of any organized fundraising or solicitation activities "by Goldman Sachs to its partners or employees." Attachment 4 at 3. The Committee acknowledges that several Goldman Sachs partners, including Kenneth Brody, supported Bill Clinton's candidacy and assisted the campaign, but argues that "partners and employees are permitted, on an individual basis and consistent with the Commission's guidelines on use of time and facilities, to enlist the financial and other support of coworkers for a presidential campaign." Id. at 4-7. The Committee also distinguishes the activities at issue in the matter at hand from those at issue in AO 1986-4 as well as MUR 1690, which were cited in the Factual and Legal Analysis that was provided to the Committee. According to the Committee the matter at hand involved no "centrally directed plan or program by Goldman, Sachs to encourage or direct contributions to the Clinton campaign" nor is the Committee aware of "any communications by Goldman, Sachs partners, acting as such, encouraging contributions by subordinates." Id. at 7-8.

2. Discussion

As previously noted, the Commission's regulations permit stockholders and employees to make an occasional, isolated or incidental use of the corporation's facilities for individual volunteer activity in connection with a federal election. 11 C.F.R. § 114.9(a). However, corporations may not step beyond this line to actually collecting contribution checks or otherwise facilitating the making of contributions to a Federal candidate. See Advisory Opinion 1986-4 (systematic solicitation and collection of corporation's executives for candidates of the corporation's choosing is a violation of Section 441b(a)) and MUR 1690 (solicitation of company executives by another executive that entailed assistance from other lower echelon employees was a violation of Section 441b(a)).

The evidence in this matter is not without question. The responses, while denying any concerted effort on behalf of Goldman Sachs to solicit contributions to the Committee, provide few details on how the solicitations were made. For example, it is unclear whether Mr. Brody received assistance from Goldman Sachs staff in his solicitation efforts. It is possible that he received assistance from other Goldman Sachs' staff and that their efforts were not voluntary.

Moreover, the details of how the contributions were actually made were not explained. For example, it is unclear whether Mr. Brody solicited and collected the contributions during working hours.

Nonetheless, the timing and pattern of the contributions when viewed in light of the substantial support Goldman Sachs' provided to the Committee by allowing the Committee to use its facilities during the same time period supports the view that Mr. Brody did not act in an individual capacity when he engaged in the fundraising efforts at issue here. Shortly before Mr. Brody solicited the contributions in question, he arranged for the Committee's use of Goldman Sachs' office space and other facilities. In fact, the evidence shows that Mr. Brody was the individual at Goldman Sachs who instructed other employees to reduce the rent ultimately charged to the Committee to an amount below the usual and normal charge for such space. His actions in this regard, acquiesced in by Goldman Sachs, contradict the assertion that Mr. Brody was a limited partner with merely a passive investment interest. Rather, he appears to have exercised control over Goldman Sachs' daily operations with respect to the Committee. Given Mr. Brody's role as the Committee's fundraising representative for the New York area, the Committee's claims purporting to be unaware of his specific fundraising efforts are irrelevant.

In short, it appears that Mr. Brody acted as a representative of Goldman Sachs when he solicited contributions on behalf of the Committee. This resulted in a prohibited contribution from Goldman Sachs to the Committee. Although additional discovery is needed to determine the extent of this contribution, we know that 65 Goldman Sachs' partners contributed a total of $ 65,800 in contributions to the Committee.

Therefore, this Office recommends that the Commission find reason to believe that Goldman Sachs and Company and the Clinton for President Committee and Robert A. Farmer, as treasurer, violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a).

In addition, it appears that Mr. Brody is the Goldman Sachs' officer who consented to the facilitation efforts that resulted in the prohibited contribution at issue here. In fact, the evidence shows that Mr. Brody is the Goldman Sachs' official who apparently solicited the various contributions at issue in this matter, which, as noted above, were made on the same dates in December 1991.

Accordingly, this Office recommends that the Commission find reason to believe that Kenneth Brody violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a) by consenting to the making of Goldman Sachs contribution to the Committee.

GENERAL COUNSEL'S REPORT

EXECUTIVE SESSION

MAR 11 FEDERAL ELECTION COMMISSION SECRETARIAT

I. INTRODUCTION

On December 26, 1996, the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit issued a decision in Federal Election Commission v. Williams, No. 95-55320 (9th Cir. Filed Dec. 26, 1996). That decision held, inter alia, that the five-year statute of limitations for filing suit to enforce a civil penalty established at 28 U.S.C. § 2462 applies not only to judicial proceedings to enforce civil penalties already imposed, but also to proceedings seeking the imposition of these penalties, including the Commission's law enforcement suits under 2 U.S.C. § 437g(a)(6).

As noted in the memorandum regarding the filing of a petition for rehearing, the Office of General Counsel believes that the Commission should accept the court's core application of 28 U.S.C. § 2462 to its enforcement suits as the current state of the law. See Memorandum to the Commission, Petition for Rehearing, and Suggestion for Rehearing En Banc, In Federal Election Commission v. Williams, dated January 10, 1997. As also noted, however, we have sought further review of the court's decision relating to issues of equitable relief and equitable tolling.[1] Id. See also FEC v. NRSC, 877 F. Supp. 15, 21 (D.D.C. 1995).

This General Counsel's Report discusses the impact of 28 U.S.C. § 2462 on the Office of General Counsel's enforcement caseload.[2] This Report describes the active and inactive enforcement matters which are potentially affected by the application of the five-year statute of limitations under 28 U.S.C. § 2462, and makes recommendations for each of the potentially affected matters. This Report addresses all cases where the statute of limitations potentially expires, or partially expires, by the end of calendar year 1997 (December 31, 1997).

The Office of General Counsel is recommending that 18 matters be closed at this time. By doing so, this Office believes that it will be able to devote more resources toward more recent activity, particularly those matters that arose from the 1996 election cycle. To avoid potential statute of limitations problems in the future, this Office will track its cases against the relevant statute of limitations and will perform regular reviews of its caseload. In addition, this Office will be making periodic recommendations to the Commission with respect to matters that may be affected by the application of the five-year statute of limitations under 28 U.S.C. § 2462.

[1] Pending the court's decision, issues such as equitable relief, equitable tolling and ongoing violations, will remain open. In some instances, although issues such as equitable tolling and equitable relief may still be viable, this Office has cited other factors to support our recommendation to close the matter. See, e.g., cases involving apparent violations of 2 U.S.C. § 441a(f).

[2] This Report addresses enforcement matters assigned to the Public Financing, Ethics & Special Projects ("PFESP") and Enforcement areas.

III. RECOMMENDATIONS

The Office of General Counsel recommends that the Commission:

A. Decline to open a MUR, close the file, and approve the appropriate letters in Pre-MUR 344.

RE: MUR 4183 (formerly known as MUR 3672)
Kenneth Brody

Dear Mr. Simon:

On November 4, 1992, your client, Kenneth Brody, was notified that the Federal Election Commission found reason to believe that he violated 2 U.S.C. § 441c. On December 9, 1992, you submitted a response on behalf of your client to the Commission's reason-to-believe finding. Subsequently, on December 29, 1994, the Audit Division referred MUR 4172 to the Office of the General Counsel for possible enforcement action. That referral emanated from an audit of the Clinton for President Committee undertaken pursuant to 26 U.S.C. § 9033(a)(3). Thereafter, MUR 3672 and MUR 4172 were merged into MUR 4183.

After considering the circumstances of this case, including but not limited to the applicability of the relevant statute of limitations to some or all of the activity at issue in this matter, the Commission exercised its prosecutorial discretion to take no further action against Kenneth Brody on March 11, 1997. The Commission reached this determination objectively based upon the information on the record as a whole, the significance of the case relative to others, the amount of time that has elapsed, and other relevant factors. A brief narrative describing the basis for the Commission's decision is attached. Accordingly, the Commission closed its file in this matter on March 11, 1997.

The confidentiality provisions at 2 U.S.C. § 437g(a)(12) no longer apply and this matter is now public. In addition, although the complete file must be placed on the public record within 30 days, this could occur at any time following certification of the Commission's vote. If you wish to submit any factual or legal materials to appear on the public record, please do so as soon as possible. While the file may be placed on the public record before receiving your additional materials, any permissible submissions will be added to the public record upon receipt.

The Commission reminds you that facilitating the making of contributions to a federal candidate or political committee in connection with a federal election is a violation of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended.

MUR 4183 (Clinton for President/Goldman Sachs and Company)
(audit referral and directive 6) ('92 cycle)
PFESP Docket (Inactive)

The Commission, using its Directive 6 procedures, opened this matter on April 28, 1992, based upon Goldman Sachs and Company's apparent facilitation of contributions on behalf of the Clinton for President Committee. On October 20, 1992, the Commission found reason to believe that various violations occurred and issued subpoenas for documents. After the responses to the Commission's subpoenas and findings were received, this case was deactivated in May 1993. Thereafter, this matter was reactivated in July 1994 and subsequently transferred to PFESP in January 31, 1995, at which time, it was merged with the Audit referral which was received January 11, 1995. That Audit referral concerned the Committee's use of Goldman Sachs' facilities during the 1992 election cycle. This matter was thereafter deactivated in PFESP on February 1, 1997.

This Office recommends that the Commission exercise its prosecutorial discretion and take no further action, and close the file with respect to this matter. The activities at issue in this matter occurred between October and December 1991. Thus, based upon the decision in Williams, the Commission may be precluded from collecting a civil penalty for these violations.

Dear Mr. Aronow and Ms. Wallman:

On November 4, 1992, your clients were notified that the Federal Election Commission (the "Commission") found reason to believe that Goldman, Sachs & Company violated 2 U.S.C. §§ 441a(a)(1)(A), 441a(a)(8) and 441c and 11 C.F.R. § 110.6(c)(1) in connection with the apparent facilitation of contributions to the Clinton for President Committee. Dear Ms. Utrecht and Mr. Kleinfeld:

On November 4, 1992, your clients were notified that the Federal Election Commission found reason to believe that the Clinton for President Committee and its prior treasurer, Robert A. MUR 4183 (Clinton for President/Goldman Sachs and Company)
(audit referral and directive 6) ('92 cycle)
PFESP Docket (Inactive)

The Commission, using its Directive 6 procedures, opened this matter on April 28, 1992, based upon Goldman Sachs and Company's apparent facilitation of contributions on behalf of the Clinton for President Committee. On October 20, 1992, the Commission found reason to believe that various violations occurred and issued subpoenas for documents. After the responses to the Commission's subpoenas and findings were received, this case was deactivated in May 1993. Thereafter, this matter was reactivated in July 1994 and subsequently transferred to PFESP in January 31, 1995, at which time, it was merged with the Audit referral which was received January 11, 1995. That Audit referral concerned the Committee's use of Goldman Sachs' facilities during the 1992 election cycle. This matter was thereafter deactivated in PFESP on February 1, 1997.

This Office recommends that the Commission exercise its prosecutorial discretion and take no further action, and close the file with respect to this matter. The activities at issue in this matter occurred between October and December 1991. Thus, based upon the decision in Williams, the Commission may be precluded from collecting a civil penalty for these violations.
