In a notice published July 12, 1977, in the Federal Register, the FEC asked for written comments, suggested regulatory language, and factual material relating to questions such as:

- (a) Are Federal candidate debates held "for the purpose of influencing" an election or are they "in connection with" an election?
- (b) Does the inclusion/exclusion of third party and independent candidates affect whether the funds to finance a debate "influence" an election or are "in connection with" an election? How does public funding or ballot qualification affect this question?
- (c) Should candidate debates be sponsored by educational or non-profit organizations, or should other categories of sponsors be allowed?
- (d) What are the partisan effects of candidate debates on elections?
- (e) Who should control the subject matter and format of debates?
- (f) What effects do corporate, labor union and Federal contractor sponsorship and funding have on candidate debates, and the ensuing election?
