FEC COMPLETES MOVE TO NEW HEADQUARTERS

WASHINGTON--In order to prepare for their weekend move to new headquarters, the Federal Election Commission's Press Office and Information Services Division will close to the public at noon on Friday, February 14, 1986. The Public Records Office will be closed the entire day. The Commission's toll free phone number, (800) 424-9530, will not operate after 12 p.m. that Friday.

Since Monday is a federal holiday, the three offices will re-open on Tuesday, February 18, at their new location, 999 E Street, N.W. The Press Office and Public Records Offices will be located on the ground floor, while Information Services will be on the second floor. This is the final phase of the FEC's move which began on November 23, 1985.

Phone numbers for the three offices will change as indicated below.

Press	376-3155
Public Records	376-3140
Information Services	376-3120

The toll free number will remain the same, (800) 424-9530.

All correspondence to the Commission should be addressed to 999 E Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20463.
