1994 CONGRESSIONAL FUNDRAISING SETS NEW RECORD

WASHINGTON -- Congressional candidates raised a record $740.5 million during the 1993-94 election cycle, according to the Federal Election Commission's Final Report. The Report covers financial activity from January 1, 1993, through December 31, 1994.

Besides the record amount raised, the Report confirms previously released figures showing that U.S. Senate and House campaign spending was $725.2 million for the cycle. They ended the cycle with cash balances of $65.2 million and $95.7 million in debts.

The 12% increase in receipts and 7% increase in spending over 1992 occurred without some of the special factors which were evident in the previous election cycle (e.g. redistricting, and reapportionment.)

The following chart summarizes the financial activities of all Congressional campaigns by election cycle (special elections as well as the activity of all candidates who participated in 1994 primary and general elections included):

Republican candidates were responsible for the increased activity in 1993-94. Republican Senate candidates raised $183.6 million and spent $180.6 million while Democratic Senate candidates raised $133.6 million and spent $136.3 million. Republican House candidates raised $201.8 million and spent $191 million. Democratic House candidates raised $216.7 million and spent $213.4 million. For House and Senate candidates combined, this was a $92.7 million increase in receipts for Republicans and a $11.2 million decrease in receipts for Democrats when compared to 1991-92 figures. Spending by Republican candidates during 1993-94 increased by $72.4 million while spending by Democrats decreased $26.2 million when compared to the 1991-92 cycle.

The following chart summarizes activity of winning campaigns (special elections not included).

Helping to fuel the growth in campaign fundraising were increases in contributions and loans from candidates themselves which increased 37% over 1992 levels to a total $122.7 million; contributions from individuals increased 13%, climbing to $402.5 million during 1993-94. PACs, by contrast, gave almost identical amounts to 1993-94 campaigns- $179.6 million - as they did during the previous cycle ($178.6 million).

While PAC contributions remained constant, there were some significant changes in the type of candidates supported. The Report shows that PAC support of Democrats was focused on incumbents during 1993-94, while support for Republicans shifted somewhat to non-incumbents. For example, the Report shows that PAC giving to Republican House challengers increased 48% to $6.5 million. The following chart provides the amounts and percentages of PAC contributions in Congressional campaigns for nine election cycles.

FOOTNOTES

1. Figures in the first two Tables and the detailed listing of candidates cover from January 1, 1993, or whenever the campaign registered during the election cycle, through December 31, 1994, or the last report filed by the campaign, as indicated.
2. Net receipt and net disbursement figures are total receipts and total disbursements, as reported by the campaigns, minus any money transferred between committees of the same campaign.
3. Columns entitled "PAC Contributions" are monies contributed to campaigns as reported by the PAC's making contributions. For candidates who won special elections in 1993 or 1994, these contributions have been divided between the special and regular election processes based upon the date of the contribution. If that date is more than 20 days after the special election, then the contribution is included in the regular election information for that candidate.
4. Open seat races are those in which the incumbent did not seek reelection. As such, both general election candidates in the five districts where the incumbent was defeated in the primary are classified as challengers. Districts where special elections were held at times separate from the regular election calendar (TX Sen. CA/17; KY/2; MI/3; MS/2; OH/2; OK/6; and WI/1) have been divided into two races. Special election activity appears in tables referring to all campaigns and is included in the open seat category. Regular election activity of winners of the specials appear in the incumbent category, and their activity begins with the first report following the Post Special filing.
5. Percentage figures in Tables covering several election cycles represent the percentage of net receipts from each source and will not sum to 100, since not all sources of receipts are listed.
6. On the Senate listings, the column titled "Candidate Support" includes contributions by the candidate, as well as loans made or guaranteed by the candidate. The column titled "Trans from other auth" includes monies transferred from House committees of candidates for the Senate, as well as proceeds from joint fundraising activity among several candidates or committees. Contributions from individuals and PAC's made through these joint fundraising efforts are NOT included in the "Individual Contributions" or "PAC Contributions" columns.
7. Some House members who are or were running for the Senate in '94 changed their former House campaign committees into their Senate campaign committees. Financial activity related solely to their Senate campaigns cannot be isolated. (See Inhofe (OK) and Wheat (MO)).
8. Activity of House Other Party candidates primarily reflects the campaigns of Bernard Sanders in Vermont, David Levy in New York who ran in the primary as a Republican but ran in the general election on the Conservative Party ticket, Merrill Cook in Utah, Joseph Dioguardi in New York, and David Bingham in Connecticut.
9. Information regarding candidate contributions and loans from the candidate for Senate Republican Challengers is significantly affected by the campaign of Michael Huffington in California. He contributed $28.4 million to his campaign, 62% of all candidate contributions in that campaign type.
