To whom it may concern,

A political action committee known as the American Animal Husbandry Coalition-PAC, a group that defends the practice of cockfighting, filed a termination report with your agency in early to mid December.

After filing their termination report, they continued to solicit funds on various email lists. I would assume a PAC can't raise money after they have notified they FEC they have terminated their group and won't be putting forth anymore financial reports.

I have enclosed just a few of several correspondences I have which prove they have solicited funds after officially terminating as a PAC.

This is a group committed to defending a cruel practice that is banned in 47 states. I believe that anyone who would fight in defense of animal cruelty would not be above skirting around laws governing PAC fundraising.

Please let me know if the FEC plans to take action on this.

Sincerely,

John P. Goodwin

The AAHC-PAC is asking that you consider joining our organization and help our stated purpose. We would also like to ask you to sign up your friends and neighbors.

We further solicit monetary aid if you are in a position to help the cause. Our battle in Washington has caused considerable expense in the hiring of the lobbyists who have worked very hard to stop the federal legislation.

Thank you!

I'd like to donate to your American Animal Husbandry Coalition-PAC for political activism on behalf of the gamecock fighting tradition.

Can I still send money to AAHC-PAC and if so how do I send it.
