Summary and Analysis of Case: Treasurers of political committees are required to report all financial activity, including all receipts pursuant to the FECA. In this case, the Respondents¹ filed an amended 2006 July Quarterly Report on October 10, 2006, disclosing additional receipts totaling $150,511.54. This amount reflects a 195.6% increase from the receipts reported in the original report. The Respondents contend that this error was primarily because the Committee had converted to a new reporting software and the Committee's computers had also crashed, causing a loss of data during this reporting period. According to the Committee, it has instituted a number of corrective measures: among other things, it has installed a new accounting system to track all financial activity and to reconcile all bank records; hired an accountant; hired an experienced compliance specialist to enter all data into the new software; and began a process of amending all reports for errors resulting from the Committee's prior problems.

RECOMMENDATION:

1. Assign ADR 385/RR 07L-04 to the ADR Office.
