Donna,

Pursuant to our telephone conversation this morning, I am writing to clarify the donation my husband Mark and I made to Danny Tarkanian's congressional campaign. This was a personal contribution made jointly by my husband and myself. The funds came directly from our personal joint account. We are long-time personal friends of Danny's and wanted to support him. I am not sure where the confusion arose but I hope this email straightens things out.

If you need further information, please contact either myself and/or my husband.
