FEDERAL ELECTION COMMISSION
OFFICE OF GENERAL
COUNSEL

Dear Mr. Noble:

The National Republican Senatorial Committee charges that the Minnesota $$ Million PAC violated the Federal Election Campaign Act (2 U.S.C. 441a(a)(1)) by making contributions in excess of the $1,000 permitted limit. According to FEC records, Minnesota $$ Million collected contributions in the amount of $49,733.00 from 1991 to first quarter 1994. For the same time period they disbursed funds in the amount of $49,342.00. No amount of money has, at any time, been recorded as contributions by the Minnesota $$ Million to a candidate in a Federal election. The $49,342 disbursed during the specified time period was used to solicit funds and pledges for the Ann Wynia campaign for U.S. Senate. These funds are in the form of pledges and are now being collected by Minnesota $$ Million for the Ann Wynia campaign. Minnesota $$ Million plans to disband now that Ann Wynia has won the Democrat primary in the state of Minnesota.

Minnesota $$ Million's fundraiser, Catherine Hartnett, stated on the telephone that they "have collected over 350 pledges at $1,000 each and that the money is coming in to the Ann Wynia campaign. The phones have been ringing nonstop" These statements strongly suggest the respondent's intention to donate to Wynia's campaign a sum in excess of the $1,000, which is the FECA limitation for such a committee. According to the FECA, these services constitute in-kind contributions from the respondent to the beneficiary - the Ann Wynia campaign. None of these fund raising expenses, which dramatically exceed $1,000, have been declared as in-kind contributions to the beneficiary campaign, as required by FECA (2 U.S.C. 431(8); 11 C.F.R. 100.7(a)(1)(iii)).

The National Republican Senatorial Committee respectfully urges the Commission to conduct a prompt and thorough investigation into the allegations in this Complaint, and to declare that the Respondent has violated the FECA and Commission regulations.

Sincerely,

Edwina Rogers

COMPLAINT OF NATIONAL REPUBLICAN SENATORIAL COMMITTEE

1. This complaint charges that the respondent violated the Federal Election Campaign Act, 2 U.S.C. 441a(a)(1), as amended ("FECA"), by making contributions in excess of the limits permitted by the FECA.

PARTIES

2. The complainant, the National Republican Senatorial Committee ("NRSC") is a "political committee" registered with the Federal Election Commission ("FEC") in accordance with the law and established by Republican Members of the United States Senate to support incumbent and non-incumbent Republican Senate candidates.

3. The respondent, Minnesota $$ Million, is a nonconnected political committee and is registered at the Federal Election Commission. Minnesota $$ Million stated on its statement of organization filed with the FEC that the committee "supports/opposes more than one Federal candidate."

APPLICABLE STATUTES AND REGULATIONS

4. The FECA limits contributions made by political action committees, other than a multicandidate political committee, to any candidate, the candidate's authorized political committees or agents with respect to any election for Federal office to $1000 per election. 2 U.S.C. 441a(a)(1); 11 C.F.R. 110.1(b)(1).

5. In defining the term contribution, the FECA uses the term anything of value to include all in-kind contributions. In addition, it considers the provision of any goods or services without charge or at a charge which is less than usual and normal charge for such goods or services to be a contribution. In-kind contributions must be reported just as monetary contributions are reported to the FEC. 2 U.S.C. 431(8); 11 C.F.R. 100.7(a)(1)(iii).

GROUND FOR COMPLAINT

6. According to FEC records, the respondent, Minnesota $$ Million, collected contributions subject to FECA, and attributable to reports filed at the FEC for 1991 - 1994 activity, as specified in the attached list, Exhibit 1. Attached as Exhibit 1 are copies of the FEC records for each contribution collected during this period. All exhibits reflect the records on file at the FEC as of March 31, 1994.

7. According to FEC records, the respondent, Minnesota $$ Million, made disbursements subject to FECA, and attributable to reports filed at the FEC for 1991 - 1994 activity, as specified in the attached list, Exhibit 1. Attached as Exhibit 1 are copies of the FEC records for each disbursement during this time period. All exhibits reflect the records on file at the FEC as of March 31, 1994.

8. The respondent, Minnesota $$ Million, collected contributions in the total amount of $49,733.00. For the same time period they disbursed funds in the amount of $49,342.00. No amount of money has, at any time, been contributed by the Minnesota $$ Million to a candidate in a Federal election (see Exhibit 1). The $49,342.00 disbursed during the specified time period was used to solicit funds and pledges for the Ann Wynia campaign for U.S. Senate. These funds are in the form of pledges and are now being collected by Minnesota $$ Million for the Ann Wynia campaign. Minnesota $$ Million plans to disband now that Ann Wynia has won the Democrat primary in the state of Minnesota. Per a telephone conversation with Minnesota $$ Million's fundraiser, Catherine Hartnett, she stated that the committee "will now become part of the Ann Wynia campaign."

9. The attached news articles (Exhibit 2) demonstrate the respondent's objective to raise one million dollars for a Democrat female candidate. The articles also state that the committee has received 275 contributions in $1,000 increments. In each article, the committee's intention to contribute the total sum of money collected (which exceeds $1,000) to a single woman candidate, is expressed. Minnesota $$ Million's fundraiser, Catherine Hartnett, stated on the telephone that they "have collected over 350 pledges at

$1,000 each and that the money is coming in to the Ann Wynia campaign. The phones have been ringing nonstop"

10. The news articles located at Exhibit 3 (by Dane Smith) states that, "Wynia (or Berglin)...will become the recipient of a bundle of cash." Exhibit 4 states that, "Wynia welcomes a...cash infusion of $1 million." These statements strongly suggest the respondent's intention to donate to Wynia's campaign a sum in excess of the $1,000 which is the FECA limitation for such a committee.

11. The news article located at Exhibit 3 states that the professional firm of Catherine Hartnett and Associates was hired by the respondent, Minnesota $$ Million, to organize various fund-raising events. Exhibit 1 list payments to Catherine Hartnett and Associates, and other payments of a fund raising nature. According to the FECA, these services constitute in-kind contributions from the respondent to the beneficiary - the Ann Wynia campaign. In addition, the news article in Exhibit 3 states that many donors may have been encouraged, "to give directly to the candidates rather than to the fund." None of these fund raising expenses, which dramatically exceed $1,000, have been declared as in-kind contributions to the beneficiary campaign, as required by FECA (2 U.S.C. 431(8); 11 C.F.R. 100.7(a)(1)(iii)).

RELIEF

9. The National Republican Senatorial Committee respectfully urges the Commission to conduct a prompt and thorough investigation into the allegations in this Complaint, and to declare that the Respondent has violated the FECA and Commission regulations.

Dear Mr. Ryan:

I am responding to your letters of September 15, 1993, in which you question our first two quarterly reports of 1992. Enclosed are amended reports which do not carry over our financial activity of 1991 to the 1992 reports. I was guided by the instructions on page 14 of your "Campaign Guide" where it says that a committee "must disclose its pre-registration financial activity on its first report." Since our first report was for the first quarter of 1992, I included 1991 contributions and disbursements on that report. I have now reported 1991 activity on a separate report.

I am also enclosing amended reports for the third and fourth quarters of 1992 since the carry-forward of 1991 activity affects all the reports for the following year.

Thank you for your help on the telephone the other day, and I hope the enclosed reports are satisfactory.

Sincerely,

Nina Rothchild

Minnesota $$ Million
550 Rice Street
St. Paul, MN 55103

Identification Number: C00257923

Reference: April Quarterly Report (11/1/91-3/31/92)

Dear Ms. Rothchild:

This letter is prompted by the Commission's preliminary review of the report(s) referenced above. The review raised questions concerning certain information contained in the report(s). An itemization follows:

-Your committee has filed a report that contains financial activity which should have been included on a previous report. Overlapping coverage dates create difficulties in accounting for cash flow from one report to another. Please submit a 1991 Year End Report by including only the financial transactions that occurred between 11/1/91 and 12/31/91 and a 1992 April Quarterly Report that includes transactions occurring between 1/1/92 and 3/31/92. 2 U.S.C. §434(b)

-Political committees which have cash on hand at the time of registration must disclose the source of the funds. The balance is assumed to be composed of those contributions most recently received by the committee prior to registration. Please identify the source of these contributions on a memo Schedule A. 11 CFR §104.12

-The total listed on Line 6(c), Column B of the Summary Page appears to be incorrect. Please be advised that you should add the "Calendar Year-to-Date" total from your previous report to the current "Total This Period" figure from Column A to derive the correct Line 6(c), Column B total.

A written response or an amendment to your original report(s) correcting the above problem(s) should be filed with the Federal Election Commission within fifteen (15) days of the date of this letter. If you need assistance, please feel free to contact me on

Dear Ms. Rothchild:

Mina Rothchild, Treasurer

St. Paul, MN 55103

SEP 15 1993

Identification Number: C00257923

Reference: July Quarterly Report (4/1/92-6/30/92)

Dear Ms. Rothchild:

This letter is prompted by the Commission's preliminary review of the report(s) referenced above. The review raised questions concerning certain information contained in the report(s). An itemization follows:

-The Cash on Hand figure as of January 1, 1992, Line 6(a), Column B, should be the same as the Cash on Hand figure at the close of the previous reporting period (1991 Year End Report), Line 8, Columns A and B. Also, this figure should be the same throughout the calendar year.

-The total listed on Line 6(c), Column B of the Summary Page appears to be incorrect. Please be advised that you should add the "Calendar Year-to-Date" total from your previous report to the current "Total This Period" figure from Column A to derive the correct Line 6(c), Column B total.

-The total listed on Line 11(a)(ii), Column B of the Detailed Summary Page appears to be incorrect. Please be advised that you should add the "Calendar Year-to-Date" total from your previous report to the current "Total This Period" figure from Column A to derive the correct Line 11(a)(ii), Column B total.

-The total listed on Line 21(b), Column B of the Detailed Summary Page appears to be incorrect. Please be advised that you should add the "Calendar Year-to-Date" total from your previous report to the current "Total This Period" figure from Column A to derive the correct Line 21(b), Column B total.

A written response or an amendment to your original report(s) correcting the above problem(s) should be filed with the Federal Election Commission within fifteen (15) days of the date of this

Reference: April Quarterly Report (11/1/91-3/31/92)

Dear Ms. Rothchild:

This letter is prompted by the Commission's preliminary review of the report(s) referenced above. The review raised questions concerning certain information contained in the report(s). An itemization follows:

-Your committee has filed a report that contains financial activity which should have been included on a previous report. Overlapping coverage dates create difficulties in accounting for cash flow from one report to another. Please submit a 1991 Year End Report by including only the financial transactions that occurred between 11/1/91 and 12/31/91 and a 1992 April Quarterly Report that includes transactions occurring between 1/1/92 and 3/31/92. 2 U.S.C. §434(b)

-Political committees which have cash on hand at the time of registration must disclose the source of the funds. The balance is assumed to be composed of those contributions most recently received by the committee prior to registration. Please identify the source of these contributions on a memo Schedule A. 11 CFR §104.12

-The total listed on Line 6(c), Column B of the Summary Page appears to be incorrect. Please be advised that you should add the "Calendar Year-to-Date" total from your previous report to the current "Total This Period" figure from Column A to derive the correct Line 6(c), Column B total.

A written response or an amendment to your original report(s) correcting the above problem(s) should be filed with the Federal Election Commission within fifteen (15) days of the date of this letter. If you need assistance, please feel free to contact me on

Wina Rothchild, Treasurer

St. Paul, MN 55103

MAR 30 1993

Identification Number: C00257923

Reference: Mid-Year Report (1/1/93-6/30/93)

Dear Ms. Rothchild:

This letter is prompted by the Commission's preliminary review of the report(s) referenced above. The review raised questions concerning certain information contained in the report(s). An itemization follows:

-Schedule A of your report (pertinent portion(s) attached) discloses a contribution(s) from an organization(s) which is not a political committee registered with the Commission. In order for your committee to accept contributions from unregistered organizations into accounts used to influence federal elections, your committee should take steps to insure that the contributor(s) used permissible funds to make the contribution(s) to avoid violating 2 U.S.C. §§441a(f) and 441b or 11 CFR §102.5(b). Under 11 CFR §102.5(b), organizations which are not political committees under the Act and choose to contribute to federal committees must either: 1) establish a separate account which contains only those funds permitted under the Act, or 2) demonstrate through a reasonable accounting method that the organization has received sufficient funds subject to the limitations and prohibitions in order to make the contribution.

If the contribution(s) in question was incompletely or incorrectly disclosed, you should amend your original report with clarifying information. In addition, please clarify whether the contribution(s) received from the referenced organization(s) is permissible. To the extent that your committee has received impermissible funds, the Commission recommends that you transfer the impermissible funds to an account not used to influence federal elections or refund the impermissible amount(s) to the donor(s) in accordance with 11 CFR §103.3(b). The Commission recommends that you inform the contributor(s) in writing to provide the donor(s) with the option of receiving a refund or granting written authorization for a transfer to another account.

Please inform the Commission of your corrective action immediately in writing and provide a photocopy of your check for the transfer-out or refund. Should you choose to transfer-out or refund the contribution(s), the Commission will presume the funds were impermissible if no statement from your committee provides information to the contrary. Transfers-out and refunds should be disclosed on a Schedule B supporting Line 22 or 28 of the report covering the period during which the transaction was made.

Although the Commission may take further legal action concerning the acceptance of prohibited contributions, prompt action by your committee in transferring-out or refunding the amounts will be taken into consideration.

A written response or an amendment to your original report(s) correcting the above problem(s) should be filed with the Federal Election Commission within fifteen (15) days of the date of this letter. If you need assistance, please feel free to contact me on our toll-free number, (800) 424-9530. My local number is (202) 219-3580.

Reference: Mid-Year Report 1993

Dear Mr. Ryan:

I am responding to your letter of March 30, 1994, in which you question contributions we have received from political committees which are not registered with the Commission (copy attached). These committees are campaign committees for Minnesota state legislators, and are registered with the Minnesota Ethical Practices Board. In checking with the Ethical Practices Board to determine the source of the funds, I find that Minnesota has somewhat more stringent requirements than federal law and that therefore the source of the funds would meet the requirements of the Commission.

Specifically, under Minnesota law a legislative campaign committee must abide by the following restrictions:

- Contributions by corporations, banks, and labor organizations are prohibited;
- Campaign contributions by individuals are limited to $500 a year in an election year and $100 a year in a non-election year. Since House members are elected every two years, the effective limit on a contribution is $600 per election. Senate members are elected every four years, so the effective limit is $800 per election;
- Contributions to both House and Senate campaign committees which exceed $100 require listing with the Ethical Practices Board the name, address, occupation, and employer of the contributor.

Since these limits and requirements are lower than those allowed by federal law, I believe that contributions we have received from legislative campaign committees meet the requirements of the Federal Election Commission.

Thank you for your help on the telephone yesterday, and I hope this explanation is satisfactory.

Sincerely,

Nina Rothchild

Women Key Figure in Both Parties' U.S. Senate

 With MN-CVN--Senate Endorsement

Associated Press Writer

ST. PAUL (AP) - The first woman to win a major party's backing to represent Minnesota in the U.S. Senate endured a 26-hour, 19-ballot endorsement battle.

On Friday, 10 years later, the DFL Party's endorsement of Ann Wymia was a foregone conclusion.

Secretary of State Joan Grove, the pioneer who won the DFL Senate endorsement in 1984, says things have changed dramatically.

An unprecedented number of women have been involved in this year's Senate race, two in each major party until state Sen. Linda Berglin recently dropped out of the DFL race. The Independent-Republican female candidates are Lt. Gov. Joaneli Dyrstad and state Sen. Gen Olson.

"We've moved past people being concerned about a woman's ability to run and do the job," said Grove, who won the DFL nomination in the 1984 primary, only to lose the general election to former U.S. Sen. Rudy Boschwitz.

"Now people are viewing the candidate, and gender doesn't play as large a factor."

Among the things that have changed, Grove said, are the questions reporters ask.

"I don't think (they) are asking their sort of subtle, sexist questions, the way they did 10 years ago, like, 'Are you strong enough for this job? Can you raise enough money? Are you tough enough? What's it like to be a woman running for the U.S. Senate?'"

Only two women have represented Minnesota in Congress: Coya Knutson, a DFLer who represented a northwestern Minnesota district in the U.S. House from 1955 through 1958, and Muriel Humphrey, a DFLer who was appointed to the U.S. Senate to succeed her husband, Hubert, after his death, and who served for about 10 months in 1978.

Why are so many Minnesota women running for the U.S. Senate this year while none are running for governor, the other major statewide position on the November ballot?

For one thing, the incumbent - Independent-Republican Sen. Dave Durenberger - isn't running.

"Women are just as good as being opportunistic as men, and that's an open seat," said Connie Levi, an Independent-Republican who in the mid-1980s was the first woman to serve as state House majority leader.

Another factor was the Minnesota $5 Million campaign to raise money early for a female DFL Senate candidate.

"Minnesota Million has greatly annoyed a number of people, and it has primarily annoyed them because we went out and raised substantial dollars to support a woman candidate," said Cathie Hartnett, consultant for Minnesota $5 Million. Hartnett estimated the group had pledges of more than $300,000 earlier this year.

"For years and years, men have met in back rooms, financed males and their candidacies," she said. "I think women have really come into their own. It takes money to run."

But neither the endorsement nor the early fund-raising translate directly into a November ballot position for Wymia, who will be challenged for the DFL Senate nomination in the Sept. 13 primary by Ramsey County Attorney Tom Foley and former U.S. Attorney Tom Berg.

"The problem I have, the party pre-determined about a year and a half ago they were going to endorse a woman for the U.S. Senate," Foley said, "and they selected based on gender, not on who is the best candidate. By doing that, they kept a lot of qualified women from running for governor."

But Steve Smith, a political science professor at the University of Minnesota, said the Senate race was the place for women to be this year.

"They didn't have much choice, really," he said. "The political opportunities led them quite naturally and quickly to the Senate race. In both parties, it's a function of having ambitious women ... who've held prominent positions."

Though it wasn't an election year for most office holders, Minnesota politics and politicians in 1993 were still notable, exciting and exasperating.

There were changes in legislative leadership positions. The two major parties got new leaders. There was a telephone scandal. The voters of St. Paul and Minneapolis picked new mayors. A U.S. senator and a veteran U.S. House member announced they were packing it in. And a moderate Independent-Republican governor tried his best to make peace with his party.

Through it all, some finished first and some finished last. There were winners and there were losers. To that end, we offer these observations of who and what belong on which list:

YAAAYYYY!!!!!!

- Gays and lesbians: After years of trying, legislators approved legislation that gives homosexuals state protection against discrimination in employment, housing, education and public accommodations.

- Rep. Irv Anderson, DFL-International Falls. At age 70, Anderson was the political comeback story of the year. Five years ago, he couldn't get elected to the Koochiching County Board. Today he is Speaker-designate of the Minnesota House, rising only because Rep. Dee Long, DFL-Minneapolis, fell, a casualty of the Phoneygate scandal.

- Rep. Phil Carruthers, DFL-Brooklyn Center. He, too, ascended because of the scandal, elected majority leader by his caucus. Carruthers, a fourth term without great distinction, assumed a high-profile position that could lead to the Speaker's chair.

- Crimebusters. St. Paul Mayor-elect Norm Coleman and almost every other politician discovered it was a good year to get nasty about crime. They did. That means 1994 will produce a lot of anti-crime legislation, much of it aimed at the juvenile offender.

5 0 4 3 6 2 4 5 6 9

- Barbara Carlson. This substantial woman with a `tude and a tub gained further notoriety as the contentious radio interviewer who will ask any question when she elicited from St. Paul mayoral candidate Andy Dawkins that he had smoked pot. It was a factor in Dawkins' undoing.
 - Middle-of-the-Roadism. Springing from their successes in the 1992 election, moderates in both parties, along with followers of Ross Perot, demonstrated a reborn political strength that politicians will heed in the new year.
 - Peter Hutchinson. Though he could be on a loser list next year, he stands to be the top general in an education revolution. As the new, non-traditional, entrepreneurial superintendent of Minneapolis Public Schools, he is the future, for whatever it holds.
 - Women. They had considerable success passing laws at the state and national levels. The Minnesota Legislature passed an anti-stalking law. The Family and Medical Leave Act was enacted at the federal level.
 - Sen. Dave Durenberger. Federal felony indictments that he charged taxpayers for staying in his own Minneapolis condo were dropped, slowing the meter on staggering legal fees. A civil suit that alleged he had raped a woman and fathered her son was dismissed. His expertise on health care reform, an issue he embraced before it was fashionable, made him a powerful player in Washington. And he announced that he would not run again, and that alone made him a winner with many Republicans who feared his candidacy could hurt them all.
 - Sen. Paul Wellstone. After embarrassing pratfalls during his first years in office, the Democrat surprised Minnesota Poll watchers this year by becoming the most popular statewide elected official in the state.
 - Chris Geogacas and Rick Stafford. They became, respectively, chairs of the Independent-Republican and DFL parties. Both attacked their jobs with a vigor that stands to shore up the battered two-party system in Minnesota, making the political system a winner, too.
 - Rep. Tim Penny. His attempts to harness the federal deficit caught the attention of fiscal conservatives across the country. And when he announced that he had enough of Washington and would not seek another term, the Democrat from southeastern Minnesota was lionized.
 - Sharon Sayles Belton. She was counted out by some because she did not act like a demagogue on the crime issue, but a predominantly white city elected its first black and its first female mayor.
- WAAAHHH!!!!!!
- St. Paul property owners. A mighty moan went up when they opened their truth in taxation statements. They lost big as their property tax bills increased big, some as much as 30 percent. Somebody will lose for making them losers.

- Gov. Arne Carlson. After delivering on his no-tax-hike pledge in the legislative session and despite looking leader-like during the summer floods, the Independent-Republican's job approval rating plunged 14 points in the Minnesota Poll.

- State employees and teachers. To a degree, the state budget was balanced on their backs. At the governor's urging, most took a one-year pay freeze or minimal increases. Teachers also saw the governor propose eliminating their right to strike.

- Regionalism. It was set back when the governor vetoed legislation that would have encouraged low-income housing in wealthier suburbs. But for those who want the region to share jobs and other opportunities, it was a year when a coalition of first-ring suburbs and the two central cities saw their legislative clout grow.

- Ramsey County Attorney Tom Foley. There was no job forthcoming from the Clinton administration despite his yeoman work during the presidential campaign. Worse, liberal St. Paul DFLers were tuning him out for badmouthing their darling, Sen. Paul Wellstone, and for his support of Norm Coleman for mayor.

- Political action committees and fat cats. Their ability to buy access and curry favor through large campaign contributions was curtailed by the Campaign Finance Reform Act.

- Mike Triggs. The head of Arne Carlson's reelection campaign was given his walking papers and went from selling the governor to selling men's clothing - perhaps an easier sell.

- Rep. Dee Long, DFL-Minneapolis. The first woman Speaker of the Minnesota House resigned her lofty post in the wake of the telephone scandal and a television report that show her playing golf during a legislative conference in San Diego. It ended a political career that seemed headed toward endorsement for the U.S. Senate.

- Rep. Alan Welle, DFL-Willmar. The progenitor of the attempted telephone cover-up in which about $90,000 in unauthorized long-distance calls were paid by the state, he resigned as majority leader and now faces criminal charges.

* - Minnesota Million. Organized to raise $1 million to help bankroll a DFL woman candidate for the U.S. Senate seat, fund raising has fallen short so far. Supporters may have to settle for two-bits on the dollar.

- The St. Paul DFL. They selected Andy Dawkins over Bob Long as their mayoral candidate. They then proceeded to lose Dawkin's election and Bob Long's seat on the City Council.

- Paula Maccabee. She incurred the wrath of St. Paul constituents who had to pick up the legal tab to defend her against a charge of

It was the evening of the Senate vote to confirm Clarence Thomas as an associate justice of the Supreme Court. Carol Moseley Braun, Cook County's recorder of deeds, and Susan Getzendanner, a former federal judge in Chicago, were outraged.

As Ms. Getzendanner tells the story, after appearing together on a local news program on which they expressed their opposition to Mr. Thomas's confirmation, the two women agreed that one of them would challenge incumbent Illinois Sen. Alan Dixon in the primary. He was one of the few Northern Democrats to cast a vote for Mr. Thomas in the wake of allegations of sexual harassment brought against him by Oklahoma law professor Anita Hill, his former aide.

A few weeks later, Ms. Braun and Ms. Getzendanner met again at a Democratic function. Ms. Braun, who is 44 years old, said she intended to make the race. "Terrific," Ms. Getzendanner replied. "Then I'll run against Simon," she said, referring to Paul Simon, the other Illinois Democratic senator. Although he opposed Mr. Thomas and doesn't face re-election until 1996, Sen. Simon has been criticized by some opponents of Justice Thomas for an "ineffectual" performance on the Judiciary Committee during the hearings.

Polls at the time of the confirmation hearings found that most women ultimately sided with Mr. Thomas against Prof. Hill. Yet among some, the Hill-Thomas hearings have left a residue of enormous anger. Ms. Braun's unexpected victory over Sen. Dixon in Tuesday's primary is the first -- but perhaps not the last -- tangible political result of that anger.

Even as the Democratic primary votes were piling up against Sen. Dixon, a genial politician widely known as "Al the Pal," Illinois voters also were handing victories to * female candidates in primaries for the state Legislature, judgeships and a number of other Chicago county and city posts. In fact, in 26 Cook County judicial races in which women ran, they won 20. The women candidates had agreed not to run against one another, according to a report in the Chicago Sun-Times.

Elsewhere around the country, Ms. Braun's success has fed the hopes of other women running for office this year. "This is very good news," says William Carrick, a consultant to Dianne Feinstein, the former San Francisco mayor who is seeking the Democratic nomination for a U.S. Senate seat in California.

"It's extraordinary," says Jane Danowitz, the executive director of the Women's Campaign Fund in Washington, which was one of several women's political organizations that contributed money and other support to Ms. Braun. "Even we didn't think the Hill-Thomas hearings would have such a long afterlife."

Although Ms. Danowitz's organization gave Ms. Braun $2,000 last fall and just sent off another check for $5,000, other women's organizations kept their wallets shut or gave only token contributions because they viewed Ms. Braun's candidacy as quixotic. "This is the kind of race that makes me think I've been in Washington too long," Ms. Danowitz confesses.

Ms. Braun didn't simply tap into the anger over the Hill-Thomas case. She broadened her appeal beyond gender lines by portraying the Senate as an elitist club that, she says, "is no longer representative of the people." Thus, she also was able to tap the sentiments of voters whose anti-Washington mood has been stoked by the House check-bouncing scandal.

For much of the campaign, Ms. Braun was all but ignored as two better-financed men who were running -- Sen. Dixon and attorney Alfred Hofeld -- traded fusillades. "She stuck to a positive message and let the two white males chew each other up," says Harriett Woods, president of the National Women's Political Caucus, which supported Ms. Braun. Ms. Braun won 38% of the primary vote to 35% for Sen. Dixon, with Mr. Hofeld far behind.

Ms. Getzendanner, who has long known Ms. Braun through a professional women's organization called the Chicago Network, says the campaign began gaining momentum several weeks ago when the feminist writer Gloria Steinem played host to a reception for Ms. Braun. For the first time, serious money was raised.

Ms. Steinem returned to Chicago last weekend to work for Ms. Braun, whose campaign had been plagued by organizational problems and lack of money. It wasn't until the last week of the campaign that she had sufficient funds to run television ads. By then, although polls still showed her trailing, "our hearts were really beating," says Ms. Getzendanner.

Her victory reflected a coalition of inner-city blacks and upper-income suburbanites. And her presence on the fall ballot may prove good news for the Democratic presidential nominee, assuring a big November turnout of black and women voters in an important state.

Ms. Braun's victory touched a nerve among Illinois voters. As she thanked voters yesterday at a Chicago commuter train station, many hugged her. When she entered a downtown sandwich shop, customers burst into applause.

Her candidacy particularly resonated for women. "It's a woman's thing," says Brenda Stephenson, a resident of the Rockwell Gardens public housing complex, who watched from her window as about 10 women celebrated below, yelling: "She won. She won. We did it. We did it."

Says April Plous, a 44-year-old mother of two on Chicago's North Side: "I'm tired of having white, rich males running the show in this country." When she voted for Ms. Braun, she adds, she thought of her two young daughters "and how wonderful it would be for them to have a role model. A thrill went through me." Ms. Plous, who hasn't been active in politics since her college days, says she plans to volunteer for Ms. Braun in the fall campaign.

If she can beat Republican attorney Rich Williamson this fall, Ms. Braun would become the first black woman -- and the * first black Democrat since Reconstruction -- to serve in the Senate, a bastion of white males that currently includes but two women.

Her chances of winning in the fall will depend in part on her ability to build a strong organization throughout Illinois and to compete financially with Mr. Williamson, who will begin his campaign with $1 million in backing from the national GOP. Also, Democratic and Republican strategists stress, she must continue to broaden her message.

"She has clearly learned something from the problems the feminist groups have had," says GOP pollster Linda Divall,
* who worked for two unsuccessful female Senate candidates two years ago. "She can't come across as too angry and strident."

Ms. Braun has already started to play down the connection between her candidacy and the anger some women feel over the Hill-Thomas hearings. And her personal warmth may keep her from falling into stridency. She grew up in a middle-class family on Chicago's South Side; her father worked as a police officer and her mother as a hospital technician. She says she came to truly appreciate the philosophy of nonviolence at the age of 16 as she marched at the side of Martin Luther King in an open-housing demonstration in Gage Park, an all-white neighborhood. "We have to connect as people and not allow hatred to divide us," she says.

Ms. Braun, divorced with one child, has a law degree from the University of Chicago. She was elected a state representative in 1978, shortly after leaving her job as a U.S. attorney. Both during the campaign and in the Legislature, friends were struck by her ability to bring dissimilar people together. Barbara Flynn Currie, who entered the Illinois House at the same time, still expresses amazement that Ms. Braun managed to persuade fellow legislators to increase welfare benefits, an ordinarily unpopular measure.

While in the Legislature, she worked closely with Harold Washington, Chicago's first black mayor. She also served as assistant majority leader, and ultimately was elected recorder of deeds.

Just now, some of the groups that ignored Ms. Braun's Senate candidacy are rushing to embrace her. Emily's List, a * group that raises money for female Democratic candidates (Emily is an acronym for Early Money Is Like Yeast) gave Ms. Braun a late, $5,000 contribution and is endorsing her in the fall election. (Emily's list includes Geraldine Ferraro in her campaign for the U.S. Senate in New York, Ms. Feinstein and Rep. Barbara Boxer, who is seeking California's other Senate seat.) Emily's List members contributed $1.5 million to 14 candidates in 1990 and, in large measure because of angry fallout from the Hill-Thomas hearings, has even more money to spread around this year.

Tomorrow, Don Foley, director of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, meets with Ms. Braun's campaign finance chairman. Although the Democratic Party won't be able to provide the resources that the Republicans will pump into Mr. Williamson's campaign, Ms. Braun can now rely on the party structure to help her build an organization; Chicago's mayor Richard Daley and what remains of the old Cook County Democratic machine quickly fell into line behind her after the primary.

Mr. Foley concedes that many Democratic incumbents are jittery about their own prospects in the fall, and that their nervousness was heightened by Ms. Braun's upset. On the other hand, there are eight Democratic women running for the Senate whom Mr. Foley and other party strategists view as credible challengers in the fall. In some states, these candidates are challenging Republican incumbents who are also suffering from what some senators privately refer to as post-Anita Hill-stress-syndrome.

"Arlen Specter should be shaking in his boots," says Ms. Danowitz, referring to the Pennsylvania Republican whose prosecutorial zeal during the Hill-Thomas hearings drew much fire. Sen. Specter is facing a primary challenge from an anti-abortion candidate, and abortion-rights Republican activists who have been a vital part of the senator's constituency say they have had trouble mobilizing their troops to support Mr. Specter because of lingering anger over the hearings. Another GOP incumbent who may hear women's angry roar is Iowa's Charles Grassley, a Judiciary Committee member who backed Justice Thomas. In both cases, women are given good chances of capturing the Democratic nominations.

In any event, women's political groups say they are already mobilizing for beyond 1992. In Minnesota, a group of

- * Democratic women organized a campaign called Minnesota Million after the Hill-Thomas hearings. Their goal is to raise $1 million to recruit a Democratic woman to seek in 1994 the seat currently held by GOP Sen. Dave Durenberger. They've raised $150,000 so far and co-founder Nina Rothchild says that in the wake of Ms. Braun's victory on Tuesday, "we're smiling."

Women's Anger About Hill-Thomas Hearings

- * Has Brought Cash Into Female Political Causes

By Jill Abramson

Staff Reporter of The Wall Street Journal

WASHINGTON -- The Anita Hill-Clarence Thomas hearings made a lot of women angry -- and made an array of women's political groups and women candidates richer.

Despite the sluggish economy, there has been a sudden upswing in fund-raising by women's political organizations and women running for federal office since last fall's hearings on Prof. Hill's allegations of sexual harassment against now-Justice Thomas.

Harriet Woods, president of the National Women's Political Caucus, describes a "phenomenal response of women giving money because of their anger and frustration over the hearings." Other groups are reporting similar surges.

The National Organization for Women, which usually recruits 2,000 new members a month, signed up 13,000 new members in October and November (memberships cost $25 annually). "I can't tie that to anything but the debacle of the hearings," says NOW President Patricia Ireland. Contributions to NOW's political-action committee also rose substantially after the hearings.

"It's been unbelievable," adds Ellen Malcolm, president of Emily's List, a group that helps raise funds for Democratic women candidates. (Emily is an acronym for Early Money Is Like Yeast.) In the seven weeks following the hearings, contributions to Emily's List rose 52%; the group, which helped raise $1.5 million for 14 candidates in 1990, hopes to double that performance in 1992.

The most encouraging aspect of the fund-raising boom, Ms. Malcolm and others say, is that many of the women who have opened their checkbooks following the hearings haven't previously been politically active. Last month, when Emily's List hosted a brunch for women business leaders in Chicago, Ms. Malcolm found that most of the attendees hadn't attended a political gathering in decades.

"They hadn't been involved in politics since the 1960s," explains Ms. Malcolm. "What they saw at the hearings made them furious, and many of them said they just had to get involved again." The direct-mail solicitation that Emily's List sent out two weeks after the Hill-Thomas hearings has already fetched nearly $300,000, with much of the money coming from new donors.

Eleanor Smeal, president of the Fund for the Feminist Majority, says her group received an unsolicited $10,000 contribution after the hearings: "It was the largest spontaneous outpouring I've ever seen."

It's possible that the surge of giving could abate as memories of the hearings fade. But other events, such as the possibility of a Supreme Court ruling that further restricts abortion, could easily ignite another wave of contributions. "There is irony that we gain members and strength in adverse circumstances and tough times," says NOW's Ms. Ireland.

Roger Craver, a direct-mail specialist who helps raise money for Planned Parenthood and NOW, says those groups have also seen their direct-mail fund-raising increase at least 25% since the hearings. Mr. Craver resigned in protest as a fund-raiser for the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee following Justice Thomas's confirmation, because he was angered at Democratic senators who had voted for the Supreme Court nominee.

Mr. Craver agrees that the Hill-Thomas hearings served as the catalyst for the surge of political giving by women. But he adds that the professional women who identified with Anita Hill were already emerging as a critical source of political money.

Last year, a survey the Craver firm commissioned from pollster Peter Hart found that women under 45 were the most active and generous donors to a variety of progressive organizations. "The reform movements of the '60s and '70s were largely underwritten by men," Mr. Craver says. "Now we see Baby Boom women as the group most willing to put their money on the line to get the social changes they want."

Of course, not all the money after the Hill-Thomas hearings came from women contributors. NOW's Ms. Ireland says that, immediately after the hearings, "a man came walking in to our offices and plunked down a $100 check and said, 'I'm sorry I haven't been before.'" NOW also quickly sold out of its supply of "I believe Anita Hill" buttons and T-shirts.

"They made great Christmas gifts," says Ms. Ireland.

The most obvious beneficiaries of the post-hearings money and activism are women candidates. Money raised by Democratic Rep. Barbara Boxer of California, a Craver client who is running for the U.S. Senate this year, rose steeply after the hearings; Rep. Boxer has used the all-male Senate Judiciary - * Committee as a central issue in her campaign. Democrat Dianne Feinstein, who ran unsuccessfully for California governor in 1990, is also using the paucity of women senators as a major theme in her 1992 bid for California's other Senate seat. According to one of Ms. Feinstein's campaign consultants, her campaign was flooded with offers from women volunteering to host fund-raising events for the candidate after the hearings.

In New York, fund-raising for Democrats Geraldine Ferraro and Elizabeth Holtzman, who are both running for the Senate, also picked up after the hearings. Meanwhile, some Republican women in the state are trying to organize their own version of Emily's List to channel money to women GOP candidates who favor abortion rights. The hearings also provided a money

- * boost for Carol Moseley Braun, an Illinois Democrat who is challenging Sen. Alan Dixon, who voted for Justice Thomas, in the Democratic primary.

To be sure, money doesn't always translate into votes. With seven women running for the U.S. Senate, 1990 was proclaimed the year of the woman candidate. But only one of those women won -- incumbent Republican Sen. Nancy Kassebaum of Kansas. Last month, Rep. Nancy Johnson of Connecticut, one of the GOP's brightest stars, announced that she wouldn't challenge Democratic incumbent Sen. Christopher Dodd this year. And Janet Napolitano, one of Prof. Hill's legal advisers, dropped plans to challenge Arizona Republican Sen. John McCain because, among other things, she didn't have enough money.

But strong anti-incumbent sentiment among voters, the record number of open House seats created by redistricting, and better fund-raising will probably lure a large number of women into congressional contests this year.

"There's a lot of information out there that indicates that the environment is perfect for women candidates," says Linda Divall, a Republican pollster who worked for two women Senate candidates who lost in 1990. "Women are double outsiders. They are not seen as part of the Club."

* In Minnesota, women are already mobilizing for 1994 with a campaign they have dubbed Minnesota Million. The effort is aimed at raising $1 million to recruit a Democratic woman candidate to challenge GOP Sen. Dave Durenberger. "When the Clarence Thomas hearings came, people were outraged by the all-male Judiciary Committee, and that gave us the incentive * to put things in place," says Minnesota Million co-chair Nina Rothchild. The campaign, which hasn't even held its first organizational meeting, already has pledges for $122,000. "People have tracked us down," reports Ms. Rothchild. "We're going great guns."

Fund/Candidate with most support likely to get money

"I don't have any sense from membership whether one or the other (Wynia or Berglin) is stronger," Rothchild said.

State Sen. Carol Flynn, DFL-Minneapolis, a colleague of Berglin and one of the architects of the fund, said the money probably will go to the candidate who demonstrates the broadest support at next February's precinct caucuses and at the next stage, county and legislative district conventions.

Minnesota Million donors probably want to make sure that the person they choose is the likely DFL nominee, Rothchild said.

Wynia had a significant lead in two straw polls of DFL Central Committee members last month (37 percent, compared to 24 percent for Berg and 16 percent for Berglin in a Star Tribune poll) but the race is just getting started.

"If it had been just one strong woman emerging, we might have made a decision early on," Flynn said. "But with two viable candidates, it makes sense to wait."

The candidates are cautious about the Minnesota Million campaign and the whole issue of gender in politics.

Wynia said she is focused on her own campaign and not concerned about competing for the Minnesota quarter-million. "This Senate seat does belong to all the people of Minnesota," she emphasized. "It hasn't been reserved for anybody."

Although the founders of the fund take credit for encouraging Wynia and Berglin to come forward, Wynia said the fund was not even a critical factor. "The most important question was, 'What does this country need and can I help accomplish it?'"

Wynia said.

The communications director for the Berg campaign, Russell W. Peterson, said the Minnesota Million effort has had the beneficial effect of "encouraging women to run." Peterson declined to criticize the concept of the fund but said that a "lot of pressure and guilt is being brought on women DFL activists" to support one of the women candidates.

Noting that Berg has long been a leader in fighting for women's rights, Peterson said the DFL Party "shouldn't endorse a candidate based on gender alone."

Meanwhile, fund-raising is proceeding and the group last summer hired a professional firm, Catherine Hartnett and Associates, to raise money. Lisa Novacek, a spokesperson for that firm, said mailings and follow-up phone calls and fund-raising events are in progress across the state.

Although some have tried to pigeon-hole the group as elitist, Novacek said that about half of those who have committed to contributing $1,000 are raising the money from others, rather than donating it from their own pocketbooks. And of the 275 contributors so far, she said, 21 are men.

Rothchild said the early activity of Berg and Berglin may have encouraged many donors to give directly to the candidates rather than to the fund, thus damaging the campaign's specific target but not its overall goal.

An effort to raise $1 million to help catapult a Minnesota woman into the U.S. Senate in 1994 has prompted rumblings about sexism that could prove troubling for state Democrats.

* A mostly Democratic group calling itself the Minnesota Million intends to raise the money for a woman only, and may well not use it to help the party if it nominates a man. The campaign's openly stated goal is that a woman, and only a woman, should win the Senate seat now occupied by retiring Republican Dave Durenberger.

So far the group has 275 pledgers (20 are men) who either are donating $1,000 or agree to raise $1,000 from friends and associates. In the coming weeks, the group will decide whether to * endorse a female candidate now-two possible candidates have emerged so far-or wait until after the Democratic state convention in June.

Geri Ginder, a supporter of a male Senate candidate with a strong record on women's rights-Democrat Tom Berg-has accused the group of trying to dictate whom liberals and progressives should support.

"I don't think you have to be a woman in this office, in any office," she said. "Gender should not be an issue, race should not be an issue."

John Wodele, president of the Minnesota Democratic Leadership Council, said that the group has "created the perception that this Senate seat was reserved for a woman. I'm sure it wasn't intentional, but the perception emerged that the men get the governor's seat and women get the Senate seat, which makes me very uncomfortable."

"My sense is that the vast majority of voters around the country are talking about crime, health care-substantive issues, and that is their main concern, not the race or gender of the candidate," Berg said. "They are looking for substantive solutions and looking for the best possible person."

Said Berg campaign spokesman Russell W. Peterson: "We know a great deal of pressure is being placed on women voters, and frankly, guilt is being placed on women to vote for a woman no matter what."

- * Minnesota state Sen. Linda Berglin, a Democrat who will formally announce her candidacy in December, contends that such criticism ignores the qualifications of the female candidates.

"I think the insinuation by Tom Berg that I am not qualified is ridiculous," said Berglin, who has helped author major state legislation, including a health care access bill. "He is implying that the women in this race are in just because they are women."

- * Another female Democratic candidate is Ann Wynia, formerly Minnesota commissioner of the Human Services Department and former majority leader in the Minnesota House.

Wynia welcomes a possible cash infusion of $1 million, but adds that she hopes the race "will be decided without regard to gender."

- * I don't focus on Minnesota Million. I want to get the (state Democratic) endorsement."
- * Supporters of Minnesota Million think their legitimate efforts to pry open a male bastion are being mischaracterized by male interests that have benefited from their own brand of gender politics for hundreds of years.

They maintain that since it costs upward of $3 million to run a

- * Senate campaign, female candidates deserve a leg up. "Men own the capital in this country," said state Sen. Carol Flynn, who is credited with coming up with the idea of Minnesota Million. "They own the money. And they're still paid considerably more than women in employment, and they're used to raising money and spending money for elections."
- * If Berg or another man receives the party endorsement, Minnesota Million could buck the party and continue to support a female Senate candidate. Or it could route the funds to a woman running for another public office. But either scenario could be awkward for state Democrats.

So far, the state party chairman said he isn't worried.

- * "Minnesota Million is doing nothing different than was done before, except it's more open and not being done in terms of the old boys club," said Rick Stafford, party chair for the Democratic Farmer Labor party, as the state refers to its Democratic party. "I don't see this as an issue."

- * Ellen Malcolm, president of the highly successful Emily's List, which supports "viable, pro-choice female candidates" running for top offices across the country, said she finds the controversy over
- * Minnesota Million surprising.

"Anybody who takes one look at the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives will realize that women are severely underrepresented. I think Congress will work better when our representative democracy begins to include women." Currently seven U.S. senators are women.

The only Minnesota woman to ever serve in the House of Representatives was Democratic Rep. Coya Knutson. She lost reelection in 1958 after her husband lamented, "Coya, come home." His complaint that their home life was suffering was picked up by media throughout the country.

Re: MUR3990

Dear Ms. Taksar:

I am in receipt of your letter dated June 16, 1994 addressed to me in my capacity as treasurer of the Wynia for Senate Committee. I understand from your letter that the National Republican Senatorial Committee has filed a complaint against both our Committee and against Minnesota Million. I think the best way for me to respond to you is to explain the relationship between Wynia for Senate and Minnesota Million.

Minnesota Million

A group of women who are politically active in Minnesota decided that it was important to support a woman to be the Democratic Farmer Labor Party ("DFL") nominee for the Durenberger Senate seat in 1994; they formed Minnesota Million. Although I was not active with Minnesota Million, it is my understanding that Minnesota Million sought legal advice about the best way to organize the Minnesota Million so that it would be in compliance with the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971 (the "Act") as amended. On July 7, 1993, Nancy D. Powers, a member of the Minnesota Million Steering Committee, received a memorandum from Judith Corley of the Perkins Coie law firm describing two potential ways that Minnesota Million could be organized and remain in compliance with the Act. A copy of that memorandum is attached as Exhibit 1. In her letter, Ms. Corley cites a July 29, 1977 advisory opinion of the Federal Election Commission ("FEC"), a copy of which is attached as Exhibit 2. It is my understanding that Minnesota Million has operated as a search committee as described in Corley's memorandum.

From the time of its creation through May 1994, Minnesota Million was not a campaign arm of Wynia for Senate. Minnesota Million collected pledges for future contributions to an as yet unnamed candidate. Funds collected or spent by Minnesota Million itself were used solely for the goal of collecting pledges and were not used to benefit any particular candidate. Throughout that time, there were at least two women contesting for the Senate endorsement of the DFL Party (Dee Long, Linda Berglin, Ann Wynia as well as others). All of those women had significant supporters among contributors to Minnesota Million. By late summer of 1993, it was apparent that two candidates, Ann Wynia and Linda Berglin, were the major contenders.

The Affiliate Form

In the summer of 1993, representatives of Minnesota Million met with representatives of the Wynia and Berglin campaigns and talked about the requirement that if one or the other of those women were to be endorsed by Minnesota Million, the Minnesota Million Committee would become an affiliate of the campaign at the time the endorsement was made. Both Senator Berglin and Ms. Wynia signed statements to the effect that if they were endorsed by Minnesota Million, they would accept Minnesota Million as an affiliate of their principal campaign committee. Copies of both the Berglin and Wynia documents are attached as Exhibit 3. Throughout the fall, winter and spring of 1993-94, Minnesota Million endorsed neither candidate. There was no consensus among its participants; it is absolutely untrue that all this time Minnesota Million was raising money for Wynia for Senate. Both Berglin and Wynia had supporters and the organization remained deliberately neutral and uncommitted.

The Wynia Endorsement

After the DFL party endorsed Ann Wynia for Senate, the Minnesota Million chose to support Ann Wynia as well. On June 16, 1994, Minnesota Million filed an amended statement of organization indicating that it had now become an affiliate of the Wynia for Senate Committee. Wynia for Senate also filed both an Amended Statement of Organization and an Amended Statement of Candidacy. A copy of the Minnesota Million Amended Organizational Statement is attached as Exhibit 4. Copies of the Wynia for Senate documents are attached as Exhibit 5.

In accord with the advice that we received from Ms. Corley, we are promptly merging all of our contributor lists to determine if any refunds need to be made so that all contributions to Minnesota Million or Wynia for Senate are in accord with the contribution limits. We will also, of course, be reporting Minnesota Million expenses as Wynia for Senate expenses.

The Wynia for Senate Committee had no relationship with the Minnesota Million Committee until we accepted that Committee as an affiliate of our Committee. Prior to that time, our operations were totally separate. We will now, in accord with the agreement that we made, assume the expenditures and the contributors of Minnesota Million and report or record them as our own in accord with the Act. An individual, for example, whose merged contributions to Minnesota Million and Wynia for Senate are in excess of the appropriate legal requirements will have a refund made promptly. All such refunds will be reported in accord with any statutory requirements.

Mary L. Taksar, Esq.
June 30, 1994

Conclusion

I assume that this information is responsive to your inquiry and that you will find that prior to choosing and supporting Ann Wynia, Minnesota Million was not raising money for Wynia for Senate. Now that Wynia is endorsed by Minnesota Million, we will, of course, accept the expenditures and merge the contributors and will remain in accord with all of the FEC's requirements. A letter from Minnesota Million confirming my explanation is attached as Exhibit 6. Please feel free to call me if you have comments or questions or need additional information.

Very truly yours,

RE: Minnesota Million

You have asked me to review the options available under the federal campaign laws for the operations of a committee called Minnesota Million ("MM"). As we have discussed, the Federal Election Commission has never specifically addressed a situation identical to MM's, and much of what follows is, necessarily, based on an analysis of analogous, if not identical, circumstances.

Given the way the committee was initially structured and has operated to date, it would appear there are at least two forms the committee could take under the federal law. The following discussion will outline each of the two options, including the advantages and disadvantages of each choice, and the rules governing each.

BACKGROUND

MM was established as a membership organization in 1992 with the express purpose of "electing a DFL woman to the U.S. Senate in 1994." MM Bylaws. To this end, MM set out to collect $1,000,000 in pledges of $1,000 each for a candidate to be selected at a future time by a vote of the membership. Members of MM are those individuals who either pledge $1,000 to the eventual candidate, or who contribute $1,000 to MM itself for operating expenditures. The idea was to present a candidate with a "nest egg" of funds to launch an effective Senate race against an incumbent Member (Senator Durenberger).

MM registered with the Federal Election Commission as a committee supporting or opposing more than one candidate. As a committee, it has raised and spent a minimal amount of money (less than $10,000). MM has made expenditures principally for the publication of a brochure and mailing costs, as well as some minor administrative expenses. As the 1994 election draws closer, however, the committee anticipates an increase in administrative expenses. MM has, to date, obtained approximately $400,000 in pledges for future contributions.

MM intends to allow its membership to vote for one of several potential women Senate candidates. (I understand that there are at least two or three viable choices for this race.) At that time, MM intends to inform its membership of the candidate selected, and ask that the members fulfill their pledges by sending a contribution of $1,000 directly to the candidate.

MM has attracted a substantial amount of attention from the Minnesota press and from the established political community, not all of it favorable. It is expected that this attention will continue and possibly increase once a candidate has been selected. Some questions have been raised about the status of MM and its operations under the federal campaign laws. To avoid any legal entanglements for MM itself, and to avoid creating an issue for the eventual candidate, MM wishes to clarify its activities under the federal campaign laws.

OPTIONS AVAILABLE

Under the federal campaign laws, the following two options are available to MM:

- Operate as an independent expenditure committee under the principles of FEC Advisory Opinion 1980-46; or
- Operate as a "search" committee under the principles of FEC Advisory Opinion 1977-16.

The options are, for all intents and purposes, mutually exclusive; MM must choose one or the other. As noted above, neither of the cited Advisory Opinions addresses MM's situation exactly and it is difficult to predict how the Commission would view MM's activities if asked directly. The only sure way to know would be to request an Advisory Opinion on MM's activities. The advantage is a definitive answer; the disadvantage is that MM has some exposure based on its operations to date if the Commission gives an unfavorable response.

1. Independent Expenditure Committee

MM could operate as a committee with the intention of making independent expenditures on behalf of a yet-to-be-determined candidate. Under the federal campaign laws, an independent expenditure is an expenditure for communications by a person expressly advocating the election or defeat of a clearly identified candidate which is made without cooperation or consultation with any candidate, or any authorized committee or agent of such candidate and which is not made in concert with, or at the request or suggestion of, any candidate or any of the candidates agents or authorized committees of such candidate.

11 C.F.R. § 100.16. The easiest way to understand how this definition would be applied to MM is to take the definition phrase by phrase.

a. Expenditure for Communications

To date, MM has not made any communications that would qualify as an independent expenditure under the Act (because there is no clearly identified candidate, see below). Its expenditures for administrative expenses also do not qualify as independent expenditures, since they are not communications. Once a candidate is selected, however, virtually all expenses involved in communicating with MM's membership would qualify as an independent expenditure. As discussed below, all MM's activities to that point could be scrutinized to ensure that none had "tainted" its independence.

b. Expressly Advocating

Until a candidate is selected, none of the communications by MM would contain express advocacy, since there would be no effort to express support for or opposition to a clearly identified candidate.

c. Clearly Identified Candidate

The candidate must be identified by name, picture, or "unambiguous reference." If there was, for example, only one woman candidate seeking or likely to seek the Senate seat, MM's efforts could be construed as on behalf of a clearly identified candidate, even though the candidate was never identified by name or picture. Given that there are apparently several women candidates considering the race, until a single candidate has been selected, there is no clearly identified candidate for the purpose of making independent expenditures.

d. Made Without Cooperation or Consent, etc.
of the Candidate

As noted above, without a clearly identified candidate, none of MM's activities to date qualify as independent expenditures. However, under the regulations governing independent expenditures, activities undertaken now by MM could retroactively make it impossible for MM to qualify as an independent expenditure committee. This is clearly the riskiest provision for the committee should it choose the independent expenditure option.

The FEC's interpretations of the rules governing independent expenditures have been very broad. The Commission (and the press and public) views such expenditures with hostility and suspicion, and has often decided close calls against the person making the independent expenditure. Thus, a committee may be barred from making independent expenditures if:

- Its employees had contact with the campaign at any time, even if the contact was not at the request of the campaign, or in connection with the making of independent expenditures.
- It made an in-kind contribution to a candidate.
- Its efforts are based on information about the candidate's plans, projects or needs provided to the committee by the candidate with a view toward the making of an independent expenditure.
- Its expenditures involve any person who is or has been authorized to raise funds or expend funds for the candidate, or who is or was an officer of the candidate's committee or who is or has been compensated or reimbursed by the candidate.
- Its expenditures involve an "agent" of the candidate, defined as anyone with actual or implied authority to make or authorize the making of expenditures on behalf of the candidate.

In Advisory Opinion 1980-46, an independent expenditure committee proposed sending out a mailing soliciting funds on behalf of a particular candidate. The contributors would make their checks payable to the candidate's campaign, but forward the checks to the independent expenditure committee which would, in turn, pass the checks along to the candidate. The Commission found that if the candidate accepted the checks from the committee, all expenses involved in the mailing would automatically become a contribution in-kind by the independent expenditure committee, subject to the appropriate contribution limits under the statute.¹ There would be no in-kind contribution, however, where the exact same communication was made, but the contributions were sent by the contributors directly to the candidate's campaign. In this case, the costs involved in the mailing were treated as an independent expenditure not subject to any limitation.

This latter finding opens the way for MM to operate as an independent committee, if it chooses. Assuming that MM can meet the "no coordination or consultation" rule, its planned operations once a candidate was endorsed would be very similar to the second example described above. MM would send out a mailing on behalf of the selected candidate, urging those who had pledged contributions to send their contributions directly to the candidate. MM would not receive (and should not accept under this alternative) any of the contributions directed to the candidate. Its expenditures for mailing costs and related expenses could be treated as an independent expenditure. MM would need to comply with certain requirements related to disclaimers on independent expenditures and the disclosure of such expenditures.

It is crucial, should the committee choose this option, that it meet the strict requirements of no coordination with the candidate selected to avoid "tainting" its independent expenditures. The restrictions described above would apply to all those associated with MM in any position of authority and to all those who operate or act in MM's name. The restrictions would not apply to those who merely pledged a contribution to the candidate or made a contribution to MM. To ensure that the restrictions were met, I would recommend that MM circulate a set of guidelines or instructions for all who could potentially "taint" the independent expenditure by prohibited contacts with the candidate.

The restrictions on such contact run both ways: that is, not only are MM personnel barred from contacting or coordinating their activities with the candidate, but the candidates and their committees and agents must be discouraged from contacting MM or its personnel, as well. It would not be enough to limit contacts with candidate to subjects other than the making of the independent expenditures. MM's purpose and activities are widely known, including by the candidates that may benefit from its activities.

Because of the wide publicity of its activities and the unique nature of its circumstances, MM could easily draw a complaint to the Federal Election Commission (even if unwarranted). This would require the Committee to defend itself (and incur legal fees or other expenses in doing so). It could also raise the sometimes "unsavory" label of independent expenditures and run a risk of creating adverse publicity for the very candidate MM is attempting to benefit.

2. Search Committee

As a second alternative, MM could operate as a "search" committee based on FEC Advisory Opinion 1977-16. In this opinion, the requester asked whether it could establish a campaign committee that would function essentially as a principal campaign committee for the candidate that would eventually be selected to run for the 1980 Republican nomination for the Senate in Iowa. Because the committee was being established long before the actual election, there were no candidates yet seeking election. The committee was called a "search" committee, responsible for identifying the "best" candidate for the election. The committee proposed operating as if it were a principal campaign committee of a candidate, accepting contributions subject to the limitations that would otherwise be imposed on a single candidate authorized committee.

The Commission approved the establishment of the Search Committee, noting that it did not find "any legal basis for barring a political committee from operating under a self-imposed restriction on the amount of contributions it will accept, which restriction coincides with the limits applicable to contributions to a candidate or principal campaign committee. . . ." The Commission went on to note that the Search Committee could retroactively be designated by a candidate as that candidate's principal campaign committee or authorized committee. Finally, the Commission noted that the accumulated contributions of the Search Committee would not be regarded as separate contributions from the Search Committee to the candidate who designates the committee as his or her campaign committee.

The Commission, however, imposed certain restrictions on the Committee. First, at the time the candidate authorized the Search Committee, "all previous payments received and made are retroactively regarded as contributions accepted and expenditures made by the Committee as the principal campaign committee of the selected candidate." This means that upon designation of the Search Committee, the candidate had to review the contributions received by the Search Committee to ensure that the contributions of the Search Committee, when aggregated with those contributions already received by the candidate for the same election, did not exceed the relevant contribution limits for the candidate for that election. Any contributions which were found to exceed the limit were to be promptly refunded to the contributors.

Second, in addition, the candidate was required to amend his or her Statement of Candidacy and Statement of Organization to reflect the new committee as an authorized campaign committee.

The Commission did not address the issue of what the Search Committee could spend its funds on during the period prior to the designation by the candidate. The Committee had stated in its request that it intended to "raise money, conduct surveys, identify campaign workers, pay expenses, [and] build a campaign organization. . . ."

Under this option, MM would be allowed to contact and interact with the various potential candidates before a selection was actually made. The strict curtain between its operations and those of the candidates would not be necessary since there would be no independence to taint.

There are, however, risks in this approach. The advisory opinion on which it relies is old. While it has never been overturned by the Commission and is, presumably, still good law, there is no guarantee that the Commission today would rule in the same way it had in 1977. In an informal discussion on a previous occasion with a member of the Commission's Office of General Counsel, some doubt was expressed on the likelihood of a similar decision today. Further, the Opinion left unanswered the issue of what happens if the selected candidate refuses to authorize and to ratify the activities of the Committee.

To avoid such issues and to ensure compliance with the provisions of the Advisory Opinion, MM should adhere to the following guidelines if it chooses this option:

- The Committee should amend its Statement of Organization to reflect that it is now a search committee and not supporting more than one candidate.

- 25043624603
- The Committee should obtain, to the extent possible, a written agreement from the various candidates that it is considering endorsing that they will designate it as an authorized committee if they are selected for endorsement by MM.
 - All solicitations of pledges or of contributions for operating expenses should make clear that any funds collected by MM will eventually be treated as contributions to a particular candidate, not yet determined. To the extent possible, those contributors who have already made contributions to any of the potential candidates should be informed that, depending on the eventual endorsement, their contribution to MM may be refunded.
 - The Committee should avoid all mention in its written communications of particular candidates and should not accept any funds contingent on a particular candidate receiving MM's endorsement.
 - Once a candidate has been selected, the candidate must amend her Statement of Candidacy and Statement of Organization to reflect MM (with an appropriate name change) as an authorized committee of her campaign. This should be done within 10 days of the endorsement.
 - The candidate must also immediately compare all contributors to MM with her own contributor records to ensure that any contribution received by MM, when aggregated with contributions received by the candidate's own committee have not exceeded the relevant contribution limit. This should be done within 10 days of the primary election. Any contribution found to have exceeded the limits should be refunded immediately by the candidate.

If you have any questions about the foregoing, or need additional information, please let me know.

FEDERAL ELECTION COMMISSION

1325 K STREET N.W.
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20463

July 29, 1977

AO 1977-16

Mr. Robert Eaton
Iowa 1980 U.S. Senate
Campaign Committee
Post Office Box 117
West Des Moines, Iowa 50265

Dear Mr. Eaton:

This refers to your advisory opinion request of April 4, 1977, concerning application of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("the Act"), to the proposed activities of the Iowa 1980 U.S. Senate Campaign Committee ("the Committee"), which has registered with the Commission as a political committee.

Your request indicates that the Committee intends to function initially as a search committee "for the purpose of selecting the best Republican candidate" for the 1980 Senate election in Iowa. At the time the candidate is selected in 1979, you anticipate that the Committee would become the candidate's principal campaign committee. You state that in searching for a candidate the Committee will raise money, conduct surveys, identify campaign workers, pay expenses, build a campaign organization, and eventually select the 1980 Republican Senate candidate it wishes to support. You further state that the campaign organization and contributions received by the Committee will "accrue fully to the candidate" upon his or her selection. During the search phase of the Committee's activities it will receive contributions and regard itself as subject to the same limits of the Act which apply to a candidate and his or her principal campaign committee. Furthermore, the Committee will keep records and report pursuant to 2 U.S.C. §432 and §434. When a 1980 Senate candidate is selected by the Committee, all contributions previously received by the Committee will be reviewed; refunds will be made in any case where a contributor has exceeded the relevant limits of 2 U.S.C. §441a because of contributions made to or on behalf of the selected candidate before his or her selection by the Committee.

You request an opinion as to whether the Committee may be operated as a principal campaign committee without a candidate for the initial period of its existence and subsequently become a principal campaign committee when a candidate is selected. Furthermore, you ask whether the contributions accumulated before the Committee selects its candidate may, upon selection, be retroactively regarded as contributions to the candidate without applying the contribution limits "to the total transfer of funds raised for the candidate." 1/

The Commission concludes that the Committee may be established and operate as a "political committee" under the Act and subject to the contribution limits which generally apply to political committees. See 2 U.S.C. §441a(a)(1)(C) and §441a(a)(2)(C); also see 2 U.S.C. §441a(a)(3). Furthermore, if desired, the Committee may operate under the contribution limits applicable to contributions which are made to a principal campaign committee.

In stating the above conclusion the Commission recognizes that principal campaign committees come into legal existence under the Act only when designated as such by a candidate for Federal office. See 2 U.S.C. §431(n), 432(e). However, the Commission does not find any legal basis for barring a political committee from operating under a self-imposed restriction on the amount of contributions it will accept which restriction coincides with the limits applicable to contributions to a candidate or principal campaign committee (or other authorized committee) of a candidate. In the event the Committee operates under the contribution limits applicable to the authorized campaign committee(s) of the candidate eventually selected, it may be retroactively designated by the selected candidate as his or her principal campaign committee; also, the accumulated contributions would not be regarded as a separate contribution from the Committee to the selected candidate who designates the Committee as his or her principal campaign committee. The foregoing discussion is subject to the following conditions which are made a part of this opinion.

1/ We note that an actual transfer of funds is not anticipated. Rather, by designating the Committee as his or her principal campaign committee, the selected candidate will assume constructive control over the funds and they will be combined with any contributions which were received by or on behalf of the candidate before his or her selection by the Committee.

At the time the Committee selects a candidate who then authorizes the Committee as his or her principal campaign committee, all previous payments received and made are retroactively regarded as contributions accepted and expenditures made by the Committee as principal campaign committee of the selected candidate. When the selected candidate authorizes the Committee as his or her campaign committee all contributions previously received by the Committee, as well as those received by or on behalf of (includes those received by any agent or other person having the consent of the selected candidate) the selected candidate before selection, must be reviewed to determine whether persons making those contributions may have exhausted their relevant limits under 2 U.S.C. §441a. ^{2/} Refunds must be promptly made to all persons who, as a result of this review, are determined to have made excessive contributions on behalf of the candidate selected by the Committee.

Of course, at the time of candidate selection, the Committee's Statement of Organization must be amended; also, the candidate must file a statement of candidacy and a statement authorizing the Committee as his or her principal campaign committee. See 2 U.S.C. §432 and §433 and Parts 101 and 102 of the regulations.

The Commission expressly declines to state any opinion on the permissible uses of funds collected by the Committee, and application of the contribution limits to those funds, in the event the Committee fails to select a candidate or the selected candidate declines to authorize the Committee as his or her principal campaign committee. If these contingencies arise the Committee should submit another advisory opinion request setting forth the specific factual situation existing at that time.

This response constitutes an advisory opinion concerning the application of a general rule of law stated in the Act, or prescribed as a Commission regulation, to the specific factual situation set forth in your request. See 2 U.S.C. §437f.

Sincerely yours,

Joan D. Aikens

Joan D. Aikens
Vice Chairman for the
Federal Election Commission

^{2/} Contributions to a candidate before selection, and those made to the Committee, are to be aggregated by donor to determine compliance with the limits of 2 U.S.C. §441a.

I. GENERATION OF MATTER

This matter arises from a complaint filed with the Federal Election Commission (the "Commission") on June 13, 1994. The National Republican Senatorial Committee ("Complainant") alleges that the Minnesota $$ Million ("Minnesota Million") political committee violated the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended, (the "Act" or "FECA") by making excessive contributions to the Wynia for Senate Committee.

This Office notified Minnesota $$ Million and Nina Rothchild, as treasurer; the Wynia for Senate Committee and

Ellen G. Sampson, as treasurer; and Catherine Hartnett and Associates and Catherine Hartnett, as president, ("Respondents") of the complaint. This Office received a response from Ellen Sampson on behalf of the Wynia campaign and a short response from Nancy D. Powers on behalf of Minnesota Million. Catherine Hartnett and Associates did not respond. See Attachments 2 and 3.

II. FACTUAL AND LEGAL ANALYSIS

A. BACKGROUND

1. COMPLAINANT'S ALLEGATIONS

Complainant alleges that Minnesota Million violated the Act by making contributions in excess of $1,000 to the Wynia for Senate Committee. See Attachment 1.¹ According to Complainant's reasoning, there are two types of excessive contributions.

First, Complainant alleges that Minnesota Million gave the campaign more than $1,000 in in-kind contributions through fundraisers for the Wynia campaign. According to the complaint, Minnesota Million raised $49,733.00 from 1991 to 1994 in contributions and disbursed $49,342.00 during that period which it used for fundraising purposes. None of this money was contributed to candidates for Federal office. These funds were expended to retain the fundraising services of Catherine Hartnett and Associates as well as for other goods and services required for fundraising. Complainant charges that these expenditures directly benefited the Ann Wynia campaign and, therefore, constitute reportable in-kind contributions from Minnesota Million.

1. The exhibits to the complaint have been redacted to delete voluminous FEC filings.

The second allegation of excessive contributions involves the results of Minnesota Million's fundraising efforts. According to Complainant, Minnesota Million's fundraising activities accumulated pledges exceeding $1,000 (based on newspaper articles cited by Complainant, either 275 or 350 pledges, each of $1,000) for a Democratic female candidate. Complainant asserts that the pledges themselves constitute excessive contributions made by Minnesota Million to the Wynia campaign. The complaint also notes that according to one newspaper article "many donors may have been encouraged, 'to give directly to the candidates rather than to the fund.'"² Id. at 4. Finally, Complainant states that now that Ann Wynia won the Minnesota Democratic party primary for the U.S. Senate, Minnesota Million intends to disband to "become part of the Ann Wynia campaign." Attachment 1 at 2.

2. RESPONSES

a. Wynia for Senate Committee and Ellen G. Sampson, as treasurer

Ellen G. Sampson, treasurer of the Wynia for Senate Committee, responded to the complaint on June 30, 1994, by detailing the history of the Minnesota $$ Million political committee and its relationship with Ann Wynia's United States

2. This quotation is taken out of context and did not relate to the Wynia campaign. The author of the newspaper article made the statement to explain why Minnesota Million was not as successful as anticipated in its fundraising efforts; at that point, it had only raised pledges of $275,000 towards its $1,000,000 goal. The statement read in full: "Rothchild said the early activity of Berg and Berglin may have encouraged many donors to give directly to the candidates rather than to the fund, thus damaging the campaign's specific target but not its overall goal." Attachment 1 at 7.

Senate election campaign. She asserts that:

From the time of its creation through May 1994, Minnesota Million was not a campaign arm of Wynia for Senate. Minnesota Million collected pledges for future contributions to an as yet unnamed candidate. Funds collected or spent by Minnesota Million itself were used solely for the goal of collecting pledges and were not used to benefit any particular candidate.

Attachment 2 at 2.

According to the campaign's response, in 1991 a group of politically active Minnesota women joined together with the intent of providing financial support to a woman Democratic Farmer Labor Party ("DFL") nominee to run for the Durenberger Senate seat in 1994. Minnesota Million was organized to solicit pledges ($1,000,000 in pledges of $1,000 each where the pledgor would either promise to give $1,000 directly or to raise $1,000 from other individuals) to contribute to an unnamed female candidate. Instead of raising pledges payable to Minnesota Million, fund raisers collected pledges from individuals who would contribute directly to the campaign once Minnesota Million endorsed a candidate for the Senate seat. When the political committee was initially organized, several prominent women were vying for the nomination, including Dee Long, Linda Berglin, and Ann Wynia.

In 1993, Minnesota Million retained counsel to determine how best to comply with the Act. Counsel presented Minnesota Million with two organizational options, which in her opinion would permit Minnesota Million to remain in compliance. Those options were for Minnesota Million to operate either as an independent expenditure committee or as a search committee. See Attachment 2 at 4 to 11.

The response states that in the summer of 1993, Minnesota Million representatives met with members of the Linda Berglin and Ann Wynia campaigns -- the two major contenders for the DFL nomination. Minnesota Million informed both candidates that in order to receive the Minnesota Million endorsement, the candidates would have to agree that once Minnesota Million made its endorsement, the candidate would bring Minnesota Million into her campaign as an authorized campaign committee. Both candidates agreed to this requirement by signing agreements which stated: "Upon endorsement by the Minnesota Million, if it occurs, I will accept Minnesota Million as an authorized committee as defined by the Federal Election Commission rules." Attachment 2 at 15-16. According to the response, "[t]hroughout the fall, winter and spring of 1993-94, Minnesota Million endorsed neither candidate." Id. at 2. Moreover, "[t]here was no consensus among its participants Both Berglin and Wynia had supporters and the organization remained deliberately neutral and uncommitted." Id.

The Wynia for Senate Committee asserts that Minnesota Million remained neutral until the DFL party endorsed Ann Wynia; then, Minnesota Million also chose to support Ann Wynia. On June 16, 1994, Minnesota Million filed an amended Statement of Organization with the Commission indicating that it had become an authorized committee for the candidacy of Ann Wynia's campaign for the United States Senate. See Attachment 2 at 17. At that time, it changed its name to Minnesota Million for Wynia. On the same date, the Wynia campaign filed a Statement of Candidacy and a Statement of Organization designating Minnesota Million for Wynia as an authorized and affiliated committee of the principal campaign committee, the Wynia for Senate Committee. See Attachment 2 at 18 to 19. The Wynia campaign states definitively that: "The Wynia for Senate Committee had no relationship with the Minnesota Million committee until we accepted that Committee as an affiliate of our Committee. Prior to that time, our operations were totally separate." Attachment 2 at 2.

According to the Wynia for Senate Committee's response, the committee has assumed the expenditures of Minnesota Million and the contributions made to Minnesota Million and has reported them as the campaign's. The campaign also stated that it is reviewing the contributions made to both committees and will promptly refund any excessive contributions.³

b. Minnesota $$ Million and Nina Rothchild, as treasurer

Nancy D. Powers, a member of the Minnesota Million Steering Committee, responded to the complaint by concurring with the explanation provided by the Wynia for Senate Committee. She did not make a separate statement.

3. This Office reviewed disclosure reports and the FEC indices relating to Minnesota Million and the Wynia for Senate Committee. As reflected primarily in the campaign's July 15, 1994 quarterly report, in each case where a contributor made contributions to Minnesota Million and the Wynia campaign which resulted in excessive contributions, the campaign refunded the excessive amount.

B. LEGAL ANALYSIS

The legal issue in this matter is whether Minnesota Million made either of two types of excessive contributions to the Wynia for Senate Committee. The first is excessive in-kind contributions allegedly made through Minnesota Million's payment for fundraising services to solicit pledges to contribute to a Democratic female candidate, which ultimately were for the benefit of the Wynia campaign. The second is the contribution of pledges which could be redeemed by the campaign. By implication, the complaint also alleges that the Wynia for Senate Committee and Ellen G. Sampson, as treasurer, received excessive contributions.

The Act prohibits any person from making a contribution to a candidate for federal office and his or her authorized campaign committee in excess of $1,000 per election. 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(1)(A). The Act defines a "person" to include any individual, partnership, committee, association, corporation, labor organization, or any other organization or group of persons. 2 U.S.C. § 431(11). The term "contribution" includes: (i) any gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money or anything of value made by any person for the purpose of influencing any election for Federal office; or (ii) the payment by any person of compensation for the personal services of another person which are rendered to a political committee without charge for any purpose. 2 U.S.C. § 431(8)(A). The term "anything of value" includes all in-kind contributions. Unless specifically exempted under 11 C.F.R. § 100.7(b), the provision of any goods or services without charge or at a charge which is less than the usual and normal charge for such goods or services is a contribution.

11 C.F.R. § 100.7(a)(1)(iii)(A).

A "political committee" includes, inter alia, any committee, club, association, or other group of persons which receives contributions aggregating in excess of $1,000 during a calendar year or makes expenditures in excess of $1,000 during a calendar year. 2 U.S.C. § 431(4)(A). A multicandidate political committee is one example of a political committee that: (i) has been registered with the Commission, Clerk of the House or Secretary of the Senate for at least 6 months; (ii) has received contributions from more than 50 persons; and (iii) has made contributions to 5 or more Federal candidates. 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(4). A multicandidate political committee may contribute no more than $5,000 to any Federal candidate and his or her authorized political committee. 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(2).

Pursuant to 2 U.S.C. § 441a(f), candidates and their political committees are prohibited from knowingly accepting any contributions or making any expenditures in violation of the provisions of 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a). In the case of an excessive contribution, the treasurer has 60 days from the date of receipt to refund the contribution or, if possible, to obtain a reattribution or redesignation of the contribution to cure the illegality. 11 C.F.R. §§ 103.3(b)(3) and 110.1(b). Excessive contributions not reattributed or redesignated must be refunded to the contributor within 60 days. 11 C.F.R. § 103.3(b)(3). When a contribution is refunded to the donor, the committee must disclose on its report the person receiving the refund along with the date and amount of such disbursement. 2 U.S.C. § 434(b)(5)(E).

1. $1,000 LIMITATION

A preliminary issue is whether Minnesota Million must comply with the $1,000 limitation as an individual contributor or the $5,000 limitation as a multicandidate political committee. On Minnesota Million's Statements of Organization, the committee's treasurer checked the multicandidate box,⁴ until the committee reorganized as an authorized committee of the Wynia for Senate Committee. See Attachment 1 at 4 and 5, and Attachment 2 at 17.

Although Minnesota Million fits within the definition of a political committee because it received contributions aggregating in excess of $1,000 or made expenditures aggregating in excess of $1,000 during a calendar year, Minnesota Million did not qualify as a multicandidate political committee -- although it initially supported more than 1 candidate -- because it did not make contributions to at least five Federal candidates. Therefore, it fell within the definition of a "person" under the Act and was limited to the individual contribution limit of $1,000 per election. 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(1)(A).

2. IN-KIND CONTRIBUTIONS

Complainant asserts that the money Minnesota Million spent on its fundraising activities to solicit pledges and the pledges themselves constitute in-kind contributions.

4. On the form, this category is described as follows: "This committee supports opposes more than one Federal candidate and is NOT a separate segregated fund or a party committee."

a. Search Committee Expenditures

The salient issue in the complaint is whether the funds spent by Minnesota Million on fundraising for an unnamed Democratic female candidate constitute excessive in-kind contributions to the Wynia campaign. There is no evidence that Minnesota Million was affiliated with any particular campaign. Nonetheless, the political committee was raising money which would eventually benefit one individual candidate.

The Commission addressed a similar situation in Advisory Opinion 1977-16. In that advisory opinion, a political committee intended to "function initially as a search committee 'for the purpose of selecting the best Republican candidate' for the 1980 Senate election in Iowa." AO 1977-16 at 1. The political committee planned to raise and spend money while conducting its search but intended to comport with the contribution and expenditure limitations set by the Act as if it were a principal campaign committee. After selecting the Senate candidate, the political committee represented that it would review all contributions and refund any excessive contributions made on behalf of the candidate prior to his or her selection by the political committee.

The Commission concluded that the political committee could be established for this purpose. It noted that "an actual transfer of funds is not anticipated. Rather, by designating the Committee as his or her principal campaign committee, the selected candidate will assume constructive control over the funds and they will be combined with any contributions which were received by or on behalf of the candidate before his or her selection by the Committee." AO 1977-16 at 2, footnote 1. If the committee operates under the contribution limits applicable to the authorized campaign committee of the candidate eventually selected, it may be retroactively designated by the selected candidate as his or her principal campaign committee. The Commission stated:

At the time the Committee selects a candidate who then authorizes the Committee as his or her principal campaign committee, all previous payments received and made are retroactively regarded as contributions accepted and expenditures made by the Committee as principal campaign committee of the selected candidate.

Id. at 3, (emphasis in original). The Commission required the campaign to then review all contributions made to the search committee to ensure that there were no excessive contributions and to make refunds promptly.

Minnesota Million operated as a search committee for an unnamed female candidate. There is no indication that any of its fundraising materials specifically mentioned or alluded to support for Ann Wynia. In fact, Respondents aver that several candidates were in serious contention for the committee's endorsement. The only known contact between the political committee and the campaign was the meeting to obtain Wynia's agreement, concurrent with another Senate candidate, Linda Berglin's, that if she was endorsed by Minnesota Million, she would accept Minnesota Million as an authorized committee. After the DFL Party's endorsement of Ann Wynia, Minnesota Million followed suit and then was designated as an authorized campaign committee of the Wynia campaign. Minnesota Million changed its name to Minnesota Million for Wynia and amended its Statement of Organization. The Wynia for Senate Committee then reviewed the contributions made to Minnesota Million to ensure that individual contributors to both Minnesota Million and the Wynia campaign complied with the per election $1,000 limit. The campaign refunded excessive contributions within 60 days of the affiliation of the two committees.

It appears that Minnesota Million and the Wynia for Senate Committee complied with the guidelines set forth in AO 1977-16.⁵ Accordingly, neither the $49,733.00 in contributions accepted by Minnesota Million nor the $49,342.00 in expenditures constitutes excessive in-kind contributions to the Wynia campaign.

b. Pledges

The complaint also charges that because Minnesota Million generated pledges of financial support for an unnamed woman candidate and, following the committee's endorsement, these pledges were ultimately to be paid to Ann Wynia's campaign, that Minnesota Million made excessive in-kind contributions to the campaign. Because Minnesota Million solicited pledges rather than receiving actual payments, the committee did not accept "contributions" within the meaning of the Act. A pledge does not constitute a contribution until it is paid. See 2 U.S.C.

5. Although Minnesota Million became an authorized committee of the Wynia for Senate Committee and not the candidate's principal campaign committee, as in AO 1977-16, there is no legally significant distinction between the two types of authorized committees in this instance because the limits for contributions and expenditures are the same for both types of committees.

§ 431(8); AO 1990-14 and 1985-29.

Since the Amendments to FECA of 1979, the law has been clear that the term "contribution" does not include pledges:

Since the Act's definition of the term "contribution" does not include a written contract, promise or pledge, the mere promise of the contributor to pay interest on the note is not a contribution Prior to January 8, 1980, the Act defined contribution to include "a written contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution." However, the Federal Election Campaign Act Amendments of 1979, Pub.L. 96-187, repealed that portion of the contribution definition while retaining similar definitional language for the term "expenditure." 2 U.S.C. § 431(9)(A)(ii). The effect of such a repeal is that a mere promise to make a contribution is not by itself subject to the Act as a contribution.

AO 1985-29 at 4.

For example, in an advisory opinion involving a "900 line" phone service, the Commission stated: "When a person makes a 900 line phone call, he or she has not yet made a contribution. The caller has merely pledged to make a contribution, and . . . may decide not to make the payment. The contribution does not occur until the caller pays, e.g., on the phone bill." AO 1990-14 at 8.

In this case, the pledges were not paid until Minnesota Million had become an authorized campaign committee of the Wynia for Senate Committee. When payment was actually made, those pledges became contributions attributable to the individual donor and received by the Wynia campaign. Accordingly, the pledges to pay do not constitute excessive contributions made by Minnesota Million to the Wynia for Senate Committee.

III. CONCLUSION

Complainant alleges that Minnesota Million made two types of excessive in-kind contributions to the Wynia for Senate Committee. The first type includes the funds expended by Minnesota Million on fundraising expenses for an unnamed female Senatorial candidate. These fundraising expenses ultimately benefited Wynia. These do not constitute excessive contributions because contributions and expenditures made by a search committee can subsequently be ratified by a campaign as its own. See Advisory Opinion 1977-16. The second allegation of excessive contributions involved the pledges generated by Minnesota Million on behalf of an unnamed candidate. Because pledges are not considered contributions until payment is actually made, and payment in this case occurred after Minnesota Million became an authorized campaign committee of the Wynia for Senate Committee, these pledges do not constitute excessive contributions by Minnesota Million to the Wynia campaign.

Catherine Hartnett is apparently in the business of providing fundraising services to political candidates. There has been no allegation or indication in the record that she provided such services to Minnesota Million at a price less than market value. Therefore, she did not provide "anything of value" to Minnesota Million or the Wynia for Senate Committee and made no contribution to either political committee. See 2 U.S.C. § 431(8) and 11 C.F.R. § 100.7(a)(1)(iii).

For these reasons, this Office recommends that the Commission find no reason to believe that Minnesota $$ Million and Nina

25943624625

Rothchild, as treasurer, violated 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(1)(A) by making excessive contributions to the Wynia for Senate Committee. Because there were no excessive contributions made by Minnesota Million to the campaign, this Office also recommends that the Commission find that there is no reason to believe that the Wynia for Senate Committee and Ellen G. Sampson, as treasurer, violated 2 U.S.C. § 441a(f) by accepting excessive contributions from Minnesota Million. Furthermore, this Office recommends that the Commission find no reason to believe that Catherine Hartnett and Associates and Catherine Hartnett, as President, violated 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(1)(A).

IV. RECOMMENDATIONS

1. Find no reason to believe that Minnesota $$ Million and Nina Rothchild, as treasurer, violated 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(1)(A).
