Re: Possible Criminal Violations by
Vargas for Congress 1996, #C00307256
Committee to Re-Elect Juan Vargas, #972238
Juan Vargas, Candidate and Current San Diego City Councilman
Larry Remer, Owner of The Primacy Group
Deanna Liebergot, Treasurer

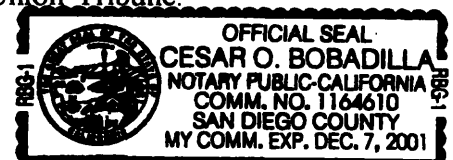

Dear Sir/Madam

Enclosed you will find documentation which indicates possible criminal activity by the above referenced committees and individuals. The complaint of possible criminal wrongdoing centers around an outstanding debt to The Primacy Group in the amount of $24,506.07 from the failed campaign of Vargas for Congress 1996, #C00307256.

The above referenced congressional debt constitutes an illegal campaign contribution since no attempts to collect or repay the debt has been made by either party. In addition, the owner of The Primacy Group, Larry Remer, is a vocal public supporter of Juan Vargas and Vargas's aspirations for higher office. This by itself could be cause for investigation; however, recent information indicates possible money laundering activity by illegally diverting money from a city council campaign to repay debts from the failed congressional campaign.

Enclosed is a copy of an Officeholder, Candidate, & Committee Campaign Statement for the Committee to Re-Elect Juan Vargas, #972238, to the San Diego City Council. This statement indicates that $13,298.88 has been paid to The Primacy Group for "consulting" services when no visible campaigning or activity has been taking place. On the surface it appears that city council campaign funds are being used to pay the outstanding congressional debt.

The enclosed documentation supporting this claim has been obtained from public records provided by the candidate and the candidate controlled committees. Additional information documenting Larry Remer (The Primacy Group) and Juan Vargas's relationship has been provided from internet access of The San Diego Union-Tribune.

Assembly candidate challenges his GOP rivals to just say no

Drug traffickers are an evil crowd with ugly intentions -- no doubt about it. But is it possible that their diabolical schemes include infiltrating the Republican primary in the 78th Assembly District?

One of the candidates is taking no chances. Attorney Rick Wildman has challenged his GOP rivals to sign a pledge in which they agree to abstain from using illegal drugs and reject the support of people who traffic in them.

Wildman's unusual challenge is, in all probability, a thinly disguised attack on one of his two opponents. See if you can guess which one:

■ Dr. Jean Roesch, the longtime trustee of the Coronado Unified School District who is an educator, grandmother and member of the Coronado Cays Republican Women, or

■ "New York" Myke Shelby, the free-spirited biker, helmet-law foe and Harley-Davidson dealer.

Tipping his hand ever so slightly, Wildman said last week, "I certainly hope that Myke isn't accepting support from the Hell's Angels."

Leaders of the Hell's Angels could not be reached for comment. Shelby, before leaving on his motorcycle to lobby Congress to abolish the Internal Revenue Service, called Wildman's pledge idiotic and said he would not sign it "on general principle."

"I'm not going to give him any credibility or credence," Shelby said. "I'm not going to fall for his trick."

As for whether any drug traffickers are helping him with his campaign, Shelby said he runs a drug-free operation, as far as he knows.

Your tax dollars at work

The cost of the annual retreat by directors of the San Diego Association of Governments (aka SANDAG) has more than doubled over the past five years, according to a recent memo by Wayne T. Sink, the group's director of finance and administration.

The latest retreat, a three-day, two-night affair at the posh La Casa del Zorro resort in Borrego Springs, attracted 35 board members, including nine of the county's mayors and two members each from the county Board of Supervisors and San Diego City Council.

While a full accounting will not be made until late March, the hotel bill alone was nearly $25,000. The 1993 retreat cost about $11,000.

Among the hotel charges are more than $4,150 for alcoholic beverages. Half of that amount was consumed during the two open-bar cocktail parties, and the rest during meals. Counting spouses and staff members, 44 people attended the first night's dinner (pistachio-crusted fillet of sea bass) and 50 people attended the second (pinwheel filet mignon filled with spinach and portobello mushrooms).

SANDAG communications director Garry Bonelli said the liquor bill is not representative of the retreat's atmosphere.

"Those people are not party animals," Bonelli said. "This is the one time of the year when we can bring one-third of elected officials in the county together to let their hair down and get to know one another."

Bonelli said individual directors are going to reimburse thousands of dollars to SANDAG for their spouses' meals and for items removed from hotel room minibars.

And, in vouching for the participants' no-nonsense attitude, he noted that only a handful of directors took advantage of the resort's golf course and tennis courts.

Crystal ball watch

Political consultants John Kern and Larry Remer, a Republican and a Democrat, respectively, agreed more often than they differed last week when they shared their thoughts on local elections with the San Diego Press Club.

One notable disagreement: the outcome of the June vote on San Diego Convention Center expansion. Remer predicted it would pass easily, pointing out that proponents will be exceptionally well-funded.

Kern thought residual anger over the Qualcomm Stadium expansion would come back to haunt the downtown business establishment and City Council.

"I think it's going to lose because it's going to be a stick-it-in-your-ear vote," Kern said. "You don't need an awful lot of money to get that."

However, they agreed that Mayor Susan Golding's career trajectory looks fairly bleak at the moment.

"I don't think she has a political future right now," Remer said.

"If Susan runs for another office, what's her message? What's her issue?" Kern said. "I don't see it right now."

They parted company once again when the subject of Golding's successor came up. Remer predicted it would be Councilman Juan Vargas. Kern opted for Dick Murphy, the councilman-turned-judge who frequently is rumored to be interested in returning to politics.

Not coincidentally, Vargas is Remer's client. And Kern is believed to be the source of many of those frequent rumors regarding Murphy and has positioned himself to manage Murphy's long-awaited comeback.
