Use Your Vote to Support Better Schools

Republicans in Congress have tried to cut education funding and cut student loans. The late Walter Capps stood up to them and won these battles for us in Washington.

Now, Democrats are continuing the Walter Capps tradition by fighting to improve education with locally-based school reform, reduced class sizes, crime and drug prevention, and tax credits to make college more affordable for middle class families.

Republicans call that "big government." Democrats call that smart investment.

Go to the polls and support better schools by voting Democratic in the March 10th special election.

"In the sometimes ugly world of politics, Walter Capps showed us dignity, decency and a respect for truth.

He fought for the causes most important to the future of our families—better schools, a cleaner environment, a secure retirement, quality health care, and a woman's right to choose.

On Tuesday, March 10th, vote in the special election for Congress. Vote Democratic to continue the work of Walter Capps.

“We are best as people when we work for the common good, when we exercise regard for those who are least among us. We are strongest as a people when we are directed by that which unites us rather than giving in to the fears, suspicions, innuendoes and paranoias that divide us.

Use Your Vote For Better Health Care

Across America, Democrats are standing up against insurance companies and HMO's that put profits ahead of quality health care for American families.

The Democratic Party supports your right to choose your own doctor and we want doctors—not insurance company executives—to make the important decisions affecting your care. And Democrats will continue to fight Republican efforts to cut Medicare and long term care for seniors.

The late Walter Capps stood up to Republicans in Washington and fought for quality health care for all our families. This Tuesday's special election will decide if we can keep his tradition alive.

So if you believe insurance companies and HMO's need to pay more attention to patients than profits, make your voice heard. Vote Democratic in the special election on Tuesday, March 10th.
