RE: MURs 6917 & 6929
Our American Revival and C. Ryan
Burchfield in his official capacity as treasurer

Dear Mr. Ashby:

Based on a complaint filed with the Federal Election Commission (the “Commission”), and information supplied by your client, the Commission on April 23, 2019, found reason to believe that Our American Revival and C. Ryan Burchfield in his official capacity as treasurer violated 52 U.S.C. § 30116(a), and instituted an investigation in this matter.

After considering all the evidence available to the Commission, the Office of the General Counsel is prepared to recommend that the Commission find probable cause to believe that violations of the Act have occurred.

The Commission may or may not approve the General Counsel’s recommendation. Submitted for your review is a brief stating the position of the General Counsel on the legal and factual issues of the case. Within 15 days of your receipt of this notice, you may file with the Secretary of the Commission a brief (ten copies, if possible) stating your clients’ position on the issues and replying to the brief of the General Counsel. (Three copies of such brief should also be forwarded to the Office of the General Counsel, if possible.) The General Counsel’s brief and any brief which you may submit will be considered by the Commission before proceeding to a vote of whether there is probable cause to believe a violation has occurred.

If you are unable to file a responsive brief within 15 days, you may submit a written request for an extension of time. All requests for extensions of time must be submitted in writing five days prior to the due date, and good cause must be demonstrated. In addition, the Office of the General Counsel ordinarily will not give extensions beyond 20 days and may require that your clients toll the running of the state of limitations before granting such an extension.

You may also request additional information gathered by the Commission in the course of its investigation in this matter. See Agency Procedure for Disclosure of Documents and Information in the Enforcement Process, 76 Fed. Reg. 34986 (June 15, 2011). For your convenience, we have already included those documents that we relied upon as part of this mailing.

In addition, you may also request an oral hearing before the Commission. See Procedural Rules for Probable Cause Hearings, 72 Fed. Reg. 64919 (Nov. 19, 2007) and Amendment of Agency Procedures for Probable Cause Hearings, 74 Fed. Reg. 55443 (Oct. 28, 2009). Hearings are voluntary and no adverse inference will be drawn by the Commission based on a respondent's decision not to request such a hearing. Any request for a hearing must be submitted along with your reply brief and must state with specificity why the hearing is being requested and what issues you expect to address. The Commission will notify you within 30 days of your request for a hearing as to whether or not the request has been granted. If you request a probable cause hearing, the Commission may request that you toll the statute of limitations in connection with that hearing. Id. at 64,920.

A finding of probable cause to believe requires that the Office of the General Counsel attempt for a period of not less than 30, but not more than 90 days, to settle this matter through a conciliation agreement. If we are unable to reach an agreement after 30 days, the Commission may institute a civil suit in United States District Court and seek payment of a civil penalty. See 52 U.S.C. § 30109(a)(6)(A).

Should you have any questions, please contact Adrienne Baranowicz, the attorney assigned to this matter, at (202) 694-1650.

Sincerely,

Lisa J. Stevenson

GENERAL COUNSEL'S BRIEF

I. STATEMENT OF THE CASE

13       Former Wisconsin Governor Scott Walker (“Walker”) publicly announced that he was 14       running for President of the United States on July 13, 2015, weeks after his announcement that 15       he was testing the waters for a possible candidacy. Based on the Complaints, Responses, and 16       available record, the Commission found reason to believe that Our American Revival and 17       C. Ryan Burchfield<sup>1</sup> in his official capacity as treasurer (“OAR”) violated 52 U.S.C. §§ 30116(a)
18       and 30118 by making excessive and prohibited contributions to Walker’s presidential campaign
19       committee, Scott Walker, Inc., and Kate Teasdale<sup>2</sup> in her official capacity as treasurer
20       (“Committee”), by paying for Walker’s testing-the-waters expenses prior to Walker’s declaration 21       of candidacy.

22 The Commission’s investigation revealed that OAR arranged, staffed, and funded 23 Walker’s testing-the-waters efforts. Beginning in January 2015, OAR funded a team of staffers 24 and consultants who traveled the country with Walker, seeking to determine whether support 25 existed for a Walker candidacy and laying the groundwork to establish a network of potential 26 endorsements and State Finance Chairs for an eventual Walker candidacy. Between April and 27 June 2015, Walker continued to travel the country and combined public speaking events with

1 private meetings with prospective donors and supporters. OAR paid for Walker's travel to these 2 events as well as for staff and consultants who supported Walker's testing-the-waters activities.
 3 Accordingly, the Office of the General Counsel ("OGC") is prepared to recommend that the 4 Commission find probable cause to believe that OAR violated 52 U.S.C. §§ 30116(a) and 30118
 5 by making excessive and prohibited contributions in connection with its efforts to support 6 Walker's testing-the-waters activities.

7 II. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

8 OAR acknowledged in its subpoena response that "Governor Scott Walker founded Our 9 American Revival," although it did not describe Walker's role in detail or provide additional 10 information or documents to clarify the precise circumstances of OAR's establishment.<sup>3</sup> In 11 response to the Commission's subpoena, OAR stated that it was unable to locate "any documents 12 reflecting discussions with Gov. Walker or any individual acting on behalf of Scott Walker, Inc.
 13 regarding the establishment of Our American Revival."<sup>4</sup> However, a review of documents 14 obtained from third parties concerning OAR's activities from January 16, 2015, when it 15 registered with the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") as a section 527 organization, through 16 Walker's declaration of candidacy on July 13, 2015, confirms that Walker was seeking to gauge 17 support for a potential presidential candidacy when he traveled to meetings throughout the 18 country, and that OAR arranged, researched, and staffed these efforts. Indeed, the available <sup>3</sup> OAR Resp. to Comm'n's Subpoena to Produce Documents & Order to Submit Written Answers at 2 (Aug. 9, 2019) ("OAR Discovery Resp."). Walker confirmed that he was a part of OAR's formation in public interviews where he announced that "we created" OAR. See MUR 6917 Compl. at 5, 7 (citing Transcript, Interview by Sean Hannity, FOX News, with Governor Scott Walker, at FOX News Network (Jan. 27, 2015)). OAR does acknowledge that Walker "interviewed and decided to hire" OAR's executive director, thus acknowledging his role in determining OAR's leadership. OAR Discovery Resp. at 4.

1 evidence confirms that OAR-funded activities were carried out so that Walker could test the 2 waters of a potential presidential candidacy well before Walker entered his self-described two-3 week testing-the-waters period.

4 1. Private Meetings

5 From OAR's inception in January 2015 through June 2015, Walker attended multiple 6 fundraising events throughout New York, Florida, and Chicago, ostensibly to support OAR and 7 promote a generalized message of “[g]rowth, [r]eform and [s]afety.”<sup>5</sup> OAR asserts that Walker 8 was communicating a generalized vision of state-based government solutions, but documents 9 show that Walker also used these meetings and events to test the waters by gauging support for 10 his eventual candidacy and building a national fundraising team.

11 On June 5, 2019, OAR responded to the Commission's Factual and Legal Analysis, 12 contested the legal basis for the Commission's findings, and argued that Walker's efforts to 13 campaign on behalf of other politicians prior to 2015 indicate that Walker was not using OAR to 14 test the waters for a presidential campaign.<sup>6</sup>

15 In response to a subpoena, OAR made two partial document productions, which it 16 acknowledged were incomplete, and throughout the investigation continued to contest the legal 17 basis for the Commission's reason to believe findings.<sup>7</sup> Following the loss of a quorum at the 18 Commission, OAR notified the Commission of its decision to cease responding to the subpoena,

1 stating that it did not have sufficient resources to continue to comply with the subpoena.<sup>8</sup>

2 Nevertheless, OGC was able to establish OAR's role in Walker's pre-candidacy activities 3 through publicly available information and third-party document productions. OGC sent thirteen 4 informal requests for discovery, and later served Commission subpoenas for documents and 5 information to several key third-party vendors. OGC was able to obtain documents from five of 6 OAR's vendors, two of whom ultimately worked for the Committee. These documents provided 7 insight into travel funded by OAR, fundraising pitches researched by OAR consultants and 8 conducted by Walker, and Walker's activities and strategies in early voting states while 9 ostensibly traveling on behalf of OAR.<sup>9</sup>

10 Before Walker declared his candidacy, OAR provided him with the support and funding 11 necessary for him to travel the country to engage in testing-the-waters activities, including 12 meeting with potential donors and supporters in small group settings. Walker participated in 13 dozens of these meetings, which OAR described in its response to the subpoena as "private 14 meetings."<sup>10</sup> At those meetings, which OAR's fundraising consultants researched and (stating that "OAR will continue to review its records and anticipates that a supplemental production will be forthcoming"); Letter from Jonathan A. Peterson to Chris Ashby (Sept. 26, 2019) ("Attach. 3") (summarizing document production deficiencies). Counsel for OAR further stated that OAR would no longer be responding to communications from OGC as a "reflection of the fact that the Commission waited until the next national election was underway to commence an investigation of this matter from the last one — and in that interim, political realties have shifted, OAR has finished its work, people have moved on, memories have faded, and OAR's resources have dwindled." Attach. 2 at 1.

<sup>9</sup> For its part, OAR produced receipts that OAR's staffers and consultants submitted in connection with their work, providing insight into the substance of its staffers' travels. See, e.g., OAR-003-000448. OAR also produced some internal communications concerning OAR's work to secure speaking engagements for Walker. See, e.g., OAR-000-000008.

1 scheduled, in addition to seeking donations to OAR, Walker appears to have sought 2 endorsements to assess the attendees' willingness to serve as state financial chairs in his future 3 campaign, and seek commitments for contributions to any future presidential campaign.

4 These meetings, which began in January 2015, followed similar general scripts, which an 5 OAR fundraising consultant prepared in advance of Walker's calls and meetings with potential 6 donors.<sup>11</sup> Many of the briefing documents written for Walker included a section titled "ask," 7 which suggested Walker ask "Will [he/she] support your 2016 efforts with public 8 endorsement?"<sup>12</sup> The endorsement request was separate from the suggestion that Walker ask the 9 potential donors to contribute to OAR itself.<sup>13</sup> Separate briefing documents prepared by OAR's 10 consultant state that Walker should "[d]iscuss [with meeting participants] your [Walker's] 11 preparation for 2016."<sup>14</sup>

12 On January 24 and 25, 2015, Walker traveled on flights arranged and paid for by OAR<sup>15</sup>
 13 to Palm Springs, California, to participate in the Freedom Partners Seminar at the Ritz-Carlton
 14 Rancho Mirage hotel and private meetings.<sup>16</sup> According to the briefing notes an OAR consultant

<sup>15</sup> From approximately January 1, 2015, through July 31, 2015, OAR entered into a leasing agreement with Sitatunga Springs LLC to use Sitatunga's aircraft. See Letter from Benjamin Abrams, Counsel, Sitatunga Springs LLC, to Jonathan Peterson, Attorney, FEC (June 28, 2019) ("Attach. 7") (enclosing Sitatunga document production). OAR has similarly acknowledged that Sitatunga Springs provided "travel and related logistical support services to Our American Revival." OAR Discovery Resp. at 5. 1 prepared, OAR instructed Walker to ask supporters at those meetings to support his “2016 efforts
 2 with [a] public endorsement.”<sup>17</sup> Similarly, another supporter of both OAR and the Committee
 3 hosted a breakfast event featuring Walker for which the invitation provided contact information 4 for individuals seeking “more information on Scott Walker’s Campaign.”<sup>18</sup>

5 In February and March 2015, Walker continued his OAR-funded trips to secure support 6 for a potential candidacy, and he was supported by OAR employees and agents on these trips.

7 Walker attended private meetings in New York on February 19, 2015. Briefing notes for that 8 event reflect that he was prepared to ask potential supporters to endorse him, join his Finance 9 Committee, and to encourage their friends to back him.<sup>19</sup> Notes apparently prepared by a 10 member of OAR’s fundraising team subsequent to a February 6, 2015, call with a potential donor 11 in Colorado indicate that Walker had not only already begun to discuss his potential presidential 12 candidacy, but had even begun to consider potential running mates: “Gov said why I’m 13 preparing/running is because he said for US to beat Hillary Clinton, we have a hard time beating

3 OAR also funded efforts by Walker to seek the support of potential fundraising 4 “bundlers” in 2015 in the event he decided to become a presidential candidate.<sup>21</sup> OAR briefing
 5 documents instructed Walker to ask numerous people to join his team “should he decide to run 6 for higher office.”<sup>22</sup> The briefing notes for a “breakfast/meet & greet” held on March 12, 2015,

1 where he “spoke about OAR [and] your potential run for Higher Office.”<sup>23</sup> The OAR-prepared 2 note further instructs Walker to:

3                   Please let the group know that you are considering a potential run 4 for higher office. Give them background on OAR as well as your 5 record in WI. Should you decide to run, you would love their 6 support both publicly and financially. There are several 7 individuals in the room who are substantial bundlers in the tri-8 states region and you would like them to serve on your NFC.
 9 Please ask those who are interested in helping now, to consider a 10 larger contribution to OAR.<sup>24</sup>

11               Finally, at a March 30, 2015, dinner reception, OAR prepared Walker’s talking points for 12 interactions with various attendees, including the statement: “Need your endorsement and 13 financial support. I can’t do this run without both.”<sup>25</sup>

14               As these materials reflect, the evidence confirms that Walker did not use OAR meetings 15 to promote conservative causes generally, but rather, he used these meetings to ascertain support 16 for his own candidacy, including vis-a-vis other potential presidential candidates, and, moreover, 17 that Walker did so with OAR’s support. In preparing Walker for one of these meetings, for 18 example, the OAR employees and agents noted that a potential supporter “was staying with 19 Romney until Romney decided what to do. Now that he’s out, he’s looking for his horse and is

 3 already decided to support another candidate, noting that a potential donor “has not decided on a 4 candidate but is very impressed with you and ‘leaning towards you.’”<sup>29</sup> Similarly, OAR-

4 OAR’s Response to the Commission’s Factual and Legal Analysis did not address in 5 detail the activities it undertook for Walker, but instead emphasized Walker’s public speaking 6 experience between 2011 and 2014 in support of its position that Walker’s 2015 activity was 7 unrelated to his potential candidacy.<sup>34</sup> OAR stated that at various speaking events “throughout 8 early 2015, Governor Walker consistently promoted OAR’s mission of disseminating the 9 accomplishments and solutions coming out of state governments, and holding up his Wisconsin 10 record as a major example of successful state-based solutions,” suggesting that it provided 11 logistical support to Walker so that he could promote OAR’s purportedly issue-based agenda.<sup>35</sup> 12 OAR later confirmed many of Walker’s travels, listing his public speaking events along with <sup>34</sup> See RTB Resp. at 5-7. Specifically, OAR maintains that Walker had only made a handful of impromptu statements in response to press speculation about his candidacy, but a review of publicly available information reveals that Walker made comments indicating that he was considering his candidacy. OAR published a video of Walker speaking at Rick Scott’s Economic Growth Summit where Walker stated, “I appreciate Rick inviting me and a number of other folks who either are or, like me, are thinking about maybe the possibility of taking the next step to help this country go forward.” Our American Revival, Scott Walker Discusses Economic Reform & Wisconsin’s Growing Economy at 1:25-1:35, YOUTUBE (June 2, 2015) <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=tBqS8FzyVhw>. 1 numerous “private meetings”<sup>36</sup> that correspond to more detailed information obtained from third 2 parties, described above, about OAR’s activities with respect to those meetings. OAR also 3 referenced several “blog” posts on its webpage as support for its arguments that OAR was 4 engaged in issue advocacy, and claims that OAR continued to have staff and fundraise in 2016

5 and 2017 and remains a going concern today.<sup>37</sup>

6 The materials produced by OAR provide some insight into OAR’s functions but do not 7 completely address its activity. While OAR’s response to the Commission’s reason-to-believe 8 finding appears to focus on Walker’s public speaking engagements and compares his speaking 9 engagements before and after OAR’s formation, it does not address the numerous “private 10 meetings” that were arranged, researched, and funded by OAR.<sup>38</sup> As explained above, OAR 11 stopped producing documents in response to the Commission’s subpoena and stopped 12 communicating with OGC, so it remains unknown whether OAR would have addressed these 13 private meetings in later discussions with OGC.<sup>39</sup> OAR also protested OGC’s efforts to obtain 14 materials from third-party witnesses as “unfair.”<sup>40</sup>

15 It is these private meetings, about which OAR provided little to no information or 16 documents, that reveal OAR’s role in paying consultants to research donor profiles, developing

3           2.       Staffing of OAR

4           OAR's staff of well-known political campaign consultants was regarded by the media as 5 Walker's "campaign-in-waiting,"<sup>41</sup> and it effectively functioned in that capacity. In January and 6 February 2015, OAR built its staff of individuals and consulting companies; most of these people
 7 and companies would work for Walker's Committee almost immediately after leaving OAR, 8 apparently performing the same work for the Committee as they had for OAR. For example, 9 Rick Wiley, began working for OAR as Executive Director in or about December 2014, and left 10 on June 17, 2015, two days after Walker announced his potential candidacy.<sup>42</sup> The next day, 11 June 18, 2015, Wiley started working for the Committee as Walker's Campaign Manager.
 12 Similarly, Kirsten Kukowski was OAR's Communications Director from March 1, 2015, until 13 June 18, 2015,<sup>43</sup> when she began to work for the Committee as its Communications Director.
 14 Matt Mason was OAR's Political Director from February 1, 2015, through June 17, 2015.<sup>44</sup> 15 Information available to the Commission indicates that on or about July 2, 2015, Mason began to

 2 April 13, 2015, to $39,154 on July 1, 2015, to $5,228 on July 29, 2015.<sup>46</sup> Further, there do not 3 appear to be any payroll expenditures for OAR between August and November 2015.<sup>47</sup> The 4 sharp decrease in OAR's total payroll expenditures indicates that many individuals who departed
 5 were not replaced, and that OAR ceased much of its activity after Walker declared his candidacy, 6 as described at the end of this subsection.

7 Other companies that provided services to OAR made similar transitions from working 8 for OAR to working for the Committee, where they, too, appear to have continued to perform the 9 same work they had performed for OAR.<sup>48</sup> Publicly available filings reveal that Adesys

1           LG Strategies was retained to provide consulting services to Our 2           American Revival and later Scott Walker, Inc. for efforts in New 3           Hampshire. Our role was to provide strategic advice and work
 4           with staff assigned to NH to help them building [sic] a successful 5           network in New Hampshire. We also helped to organize events 6           throughout the state where people could meet Governor Walker 7           and hear his message.<sup>59</sup>

8           Similarly, Mark Stephenson, through his company Red Oak Strategic, served as a Chief Data
 9           Officer for OAR through “the first half of 2015, billing OAR $15,000 a month.”<sup>60</sup> In July 2015, 10          Stephenson was hired in his individual capacity as “data director” for the Committee and was 11          paid an identical amount of $15,000 a month.<sup>61</sup>

12          OAR staff and vendors not only served in similar capacities for OAR and the Walker 13          Committee, but there is also evidence that OAR did not dispute perceptions that it was 14          effectively functioning as Walker’s potential campaign committee. Reporters seeking comment 15          on Walker’s prospective campaign reached out to OAR’s employees and vendors, who did not 16          always distinguish between the two entities or purposes, to the extent they may have diverged.
 17          For example, Fox News contacted a consultant hired to handle OAR’s efforts in New Hampshire 18          and asked him to confirm whether he and another consultant had “been hired by Scott Walker as 19          consultants for New Hampshire.”<sup>62</sup> That consultant confirmed he had been hired, but did not

1 clarify that OAR had hired him, not Walker,<sup>63</sup> which indicates that his real job was to consult 2 Walker and not support OAR's purported generalized mission.<sup>64</sup> Similarly, emails showed OAR
 3 staff initially agreed with a New York Times editor's description of "campaign staff of announced 4 and likely 2016 presidential candidates," that included a Walker team composed of individuals 5 who, at the time, were working for OAR.<sup>65</sup>

6 Finally, after Walker announced his candidacy, OAR continued to exist, but in a 7 significantly diminished capacity. As noted above, its Executive Director's last day was June 17, 8 2015; its Political Director resigned the same day; its Communications Director resigned on 9 June 18, 2015; and its Senior Advisor stopped working for OAR on or about June 17, 2015.<sup>66</sup> 10 Additionally, many of OAR's vendors stopped providing services to OAR that appeared to 11 support a potential Walker campaign and began providing those same services to the Committee

<sup>64</sup> OAR stated in its Response to the Commission's subpoena that it sought to exploit the public's interest in the 2016 election and the possibility that Walker was considering a campaign, stating, "Conservative activists, donors, political operatives, reporters and others constantly sought to discuss the upcoming elections. Our American Revival sought to take advantage of that interest to set a policy agenda and influence the debate in the 2016 elections." OAR Discovery Resp. at 4.

<sup>65</sup> See OAR-10-000523- 000524 (Apr. 22, 2015 email from Ashlee Strong to Rick Wiley, Kirsten Kukowski & Matt Mason stating "This all looks good to me" in response to a New York Times staffer concerning the roles of OAR staffers). It appears that OAR ultimately denied the existence of a campaign team. Id. (Kukowski replied, "They can't publish this."). However, The New York Times's assessment of the roles that OAR staffers would play on Walker's campaign did indeed prove to be accurate — Rick Wiley would become Walker's campaign manager, Matt Mason would be the National Political Director, Kirsten Kukowski would head Walker's communications team, Ashlee Strong would become press secretary, and Mark Stephenson would function as the campaign's chief data officer. 1 under substantially identical arrangements.<sup>67</sup> The mass departure of OAR staff and consultants
 2 to Walker's Committee, coupled with the fact that OAR does not appear to have replaced much
 3 of its staff, confirms the perception that OAR was Walker's "campaign in waiting."<sup>68</sup>

4 OAR's diminution in staffing and consultants is reflected in OAR's overall spending in 5 the months and years following Walker's announcement of his candidacy. OAR reported 6 making $5,135,846 of expenditures in its first IRS filing, which covered the period from OAR's
 7 formation to June 30, 2015, which included the date Walker announced that he had begun testing
 8 the waters.<sup>69</sup> In its next IRS report, which covered the rest of 2015, OAR's reported spending 9 dropped by 69%, to $1,605,485.<sup>70</sup> OAR's reported 2016 expenditures continued to decline.
 10 OAR's 2016 First Quarterly Report disclosed $350,433 in expenditures,<sup>71</sup> its Second Quarterly 11 Report disclosed $265,363,<sup>72</sup> its Third Quarterly Report disclosed $142,093,<sup>73</sup> and its Year-End 12 Report disclosed $123,815.<sup>74</sup> And during the first half of 2017, OAR reported spending only 13 $23,561, suggesting that its activity had virtually ceased after the 2016 election.<sup>75</sup>

1    III.    LEGAL ANALYSIS2    A.    OAR Funded Walker's Testing-the-Waters Activities

3

4       The Commission found reason to believe that OAR may have engaged in unreported

5       testing-the-waters activity on behalf of Walker, which would result in excessive and/or 6       prohibited contributions to Walker's Committee.<sup>76</sup> The evidence developed during the 7       investigation confirms those earlier findings and demonstrates that there is probable cause to

8       believe that OAR expended resources to fund testing-the-waters activities for Walker prior to his 9       formal announcement that he was testing the waters on June 17, 2015.

10       An individual becomes a candidate under the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as 11       amended (the "Act"), if he or she receives contributions or makes expenditures in excess of 12       $5,000, or consents to another doing so on his or her behalf.<sup>77</sup> The Commission's regulations

13       create exemptions to the definitions of contribution and expenditure — and therefore to the 14       $5,000 candidacy threshold — to allow individuals to conduct certain activities to evaluate a

15       potential candidacy, i.e., to "test the waters."<sup>78</sup> These exemptions exclude from the definition of 16       "contribution" and "expenditure" those funds received and payments made solely to determine

17       whether an individual should become a candidate.<sup>79</sup> The regulations allow this limited

1 exemption for activities directed to an evaluation of the feasibility of one's candidacy, though 2 not for conduct signifying that a decision to become a candidate has been made.<sup>80</sup> Testing-the-3 waters activities include, but are not limited to, payments for polling, telephone calls, and travel, 4 and only funds permissible under the Act may be used for such activities.<sup>81</sup> When an individual 5 becomes a candidate, any such funds received or payments made in connection with testing-the-6 waters activity must be reported as contributions or expenditures on the first disclosure report 7 filed by the candidate's authorized committee.<sup>82</sup>

8 The Commission has stated that testing-the-waters activities are those "conducted to 9 determine whether an individual should be a candidate."<sup>83</sup> The Commission has opined that 10 traveling to speak with opinion makers and political and non-political groups for the purpose of 11 deciding whether potential political support exists for a national campaign is testing-the-waters 12 activity.<sup>84</sup> Similarly, in MUR 5908 (Duncan Hunter), the Commission found reason to believe 13 that a candidate's spending on travel to early primary states "to publicize his Presidential

1 been reported as testing the waters or campaign expenses.<sup>85</sup> When evaluating whether a 2 respondent had ceased testing the waters and begun a candidacy, the Commission has determined 3 that expenditures relating to political strategy consulting and fundraising consulting could fall 4 within permissible testing-the-waters activity.<sup>86</sup>

5       In response to the Factual and Legal Analysis, OAR argues that the Commission's 6 findings represent a departure from prior testing-the-waters matters, and asserts that Commission 7 precedent establishes that "an organization does not make testing the waters expenditures when it 8 hosts or pays the travel and other costs of events at which an individual who is thinking about 9 running for future federal office – or even testing the waters of a campaign – discusses issues and 10 policy and supports other candidates."<sup>87</sup> In support of its position, OAR cites an advisory 11 opinion in which a multicandidate committee proposed to fund a potential presidential 12 candidate's midterm election appearances on behalf of other candidates, a political party, and 13 policies, during which the potential candidate would refer to such candidacy only "in an 14 incidental manner or in response to questions by the public or press."<sup>88</sup> OAR focuses on the 15 "incidental" language in the advisory opinion, and appears to overlook the Commission's caution 16 that "incidental" references to a potential candidacy "should be narrowly interpreted."<sup>89</sup>

1 Moreover, the Commission cautioned that the exclusion of the outside group's payments for the 2 potential candidate's appearances at events from allocation as testing-the-waters expenses is 3 premised on such appearances being made "on behalf of local, state, or Federal congressional or 4 senatorial candidates or party-building events as described by 11 C.F.R. 110.8(e) rather than 5 appearances primarily related to the presidential nomination process."<sup>90</sup>

6 Additionally, although OAR relies on several other factually distinguishable matters to 7 argue that the Commission lacked a legal basis to reach its reason to believe findings, these 8 matters do not preclude a conclusion that OAR was funding Walker's testing-the-waters 9 activities. For instance, OAR relies on the Commission's findings in MUR 5260 (Talent), in 10 which the Commission found no reason to believe a state PAC made contributions to Talent on a 11 record that did not "link [the state PAC] to any federal campaign activity."<sup>91</sup> Here, the 12 Commission found that Walker made statements while traveling on OAR's behalf that suggested 13 that he was considering a candidacy, thus providing the necessary "nexus" between OAR and 14 Walker's campaign activity.<sup>92</sup> OAR similarly relies on the Statement of Reasons in MUR 6928 15 (Santorum) to argue that no "nexus" exists between OAR and Walker's 2015 activity, that 16 Walker's CPAC attendance has little significance with regard to any finding that Walker was 17 engaging in testing-the-waters activity, and that "mere association with an organization prior to 1 becoming a candidate does not give rise to a violation of the Act.”<sup>93</sup> As the evidence establishes,

 2 Walker’s association with OAR did not simply provide with him with a platform for his public
 3 image; it provided him with the framework and funding to test out a potential campaign. OAR’s 4 argument that MUR 6907 (Huckabee), in which the complaint failed to allege any testing-the-5 waters activity performed or funded by the non-profit, precludes OGC from recommending that 6 OAR was funding Walker’s testing-the-waters-activities, is meritless simply because the 7 evidence in this case is far stronger.<sup>94</sup> Finally, OAR’s reliance on the Statement of Reasons in 8 MURs 6470, 6482, & 6484, overlooks the Commissioners’ statements that limit its conclusions 9 to the information available in that matter’s record as well as their conclusion that the amount of 10 money at issue (approximately $30,000) counseled against opening a full investigation.<sup>95</sup> The 11 lack of a nexus between other politicians’ testing-the-waters activities and other organizations’ 12 expenditures as discussed in these prior matters does not change the relationship between 13 Walker’s activities and OAR’s support of those activities.

14 OAR was staffed with individuals, vendors, and consultants who performed campaign-15 related services to support Walker’s discussions and meetings with potential donors and 16 supporters about a possible presidential candidacy, exactly the type of activity that the 17 Commission has determined constitutes testing-the-waters activity. OAR’s own internal briefing

1 documents indicate that Walker was traveling the country to attend private meetings during 2 which he assessed the feasibility of a possible candidacy.<sup>96</sup> The notes also show that the political 3 and fundraising consultants paid for by OAR were assisting him in those endeavors.<sup>97</sup> At these 4 meetings, Walker separated his solicitations for OAR from requests for support for a potential 5 presidential candidacy.<sup>98</sup> Finally, based on the well-developed record that OAR has not 6 provided information to rebut, it does not appear that OAR arranged meetings for Walker to 7 advocate for other conservative candidates, and any incidental references to other candidates 8 appear to have been in the context of drawing comparisons between those individuals and a 9 prospective Walker candidacy.<sup>99</sup>

10 The Commission has previously advised that the employment of “political consultants for 11 the purpose of assisting with advice on the potential and mechanics of constructing a national 12 campaign organization” constitutes testing-the-waters activity,<sup>100</sup> as is the “[e]mployment of a

1 national campaign.”<sup>101</sup> Those are exactly the kinds of services OAR retained to assist Walker.
 2 Between February and June 2015, OAR paid Doner Fundraising $809,375 for “fundraising 3 consulting,” which the investigation revealed to involve assessing the degree of support available 4 for a Walker candidacy.<sup>102</sup> OAR also paid LG Strategies $37,500 for political consulting, 5 $40,161 to Madison Strategies for political consulting, $32,022 to Ground Game Strategies for 6 political consulting, $187,542 to the Tarrance Group for political consulting, and $74,510 to Just 7 Win Strategies for political consulting.<sup>103</sup> Many of OAR’s staffers were known for their 8 previous work on candidate campaigns.<sup>104</sup>

9 OAR argues that Walker’s pre-2015 activity, traveling the country for and speaking 10 publicly in connection with his status as a Republican governor, “defeats any nexus between 11 OAR’s legitimate, issue-based activities” featuring Walker and Walker’s subsequent 12 candidacy.<sup>105</sup> Even assuming that activity is just as OAR contends, there is a qualitative 13 difference between Walker’s pre-2015 appearances and both the later OAR activities featuring 14 Walker and Walker’s subsequent candidacy. The existence of pre-2015 activity by Walker that 15 was not testing-the-waters activity does not insulate the 2015 testing-the-waters activity that

1 followed. Among other things, OAR's argument does not take into account that it arranged for 2 and funded Walker's 2015 trips, a role it did not play in Walker's pre-2015 activity. Nor does it
3 explain Walker's sudden acquisition, in 2015, of multiple staffers and political consultants with 4 campaign experience, in contrast to Walker's staffing for his pre-2015 public speaking schedule.
5 OAR's argument also ignores its own candidate-focused activities in connection with Walker's 6 2015 events and appearances, including its consultants' creation and distribution of internal 7 briefing documents that focused on Walker's ability to seek endorsements for his candidacy.
8 These differences confirm that the consultants were hired for something other than Walker's 9 ability to discuss issues in public speaking engagements.<sup>106</sup>

10 Walker did not establish an official testing-the-waters entity until June 2015. Yet, the 11 evidence shows that from January until June 2015, Walker was testing the waters, and during 12 that time, OAR paid his future campaign staff, his consultants, and the vendors who provided 13 campaign-related services. The numerous departures of employees and consultants following the 14 announcement of Walker's candidacy,<sup>107</sup> along with the steep declines in OAR's overall 15 expenditures and payroll payments,<sup>108</sup> similarly indicate that OAR existed to support the 16 mechanics of constructing a national campaign organization for Walker. Thus, there is probable 17 cause to believe that OAR functioned as a testing-the-waters entity, and Walker's testing-the-

It also indicates that to the extent Walker established, financed, maintained, or controlled OAR while he was a federal candidate, there may violations of the Act's soft money provisions. See 52 U.S.C. § 30125(e); 11 C.F.R. § 300.2(c)(2); Factual & Legal Analysis at 4-8, MUR 5367 (Issa). 1 limitations and prohibitions to pay for individuals' testing-the-waters activities would violate 2 Commission regulations if those individuals decide to become candidates.”<sup>114</sup> Thus, OAR was 3 prohibited from using corporate donations towards Walker's exploratory efforts and was 4 prohibited from accepting excessive donations in support of Walker's potential candidacy. OAR 5 was further prohibited from making excessive contributions to Walker's Committee.

6 The record confirms that OAR paid for testing-the-waters expenses for Walker in excess 7 of the contribution limit, and that the funds OAR used to pay for Walker's testing-the-waters 8 expenses were from sources and in amounts prohibited under the Act. By providing Walker and 9 his ultimate Committee with the testing-the-waters expenditures described above, which 10 included some portion of the $787,354 OAR spent on “fundraising consulting,” $308,093 on 11 “political consulting,” and $547,081 on airfare, OAR made excessive in-kind contributions to the 12 Committee. Further, in making these excessive in-kind contributions, OAR utilized 13 contributions that it raised which were themselves prohibited under the Act. OAR's 2015 mid-14 year IRS filing disclosed numerous contributions from individuals which exceeded $2,700, as 15 well as contributions that appear to be prohibited corporate contributions.<sup>115</sup> As a result, there is 16 probable cause to believe that OAR made excessive and prohibited contributions to Walker's 17 campaign by paying for testing-the-waters expenses.
