RE: FEC COMPLAINT ABOUT FEC RULES BEING VIOLATED

March 11, 2019

To Whom It May Concern:

Rashica Tlaib

According to property records, they were falsified because her address, when she ran for her district, she ran for a district she did not live in. Rashica was in violation there of FEC Rules and Regulations.

Her own father actually told the Detroit press the same thing. The house she used to register to run, was his house and she did not live in that district. He claimed she lied, he said he taught his daughter better that that, I do not know why she did this. He noted she lied to run for congress.

This was in 2010. Rashica violated election laws when in 2008 she actually signed an affidavit with the Wayne County clerk's office, claiming that she was a residence of Detroit, when in fact she was not.

In 2018, right before she decided to run for John Connor's seat she changed her address. This needs to be investigated.

Washington Free Beacon, reported Rashica paid herself illegally, campaign funds which is in violation of the FEC laws. She paid herself $45,000 dollars and made an additional $17,000 payment to herself after she had already won the election.

According to FEC filings she first started paying herself on May 7, 2018 from the Rashica Tlaib's for Congress fund. After she won her election, she continued to pay herself, which is against the FEC rules.

Tlaib paid herself a $2,000 check on November 16th, which was 10 days after the election and then $15,500 on December 1st. FEC guidelines say, "If a candidate wins the election, a candidate can only pay themselves up to two weeks after the election." So the December 1st payment is clearly in violation as the election happened on November 6th. The $2,000 payment may be well within the window. The December 1st payment is clearly against the FEC rules. This needs to be investigated.

Tlaib received $68,000 dollars of income from a "Leadership in Government Fellowship" in 2017. She refuse to disclose who the organization was that was paying her that kind of money and she left the name off her disclosure forms. This is a violation of the House of Representatives Committee on ethics. The Fellowship was awarded by George Soros and his Open Society Institute .

The Washington Free Beacon was provided copies of Tax Return for all entities that are run by George Soros and his Open Society Institute. On page 97 of the 321 page tax form, it shows payment to a Rashida Tlaib for a "Leadership in Government Fellowship" in total from 2016 until now Rashida has received $225,000 dollars according to the Open Society Institutes/ tax records/
