I. INTRODUCTION

36 The Complaint alleges that Representative Ilhan Omar’s principal campaign committee, 37 Ilhan for Congress and Kate Wittenstein in her official capacity as treasurer (the “Committee”), 38 knowingly and willfully violated the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended (the 39 “Act”), by failing to properly report disbursements the Committee reported making to a political

1 consulting firm, E Street Group, LLC (“E Street Group”).¹ It alleges that the Committee did not 2 properly report payee information for certain disbursements and reported an improper purpose 3 for one disbursement.² The Complaint also alleges that Omar and the Committee may have 4 converted campaign funds to personal use by paying for travel for an E Street Group partner, 5 Tim Mynett, to facilitate an alleged affair between him and Omar.³ Mynett and Omar married in 6 March 2020.⁴

7 Omar, the Committee, Mynett, and E Street Group (collectively “Respondents”) deny 8 that they violated the Act or Commission regulations.⁵ They state, however, that in the course of 9 responding to the Complaint, they identified inconsistencies between disbursement purposes the 10 Committee reported to the Commission and the purposes of the underlying expenses, all of 11 which were payments to E Street Group. Respondents offer to amend the Committee’s reports.⁶

⁵ Resp. at 1-2 (Oct. 16, 2019); Supp. Resp. at 1-2 (Dec. 12, 2019). Respondents filed their initial Response to the Complaint on October 16, 2019. Complainant then filed an Amended Complaint, and Respondents initially indicated they would not supplement their Response. Am. Resp. at 1 (Oct. 24, 2019). However, Respondents requested to file an attachment to their original Response under seal. The Office of General Counsel explained that it could not guarantee that information submitted in connection with the Response would remain confidential at the conclusion of this matter in light of, among other things, the Commission’s approved disclosure policy, pursuant to which certain materials, including “attachments to responses to complaints,” are placed on the public record after the matter is closed. 1 For the reasons set forth below, we recommend that the Commission find no reason to 2 believe that the Committee knowingly and willfully violated 52 U.S.C. § 30104(b)(5)(A), (6)(A)
3 and 11 C.F.R. § 104.3(b)(4)(i), (vi) by improperly reporting payee information. We recommend 4 that the Commission dismiss the allegation that the Committee knowingly and willfully violated
5 52 U.S.C. § 30104(b)(5)(A), (6)(A) and 11 C.F.R. § 104.3(b)(4)(i), (vi) by reporting improper
6 disbursement purposes but direct the Committee to work with the Reports Analysis Division 7 (“RAD”) to amend its purpose reporting, as described below. Finally, we recommend that the 8 Commission dismiss the allegation that Respondents violated 52 U.S.C. § 30114(b) and 11
9 C.F.R. § 113.1(g) by converting campaign funds to personal use.

10 II. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

11 Omar was elected in 2018 to be the U.S. Representative for Minnesota’s Fifth District.
12 During her campaign, the Committee contracted with E Street Group, a consulting firm led by 13 Mynett and another partner, Will Hailer.⁷ E Street Group’s role initially was to provide strategic 14 guidance, manage campaign consultants, and secure new national funding sources.⁸ In August 15 2018, E Street Group took on additional responsibilities that apparently continue today.⁹ As 16 relevant to the instant matter, these additional responsibilities include managing “all aspects of 17 the candidate’s national travel and outreach as it pertains to fundraising.”¹⁰

1 The Committee reported disbursing $369,551.02 to E Street Group between August 9, 2 2018, and September 30, 2019, the period implicated by the Complaint.¹¹ The Committee also 3 reported a single July 11, 2018, payment made directly to Mynett.¹² The Committee's reported 4 disbursements to E Street Group included expense reimbursements as well as fees that were set 5 by contract at between $7,000-$12,000 per month for general fundraising and $5,000 per month 6 for digital fundraising.¹³

7 A. Itemization of Travel Reimbursements

8 The Complaint focuses on ten disbursements (totaling $24,718.22) that the Committee 9 reported making to E Street Group between April 1, 2019, and September 30, 2019.¹⁴ As 10 reflected in the below chart, the Committee reported the purpose of these transactions as either 11 “travel expenses” or, in one case, “travel and fundraising expenses.”¹⁵ For each disbursement, 12 the Committee reported E Street Group as the payee and did not provide further detail on how 13 the funds were spent. The reports did not include, for example, the names of the subvendors 14 (airlines, hotels, etc.) to which the funds were ultimately paid.¹⁶

09/30/2019	E Street Group LLC	Travel Expenses	$348.27

1 The Complaint argues that this reporting was deficient in two ways. First, it asserts that 2 the Committee was required to report the payee as Tim Mynett, not as E Street Group, for any 3 travel reimbursement it made to him that exceeded $500.¹⁷ Second, it argues that for any such 4 reimbursement, the Committee also had to provide memo entries with additional information 5 identifying vendors who received an aggregate of more than $200 of the reimbursed funds.¹⁸
 6 Respondents do not deny that Mynett traveled for the Committee, but they argue that the payee
 7 reporting was proper and that the Complaint erroneously relies on regulations that do not apply
 8 to commercial vendors like E Street Group.¹⁹

9 B. Purposes of Disbursements

10 The Amended Complaint alleges one additional reporting violation: that the Committee 11 reported an improper purpose of “travel and fundraising expenses” for the $2,823.01 12 disbursement it made to E Street Group in August 2019.²⁰ The Amended Complaint argues that

1 a disbursement may be for travel or fundraising expenses, but not for both.²¹ The current record 2 contains no further information on how the funds were spent.

3 Respondents do not address this specific transaction, but they acknowledge that, while 4 preparing materials for a response in this matter, they “discovered that certain items in the 5 underlying transactions did not match the description reported on the overall payment to E Street 6 Group.”²² Respondents provided a detailed breakdown of the transactions covered by each 7 disbursement the Committee reported making to E Street Group between August 21, 2018, and 8 June 11, 2019.²³ The document identifies the reported purpose of each disbursement and 9 provides separate “Memo/Description” and subvendor information for each underlying 10 expense.²⁴ Respondents did not indicate which of the underlying transactions they identified as 11 not matching the reported descriptions, but there are five transactions for which Respondents’ 12 “Memo/Description” column entry may be inconsistent with the purpose of the disbursement that 13 the Committee reported.²⁵ The Committee offered to amend its reports, if requested.²⁶

14 C. Personal Use

15 The Complaint’s final allegation is that Respondents converted campaign funds to 16 personal use.²⁷ In August 2019, Mr. Mynett’s then-wife, Beth Mynett, filed for divorce and

1 custody, alleging that her husband ended their marriage because he was romantically involved
 2 with Omar.²⁸ Ms. Mynett alleged that Mr. Mynett disclosed the relationship to her on or about 3 April 7, 2019.²⁹ The Complaint states that the Committee began reimbursing Mynett's travel
 4 that same month, even though he had worked for the Committee since mid-2018.³⁰ Ms. Mynett 5 claimed her husband traveled an average of twelve days per month, and that, in hindsight, it 6 appeared to her that his trips were "more related to his affair" than to "actual work 7 commitments."³¹

8 Based on the timing of the travel reimbursements, the alleged admission of an affair, and 9 Ms. Mynett's assessment of the purposes of Mr. Mynett's trips, the Complaint concludes that his 10 travel "may have been unrelated, or only partially related, to Omar's campaign."³² The 11 Complaint asserts that if Mynett accompanied Omar so she would "have the benefit of Mynett's 12 romantic companionship," such reimbursement of his travel expenses was personal use.³³ The 13 Complaint does not, however, identify which particular travel may have been improperly 14 reimbursed by the Committee.³⁴

³⁴ Although Respondents have submitted detailed transaction information for some of the travel expenses the Committee reimbursed, at this time we do not have information showing who participated in the travel or whether it was undertaken to attend fundraising or other campaign events. Some reporting claims that Mynett has traveled with Omar to New York City, Austin, Seattle, and Los Angeles, but such reporting does not indicate whether the trips were taken for business purposes. See, e.g., Ben Ashford, Exclusive: 'She's Not Fooling Anyone,' THE DAILY MAIL, Oct. 21, 2019, <https://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-7588845/Ilhan-Omar-lives-brazen-double-life-married-campaign-aide.html>. 1 Mynett, who married Omar in March 2020,³⁵ has denied “any allegation which 2 characterizes his work-related travel as being related to the furtherance of a relationship with 3 Rep. Omar.”³⁶ In the divorce and custody proceeding, Mynett asserted that his travel increased 4 in the summer and fall of 2018 due to multiple work commitments, including assisting three 5 candidates for the U.S. House of Representatives.³⁷ He stated that Ms. Mynett had engaged in a 6 “negative campaign” against him in an attempt to secure a more favorable settlement.³⁸

7 Respondents contend that all E Street Group travel reimbursed by the Committee “was 8 directly related to services provided to the campaign.”³⁹ They state that E Street Group, 9 including Mynett, travels to solicit contributions for Omar’s campaign, and that the campaign 10 reimburses the expenses pursuant to the parties’ contracts.⁴⁰ To support their position, 11 Respondents point to the fundraising agreements between the Committee and E Street Group, 12 which they have submitted as exhibits.⁴¹ The initial agreement provided that E Street Group

Respondents’ transaction data suggests that this dinner was reimbursed via payment to E Street Group, but it does not confirm that Mynett attended the dinner or provide more specific information concerning the campaign or fundraising activity during that trip. 1 would “[s]ecure new national funding sources” for the Committee and anticipated that the 2 Committee would reimburse travel expenses incurred by E Street Group.⁴² The follow-on 3 agreement, which apparently remains in effect, states that E Street Group will “[m]anage all 4 aspects of the candidate’s national travel and outreach as it pertains to fundraising” and 5 “personally staff each trip.”⁴³ It provides that, when possible, the Committee will pay for 6 E Street Group’s “expenses to execute this agreement, including plane tickets, car rentals, hotels 7 or other major expenses involved in national travel.”⁴⁴

8 Respondents also submit the declaration of Will Hailer — an E Street Group partner who, 9 with Mr. Mynett, signed the contracts with the Committee — who states under penalty of perjury 10 that the services E Street Group provided to the Committee “were and are unrelated to any 11 personal purposes of the Congresswoman.”⁴⁵ He avers that E Street Group has sought 12 reimbursement for “travel expenses incurred while providing services to the campaign” and that 13 such reimbursements “were not made for expenses incurred for non-campaign purposes.”⁴⁶

1 III. LEGAL ANALYSIS2 A. The Commission Should Find No Reason to Believe that the Committee
3 Failed to Properly Report Payee Information for E Street Group's Travel
4 Expenses

5 The Complaint claims the Committee violated its reporting obligations by failing to 6 report Mynett as the payee for travel reimbursements exceeding $500.⁴⁷ The Complaint also 7 argues that the Committee should have provided memo entries listing the name and address of 8 any vendor to whom Mynett paid more than $200, along with the date, amount, and purpose of 9 such payment.⁴⁸ Although there are some circumstances in which this level of detailed reporting 10 is required, it was not necessary here.

11 The Act and Commission regulations require authorized committees to report the name 12 and address of each person to whom they make expenditures or other disbursements that 13 aggregate more than $200 per election cycle, as well as the date, amount, and purpose of each 14 disbursement.⁴⁹ Although neither the Act nor Commission regulations expressly address 15 reporting of ultimate payees such as subvendors, subcontractors, or vendor employees, the 16 Complaint appears to reference an Interpretive Rule in which the Commission describes a 17 committee's obligation to report "ultimate payees" in three specific circumstances:
18 (1) reimbursements to individuals who advance personal funds to pay committee expenses; 19 (2) payments to credit card companies; and (3) payments by candidates who use personal funds
20 to pay committee expenses without reimbursement.⁵⁰

⁵⁰ Reporting Ultimate Payees of Political Committee Disbursements, 78 Fed. Reg. 40,625, 40,626 (July 8, 2013) ("Ultimate Payee Interpretive Rule"); see also Compl. at 2.

1 Of the scenarios set out in the Interpretive Rule, only the first — reimbursements to 2 individuals who advance personal funds — is potentially applicable here. This appears to be the 3 portion of the rule relied on by the Complaint.⁵¹ The Commission explained that it was 4 interpreting the reporting requirements at 11 C.F.R. § 116.5, which addresses advances by 5 committee staff and other individuals, to necessitate reporting the ultimate payee in some 6 instances in which the committee reports a reimbursement payment to “an individual who is not 7 acting as a vendor.”⁵² The Commission specified that if a committee reimburses such an 8 individual for advancing personal funds greater than $500 for travel or subsistence expenses, the 9 committee must provide a memo entry for each subvendor who received more than $200 from 10 the individual or the committee in the relevant election cycle.⁵³

11 That requirement does not apply here, however, for two reasons. First, there is no 12 information suggesting that Mynett was individually reimbursed by the Committee, which is a 13 prerequisite for this part of the Interpretive Rule to apply.⁵⁴ The Complaint asserts that the 14 Committee reported reimbursing E Street Group rather than Mynett and appears to infer from 15 this that the Committee incorrectly reported a payee.⁵⁵ That reasoning erroneously assumes what 16 it purports to show, however, namely that Mynett was the actual recipient of the funds.

⁵¹ See Compl. at 2; Am. Compl. at 1.

⁵² Ultimate Payee Interpretive Rule, 78 Fed. Reg. at 40,626.

⁵³ Id. (explaining that the memo entry must include “the name and address of the vendor, as well as the date, amount, and purpose of the payment”).

⁵⁴ Id. The one payment the Complaint identifies as directly made to Mynett was for the reported purpose of “fundraising consulting” rather than expense reimbursement. Compl., Ex. B (showing reported $7,000 payment in July 2018); see also Compl. at 2 (alleging that “reimbursements for Mynett’s travel did not commence until April 2019”). The Complaint does not allege, and the available information does not provide a basis for concluding, that this $7,000 payment was for expense reimbursement rather than the reported consulting purpose.

First General Counsel's Report

1 Second, even if the Committee's reported reimbursement payments to E Street Group are 2 construed as reimbursements to Mynett, the Interpretive Rule still would not apply because its 3 scope is limited to individuals "not acting as a vendor."⁵⁶ Here, the Complaint identifies Mynett 4 as a partner at E Street Group,⁵⁷ and the available information supports the conclusion that the 5 expenses the Committee reported paying to E Street Group were for services, including travel, 6 offered by E Street Group as a commercial vendor under a contract with the Committee.⁵⁸
 7 Specifically, E Street Group contracted to "[m]anage all aspects of the candidate's national travel 8 and outreach as it pertains to fundraising" and to "personally staff each trip," and the Committee 9 agreed to either directly pay E Street Group's travel expenses or to reimburse them.⁵⁹ Although 10 no available information suggests that Mynett was advancing his personal funds on E Street
 11 Group's or the Committee's behalf, or that E Street Group used any portion of payments it 12 received from the Committee to reimburse Mynett for such an advance of his personal funds, 13 such an advance would appear to be within E Street Group's performance of its contract as the 14 Committee's vendor.⁶⁰

15 In addition to providing guidance on the reporting of ultimate payees in the Interpretive 16 Rule, the Commission has concluded that "merely reporting the immediate recipient of a ⁵⁶ Ultimate Payee Interpretive Rule, 78 Fed. Reg. at 40,626. In fact, the Commission has made clear that the entirety of the Interpretive Rule does not cover "situations in which a vendor, acting as the committee's agent, purchases goods and services on the committee's behalf from subvendors." Id.; compare 11 C.F.R. § 116.3 (governing extensions of credit by commercial vendors), with 11 C.F.R. § 116.5 (governing advances by individuals "who are not acting as commercial vendors").

⁵⁸ See 11 C.F.R. § 116.1(c) (defining "commercial vendor" as "any persons providing goods or services to a candidate or political committee whose usual and normal business involves the sale, rental, lease, or provision of those goods or services").

1 committee's payment will not satisfy the requirements of section 30104(b)(5) when the facts
 2 indicate that the immediate recipient is merely a conduit for the intended recipient of funds.”⁶¹
 3 Here, however, the Complaint does not allege that the Committee routed payments through E 4 Street Group to hide the true provider of services to the Committee or the true recipient of funds, 5 whether Mynett or any travel subvendors he used, and the available information does not support 6 that conclusion. Instead, E Street Group appears to be a legitimate vendor that contracted with 7 the Committee to provide fundraising and consulting services, including travel, and also engaged 8 in fundraising consulting work for other committees.⁶² As such, the Committee correctly 9 reported E Street Group as the payee and was not required to report travel reimbursements to 10 specific E Street Group employees or partners, like Mynett. In fact, the Commission has 11 previously approved a committee reporting a consulting firm as payee even when the firm's 12 principals had previously provided services to the Committee in their individual capacity.⁶³

1 Accordingly, we recommend that the Commission find no reason to believe that the 2 Committee knowingly and willfully violated 52 U.S.C. § 30104(b)(5)(A), (6)(A) and 11 C.F.R.
3 § 104.3(b)(4)(i), (vi) when it reported the payee information.

4 B. The Committee May Have Reported Some Improper Purposes, but the 5 Commission Should Dismiss the Complaint's Reporting Allegation and 6 Require the Committee to Amend Its Reports as Needed

7 The Complaint alleges one other reporting violation, which is limited to a single 8 disbursement to E Street Group for “travel and fundraising expenses.”⁶⁴ The Complaint 9 contends this reported purpose was improper because the disbursement could be for either travel 10 or fundraising, but not both.⁶⁵ Respondents do not address that specific reported purpose, and, as 11 discussed below, it does not appear to be improper. But because the information Respondents 12 provided indicates that some of the transactions included in the reported disbursements to E 13 Street Group may not match the purposes the Committee reported, the Commission should 14 require the Committee to amend its reports, as necessary.

15 As noted above, the Act and Commission regulations require authorized committees to 16 report the purpose of each reported disbursement.⁶⁶ Commission regulations define “purpose” as 17 a “brief statement or description of why the disbursement was made.”⁶⁷ The Commission has 18 determined that the description of purpose should be sufficient to allow “a person not associated 19 with the committee [to] easily discern why the disbursement was made when reading the name

1 of the recipient and the purpose.”⁶⁸ Examples of sufficient statements of purpose include: 2 dinner expenses, media, salary, travel expenses, and catering costs.⁶⁹ The Commission has also 3 provided guidance that descriptions of purpose such as “Fundraising Consulting” and 4 “Fundraising Expense” are sufficient for a disbursement to a consultant or vendor;⁷⁰ the 5 sufficiency of the description is read in context with the name of the payee.⁷¹

6 The purpose highlighted by the Complaint, “fundraising and travel expenses,” is not 7 facially improper. Contrary to the Complaint’s assertion, neither the Act nor Commission 8 regulations bar committees from reporting multiple purposes for a single disbursement.⁷² Here, 9 the Committee combined two purposes that appear acceptable — fundraising expenses and travel 10 expenses — and there is no information in the record indicating the descriptions are inaccurate.

11 However, five payments the Committee reported making to E Street Group include 12 transactions that, based on the “Memo/Description” in the supplemental document Respondents 13 provided, may differ from the reported purposes of the payments:

14 (1) a $500 payment for “Design – American Jewish World” that was included in an 15 April 1, 2019, disbursement under the purpose “travel expenses”;

⁷² Am. Compl. at 2-3. See F&LA at 2-5, MUR 6639 (Gary Johnson 2012, Inc.) (dismissing allegation of reporting violation when the Committee reported multiple purposes for disbursements). The Office of General Counsel consulted with RAD regarding this purpose, and RAD confirmed that multi-part purpose descriptions are acceptable.

- (2) a $5,000 payment for “Digital consulting for the month of April” that was included in an April 3, 2019, disbursement under the purpose “travel expenses”;
- (3) a $15.40 payment for “Fundraising Travel Expenses” that was included in an April 22, 2019, disbursement under the purpose “internet advertising”;
- (4) a $12 payment for “Domain Purchase” that was included in a May 16, 2019, disbursement under the purpose “travel expenses”; and
- (5) a $150 payment for “MRLF Anniversary Ad Creation” that was included in a May 22, 2019, disbursement under the purpose “travel expenses.”⁷³

More information is needed to determine whether these descriptions are, in fact,

10 inaccurate. For example, the $150 reimbursement in the last item could properly be reported as a 11 disbursement for “travel expenses” if the funds were used for travel done in connection with 12 creating the MRLF Anniversary ad. If, however, the funds were used to pay for materials used 13 to create the ad, the reported purpose of “travel expenses” would not be sufficient to allow a 14 person not affiliated with the Committee to easily discern why the disbursement was made.⁷⁴

Despite the limited information available about these disbursements, pursuing this 16 potential violation of $5,677.40 in these circumstances does not justify the use of the 17 Commission resources that would be needed, particularly because a violation in this amount

¹⁸ would typically be handled through the Enforcement Priority System dismissal process.⁷⁵

In contrast, in MUR 6638, the Commission dismissed an allegation that the respondent reported an incorrect purpose for two disbursements totaling $21,667. 4 C. The Allegation of Personal Use Is Speculative and Should Be Dismissed

5 Finally, the Complaint alleges that Respondents may have converted campaign funds to 6 personal use by reimbursing E Street Group for Mynett's travel.⁷⁷ The Complaint does not 7 identify any particular travel that it has reason to believe was improper and instead relies on Ms.
 8 Mynett's belief that Mr. Mynett's alleged relationship with Omar was the reason for his travel in 9 support of its personal use allegations.⁷⁸ Neither the Complainant nor the Respondents have 10 commented on how Omar's recent marriage to Mynett may affect these allegations, as the 11 marriage took place after their filings were received by the Commission.⁷⁹ The Respondents 12 argued that the Complaint made "salacious claims" about Omar's personal life but did not 13 directly address the issue of Omar and Mynett's romantic relationship.⁸⁰

14 The Act and Commission regulations prohibit the conversion of campaign funds by any 15 person to personal use, defined as "any use of funds in a campaign account of a present or former 16 candidate to fulfill a commitment, obligation or expense of any person that would exist 17 irrespective of the candidate's campaign or duties as a Federal officeholder."⁸¹ The Act and

1 Commission regulations list certain uses of campaign funds that constitute per se conversion to 2 personal use.⁸² For other payments, the “Commission will determine, on a case-by-case basis, 3 whether other uses” of campaign funds constitute personal use by applying the “irrespective 4 test,” that is, whether the payment fulfills a commitment, obligation, or expense that would exist
 5 irrespective of the candidate’s campaign or duties as a federal officeholder.⁸³ Commission
 6 regulations specify that travel expenses are evaluated on a case-by-case basis.⁸⁴ Such expenses 7 are not personal use “[i]f the candidate can reasonably show that the expenses at issue resulted 8 from campaign or officeholder activities.”⁸⁵ If a committee uses campaign funds to pay for 9 travel with a mixed purpose, that is, travel that involves both personal and campaign activities, 10 “the incremental expenses that result from the personal activities are personal use” unless the 11 person(s) benefiting from the personal use reimburse(s) the committee within 30 days.⁸⁶

12 Here, Respondents present a contract obligating E Street Group to “[m]anage all aspects 13 of the candidate’s national travel and outreach as it pertains to fundraising” and to “personally 14 staff each trip.”⁸⁷ They also provide Hailer’s declaration, which asserts that E Street Group 15 sought reimbursement for travel “incurred for campaign purposes, while providing services to 16 the campaign.”⁸⁸ Finally, the Response states that “all travel reimbursed was directly related to

1 services provided to the campaign.”⁸⁹ In contrast, the Complaint relies on Ms. Mynett’s 2 speculation about the reasons for Mr. Mynett’s travel, and asserts that E Street Group began 3 receiving travel reimbursements around the time Mr. Mynett allegedly disclosed an affair to his 4 wife.⁹⁰ The detailed expense information submitted by Respondents shows, however, that 5 E Street Group began receiving travel reimbursements from the Committee well before that 6 date.⁹¹

7 Given the lack of specific information suggesting that Mynett was reimbursed for 8 personal travel, and E Street Group’s contracts, which clearly anticipated that its employees 9 would travel to assist the Committee, the available information does not provide reason to 10 believe that the claimed personal use occurred.⁹² Omar and Mynett’s marriage, although 11 indicative of an earlier personal relationship, does not change this conclusion. The Act does not 12 bar payment or reimbursement of campaign-related expenses to family members, and 13 Commission regulations provide that family members may be paid a salary by a campaign so 14 long as they provide bona fide services and are not compensated above fair market value.⁹³ The ⁹² In MUR 6510 (Kirk for Senate, et al.), the Commission found no reason to believe a personal use violation had occurred when a committee hired a vendor who then subcontracted with the company of the candidate’s alleged girlfriend, Dorothy McCracken. F&LA at 1-2, 9, MUR 6510 (Kirk for Senate, et al.). The complaint alleged McCracken did not provide bona fide services at fair market value, but respondents submitted sworn and notarized responses attesting to her credentials and work for the committee. Id. at 9. The Commission noted that the complaint’s assertions were based “primarily on the [c]omplainant’s assessment of McCracken’s credentials and her relationships” with the candidate and primary vendor; the Commission found that, “[w]ithout more, these assertions do not provide reason to believe.” Id. See also F&LA at 6-7, MUR 7494 (John Culberson, et al.) (dismissing allegations of personal use when complainant failed to link questioned expenditures to actual personal use).

1 Commission has not found a violation of the personal use prohibition for payments to family 2 members for bona fide campaign travel or services absent information that the payments were for 3 amounts in excess of the fair market value of the services provided to the campaign.⁹⁴ The 4 available information does not indicate that E Street Group was paid in excess of the fair market 5 value for the services it provided to the Committee.⁹⁵ Accordingly, we recommend the 6 Commission dismiss the allegation that Respondents violated 52 U.S.C. § 30114(b) and 11
 7 C.F.R. § 113.1(g) by converting campaign funds to personal use.

8 IV. RECOMMENDATIONS

9 1. Find no reason to believe that Ilhan for Congress and Kate Wittenstein in her 10 official capacity as treasurer knowingly and willfully violated 52 U.S.C.
 11 § 30104(b)(5)(A), (6)(A) and 11 C.F.R. § 104.3(b)(4)(i), (vi) by improperly 12 reporting payee information;

⁹⁴ See, e.g., F&LA at 3-4, MUR 7100 (Donald J. Trump for President, et al.) (finding no reason to believe on allegations that travel reimbursements made to Donald Trump Jr. and Eric Trump during President Trump's 2016 campaign were personal use); F&LA at 5-6, MUR 6864 (Nicholas Ruiz III for Congress, et al.) (finding no reason to believe when available information indicated the candidate's spouse received a salary from the committee that did not exceed fair market value); cf. Advisory Op. 1996-34 (Thornberry) at 2-3 (allowing a committee to pay for the travel expenses, including lodging and meals, of a candidate's wife and children when they would play a "significant role in the political receptions and fundraising events that are part of the trip").

⁹⁵ According to Hailer, E Street Group currently has around eighteen employees and on any given day eight or more of them could do some work on Omar's account. He stated that this is "[s]imilar to what we provide for countless other clients across the country." Michelle Ye Hee Lee, Omar's Marriage to Political Consultant Draws Renewed Scrutiny of Campaign Spending, THE WASHINGTON POST, Mar. 13, 2020, https://www.washingtonpost.com/politics/omars-marriage-to-political-consultant-draws-renewed-criticism-of-campaign-spending/2020/03/13/a4311ea4-6543-11ea-acca-80c22bbee96f_story.html. Although the Complaint did not allege that non-travel disbursements to E Street Group were converted to personal use, we note that the Committee's payments to E Street Group for fundraising appear to be roughly in line with what the Mynett Group, for which Mynett was the Principal, was paid by Omar's predecessor, Keith Ellison. Ellison's principal campaign committee, Ellison for Congress, paid the Mynett Group approximately $9,000 per month for fundraising consulting between March 2014 and July 2018. Tim Mynett (2020) LinkedIn profile, <https://www.linkedin.com/in/tim-mynett-31b0275>; Ellison for Congress, Disbursements, https://www.fec.gov/data/disbursements/?data_type=processed&committee_id=C00422410&recipient_name=Mynett&two_year_transaction_period=2014&two_year_transaction_period=2016&two_year_transaction_period=2018&two_year_transaction_period=2020 (filtered by recipient and time period). The Committee hired E Street Group to conduct fundraising for $10,000 per month, although the fee was soon increased to $12,000 per month. Supra, note 13. Omar has argued on Twitter that the Committee's payments to E Street Group were justified because the Group specialized in work in Minnesota and because she had "roughly eight weeks to build a campaign and win a primary against more financially well-connected opponents" after Ellison announced he would not run for re-election to Congress.
