RE: MUR 7915

Dear Mr. Hanks:

On July 27, 2021, the Federal Election Commission notified you of a complaint alleging violations of certain sections of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended (the “Act”). On July 12, 2022, the Commission found that there is no reason to believe you violated the Act. Accordingly, on July 12, 2022, the Commission closed its file in this matter.

Documents related to the case will be placed on the public record within 30 days. See Disclosure of Certain Documents in Enforcement and Other Matters, 81 Fed. Reg. 50,702 (Aug. 2, 2016). The Factual and Legal Analysis, which explains the Commission’s findings, is enclosed for your information.

If you have any questions, please contact Camilla Jackson Jones, the attorney assigned to this matter, at (202) 694-1507 or cjaminonjones@fec.gov.

Sincerely,

Theodore Lutz

I. INTRODUCTION

The Complaint in this matter alleges that When We All Vote (“WWAV”), a formerly independent 501(c)(3) non-profit organization that was acquired after the 2020 election by Civic Nation, another 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, violated the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended (the “Act”), by failing to register and report as a political committee, in violation of 52 U.S.C. §§ 30102, 30103, and 30104. The Complaint alleges that “WWAV’s mission to close the age and race voting gap” by engaging in voter registration and get-out-the-vote activity “was merely a smoke screen for WWAV to achieve its goal of helping Democrat Joe Biden win the 2020 presidential election.” Respondents deny the allegations, arguing that WWAV “conducts itself in an entirely non-partisan, unbiased manner without regard to any candidate running for office,” and deny that WWAV has conducted any federal campaign activity.2

As explained below, the available information does not demonstrate that WWAV exceeded the $1,000 contribution or expenditure threshold under the statutory definition of “political committee.” Although the Complaint argues that individuals associated with WWAV, namely Andrew Amore, Selena Gomez, Tom Hanks, Erin Hannigan, Faith Hill, Valerie Jarrett, Liza Koshy, Kyle Lierman, Laura Miller, Lin-Manuel Miranda, Janelle Monáe, Michelle Obama, Chris Paul, Megan Rapinoe, Shonda Rhimes, Pete Rouse, Tracee Ellis Ross, Tina Tchen, Kerry Washington, Rita Wilson, and Stephanie Young, (collectively, “Individual Respondents”), may have made contributions to committees associated with the Democratic Party and its candidates or expressly advocated for the election or defeat of particular candidates during the 2020 election cycle, there is no information that they did so when acting on behalf of WWAV or that WWAV paid for any such communications.3

1 Compl. at 7 (July 21, 2021).

2 Resp. at 3 (Sept. 29, 2021). The Response was submitted on behalf of Civic Nation and When We All Vote, and individual respondents Andrew Amore, Erin Hannigan, Valerie Jarrett, Kyle Lierman, Laura Miller, Pete Rouse, Tina Tchen, and Stephanie Young, who are WWAV staff and directors. Id. at 1.

3 The Complaint identifies Valerie Jarrett as WWAV President; Kyle Lierman as CEO of Civic Nation and WWAV; Peter Rouse as Director of WWAV and a Civic Nation board member; Tina Tchen as WWAV’s treasurer and a Civic Nation board member; Erin Hannigan as Managing Director for WWAV from January 2019 to January 2021; Stephanie L. Young as Executive Director of WWAV and Senior Advisor to the Civic Nation; Laura Miller as WWAV’s Managing Director of Campaigns and Advocacy from March 2021 to present; Andrew Amore as WWAV’s Senior Director of My School Votes program. Compl. at 6-10. The remaining Individual Respondents (Selena Gomez, Tom Hanks, Faith Hill, Lin-Manuel Miranda, Janelle Monáe, Liza Koshy, Chris Paul, Megan Rapinoe, Shonda Rhimes, Tracee Ellis Ross, Kerry Washington, and Rita Wilson) are, according to the Response, “co-chair . . . volunteers of WWAV and do not serve in decision-making roles.” Resp. at 2.
Therefore, based on the available information, the Commission finds no reason to believe that When We All Vote and Civic Nation violated 52 U.S.C. §§ 30102, 30103, and 30104, by failing to register and report as a political committee. Further, because the Complaint alleges no cognizable violations of the Act by the Individual Respondents, the Commission finds no reason to believe that they violated the Act.

II. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Civic Nation is a 501(c)(3) non-profit corporation formed in 2015. According to the Response, Civic Nation “empowers and educates individuals, companies, institutions, and organizations to drive culture, systems and policy change, working towards a more inclusive and equitable America.”

WWAV was established in 2018 and recognized by the Internal Revenue Service as a public charity operating under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. On January 1, 2021, WWAV was acquired by Civic Nation and is currently one of Civic Nation’s “six initiatives.” Public records suggest that WWAV was previously incorporated but is no longer an incorporated entity. The relationship between the two organizations before Civic Nation acquired WWAV is unclear but their 2019 tax returns identify the same address and two overlapping officers or directors. The Complaint’s allegations generally focus on WWAV’s activities prior to its acquisition by Civic Nation.

According to the Response and its current website, WWAV’s mission is to “change the culture around voting and to increase participation in each and every election by helping to close the race and age gap.” To accomplish this mission, WWAV “engages in non-partisan voter registration activities aimed at registering new voters across the country, civic education efforts directed towards voters of every age to build an informed and engaged electorate, and advocacy for voting rights.”

The Complaint alleges that WWAV’s nonprofit status was a “false[] designation” and that during the 2020 election cycle WWAV engaged in “partisan political activities” to elect Joe Biden. The Complaint claims “WWAV did more to help Joe Biden win . . . than the Democratic National Committee,” pointing to WWAV’s statements that “512,000 people started or completed its voter registration process” and that WWAV “reached over 100 million eligible voters.” The Complaint further asserts that numerous WWAV activities “indicate [it] was more interested in electing a Democrat president than it was in closing the age and race voting gaps.” Accordingly, the Complaint asserts that WWAV was a political committee that should have registered and reported to the Commission.

The Complaint claims that WWAV’s purpose is evident by the fact that WWAV was founded by Michelle Obama, is supported and staffed by individuals who have worked for or are Democrats, and has high-profile volunteer “co-chairs” who supported Democratic candidates, including Joe Biden, in the 2020 presidential election. The Complaint includes a chart that purportedly lists “partisan” public statements, endorsements, or political contributions made by WWAV’s co-chairs during the 2020 election cycle. For example, the Complaint alleges that numerous co-chairs made speeches or appearances at the DNC convention or online events associated with the convention; made contributions to Biden or Democratic Party voter registration drives, food and meal distributions, concerts, prom contests, get-out-the-vote the cities of Atlanta, Detroit, Milwaukee, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Phoenix because these cities have the highest density of Democratic votes that helped Joe Biden win the swing states of Arizona, Georgia, Michigan, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin.” The Complaint includes a table titled “Inducements to Register or Vote” that identifies 35 events between February 27, 2020, and January 3, 2021. Nine of the events on the table occurred virtually. As to the in-person events, the table includes descriptions like “WWAV Hosts Food, Groceries, and Voter and “Entertainment” to “Remind Everyone to Get Registered to Vote.” The in-person events

The Complaint further alleges WWAV partnered with “mostly Democratic mayors . . . for the purpose of increasing the vote in heavily Democratic cities” as part of the “WWAV Civic Cities Mayor Initiative.” According to the Complaint, of the “WWAV Civic City Mayors” who signed on to the initiative, there were 51 Democrats, 2 Republicans, and 16 mayors of unknown party affiliation; only 29 of those mayors endorsed a presidential candidate. According to the Complaint, WWAV’s partnerships with mayors enabled WWAV to “track voter registration and voters,” “exchange voter registration and get out the vote strategies,” and hold a “Prom-athon contest” to register thousands of high school students to vote. According to the Complaint, “[m]ost of the Prom-athon winners were in Democratic strongholds in swing states.” Further, the Complaint alleges that WWAV’s numerous GOTV efforts, including concerts, raffles, picnics, food and grocery distribution, early voting celebrations, and ticket giveaways to events that were co-sponsored by local business, radio stations, churches and other organizations, amounted to “knowingly and willfully paying, offering to pay, or accepting payment either for registering to vote or voting.” In short, the Complaint alleges that WWAV’s efforts resulted in an increase in voting in cities where they were held, benefitting Biden’s candidacy.

33 Compl. at 33-34. 38 Id. at 45-46.
Respondents contend that Civic Nation and WWAV are not political committees subject to the Act’s registration and reporting requirements. Respondents state that Civic Nation and WWAV only engage in “neutral, unbiased election activities” and point to the Complaint’s exhibits as evidence demonstrating that WWAV’s activities are “non-partisan” and “targeted solely at increasing voter education, registration, and turnout.” Respondents point out that none of the dozens of exhibits detailing their GOTV efforts show any evidence that WWAV advocated for the election or defeat of a federal candidate or sought to influence an election.

Respondents expressly deny the Complaint’s allegation that WWAV was incapable of operating in a “non-partisan” manner because some of its most prominent volunteers also supported Democratic candidates outside of their activities with WWAV. Respondents point out that the co-chairs named in the Complaint are volunteers that do not serve in decision-making roles and are free to engage in or volunteer for political campaigns outside of their volunteer activities for WWAV.

III. ANALYSIS

A. Relevant Law

The Act and Commission regulations define a “political committee” as “any committee, club, association, or other group of persons which receives contributions aggregating in excess of $1,000 during a calendar year or which makes expenditures aggregating in excess of $1,000

\[39\] Resp. at 2.

\[40\] Id.

\[41\] Id. at 3.

\[42\] Resp. at 2.

\[43\] Id.
In Buckley v. Valeo, the Supreme Court held that defining political committee status “only in terms of [the] amount of annual ‘contributions’ and ‘expenditures’” might be overbroad, reaching “groups engaged purely in issue discussion.” To cure that infirmity, the Court concluded that the term “political committee” “need only encompass organizations that are under the control of a candidate or the major purpose of which is the nomination or election of a candidate.” Accordingly, under the statute as thus construed, an organization that is not controlled by a candidate must register as a political committee only if (1) it crosses the $1,000 threshold, and (2) it has as its “major purpose” the nomination or election of federal candidates.

To determine an entity’s “major purpose,” the Commission considers a group’s “overall conduct,” including, among other factors, public statements about its mission, organizational documents, government filings (e.g., IRS notices), and the proportion of spending related to “Federal campaign activity (i.e., the nomination or election of a Federal candidate).”

Political committees must comply with certain organizational and reporting requirements set forth in the Act. They must register with the Commission, file periodic reports for disclosure to the public, appoint a treasurer who maintains its records, and identify themselves through “disclaimers” on all of their political advertising, on their websites, and in mass e-mails.

46 Id. at 79.
47 Id. (emphasis added).
An “independent expenditure” is an expenditure “for a communication expressly advocating the election or defeat of a clearly identified candidate” that is not coordinated with the candidate or the candidate’s committee.\(^{50}\) The term “expressly advocating” includes any communication that (1) uses phrases or words such as “vote for,” “elect,” “defeat,” etc., “which in context can have no other reasonable meaning than to urge the election or defeat of one or more clearly identified candidate(s)”; or (2) “[w]hen taken as a whole and with limited reference to external events, such as the proximity to the election, could only be interpreted by a reasonable person as containing advocacy of the election or defeat of one or more clearly identified candidate(s).”\(^ {51}\)

B. The Commission Finds No Reason to Believe That WWAV And Civic Nation Failed to Register and Report as a Political Committee

The Complaint argues that WWAV is a political committee and therefore should have registered and reported as such.

When considering an organization’s status as a political committee, the Commission first determines whether the organization meets the threshold requirement of receiving contributions or expenditures aggregating in excess of $1,000 during a calendar year.\(^ {52}\) Here, there is no information to support Complaint’s assertion that WWAV received contributions or made expenditures in excess of $1,000.

To assess whether an organization has made an “expenditure,” the Commission analyzes whether spending on any of an organization’s communications made independently of a candidate constitute express advocacy under 11 C.F.R. § 100.22. W WAV has not filed any disclosures with the Commission reporting any independent expenditures. Moreover, further examination of WWAV’s activities does not indicate that the organization made any unreported independent expenditures. In the lengthy descriptions and documentation of WWAV’s activities included in and attached to the Complaint, none appear to reflect communications by WWAV that include express advocacy under 11 C.F.R. § 100.22. The WWAV communications provided with the Complaint primarily consist of internet and social media posts that advertised voter registration and GOTV efforts in combination with food and grocery distribution or live music and entertainment, as well as the artists, entertainers and musicians that would be participating in each event. The early voting celebration communications, which were also advertised on websites and through social media platforms, only advertised music, entertainment, and free food. None of the available communications identify a candidate let alone expressly advocate for their election or defeat. Thus, the communications described in the Complaint and its exhibits do not reflect spending by WWAV for independent expenditures.

\(^{50}\) 11 C.F.R. § 100.16(a) (definition of independent expenditure); see also 52 U.S.C. § 30101(17) (same).

at 5606); Factual & Legal Analysis at 8, MUR 7465 (Freedom Vote, Inc.) (same).
54 See, e.g., Compl., Exs. 80-84, 87-92.
55 See id., Exs. 93-94, 96-98, 101, 108-109, 113. Many of the WWAV communications attached to the Complaint are WWAV press releases, none of which identify a federal candidate. E.g., id., Ex. 10 (identifying co-chairs and including transcript of accompanying video); id., Ex. 11 (announcing new public service announcement, including transcript of video); id., Ex. 12 (announcing Civic Cities initiative); id., Ex. 13 (announcing virtual prom vote, including transcript of video).

56 Id., Exs. 105-106, 122-130.
57 See Supplemental E&J at 5606. Furthermore, Commission regulations provide that a corporation’s disbursements for voter registration and get-out-the-vote communications to the general public are not contributions or expenditures, provided that the communications (1) do not expressly advocate the election or defeat of any clearly identified candidate or candidates of a clearly identified party and (2) the preparation and distribution of the communications is not coordinated with a candidate or party. See 11 C.F.R. § 114.4(c)(2).
Though the Complaint argues that WWAV volunteer co-chairs made public statements that “endorsed,” “campaigned with,” or “appeared with” candidate Joe Biden, or “denounced” Donald Trump during the election cycle, nothing in the Complaint or attached exhibits suggest that the individuals did so in their capacities as WWAV volunteers or that the volunteers’ statements reflected that WWAV spent money to disseminate volunteers’ statements in support of candidates. As mentioned above, the available WWAV communications that preceded the 2020 election were limited to voter registration drives and GOTV efforts that did not name any federal candidate.

Furthermore, while WWAV’s Form 990s reflect that WWAV received donations in excess of $1,000, the Complaint provides no information that indicates that WWAV received more than $1,000 in “contributions,” as that term is defined by the Act, that is, “gifts . . . made by any person for the purpose of influencing any election for Federal office.” Neither the Complaint’s exhibits nor the other available information shows that WWAV solicited or received any contributions for a federal campaign purpose. The attachments to the Complaint show that WWAV advertised voter registration and GOTV events to the public, and WWAV’s online “Donate” page does not appear to solicit any contributions for the purpose of influencing any election.

Donate now to be part of this movement to strengthen our democracy ahead of important elections for years to come.”). The Complaint also attaches an undated excerpt of an online donation portal for When We All Vote that indicates it is “an initiative of Civic Nation, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization.” Compl., Ex. 1.
Therefore, the available information does not indicate that WWAV crossed the Act’s $1,000 threshold for political committee status. Accordingly, the Commission finds no reason to believe that When We All Vote and its parent Civic Nation violated 52 U.S.C. §§ 30102, 30103, 30104, by failing to register and report as a political committee.

C. There are No Cognizable Violations of the Act by the Individual Respondents

As to the Individual Respondents, the Complaint alleges no cognizable violations of the Act. The allegation that WWAV failed to register and report as a political committee does not extend to the individuals allegedly associated with WWAV, as they have no individual liability for any potential WWAV reporting violations.\(^\text{62}\) The Complaint makes no specific allegations that the Individual Respondents engaged in any conduct in support of WWAV or Civic Nation that violated the Act.\(^\text{63}\) The Complaint only discusses the Individual Respondents’ alleged partisan political activities in their individual capacities and not as agents of WWAV or Civic Nation.\(^\text{64}\) Accordingly, the Commission finds no reason to believe Andrew Amore, Selena Gomez, Tom Hanks, Erin Hannigan, Faith Hill, Valerie Jarrett, Liza Koshy, Kyle Lierman, Laura Miller, Lin-Manuel Miranda, Janelle Monáe, Michelle Obama, Chris Paul, Megan Rapinoe, Shonda Rhimes, Pete Rouse, Tracee Ellis Ross, Tina Tchen, Kerry Washington, Rita Wilson, and Stephanie Young violated the Act.

\(^\text{62}\) The Act’s registration and reporting obligations for nonconnected committees apply to political committees and their treasurers, not other individuals associated with a political committee. See 52 U.S.C. §§ 30102(a), 30104(a) (requiring political committees to have treasurers and for treasurers to sign and file committees’ disclosure reports).
