December 12, 2015, and May 3, 2018, at the Terranea Resort in Rancho Palos Verdes, California.²

Relatedly, the Complaints allege that the committees failed to properly report the payments because the listed purposes are insufficiently precise.³

Regarding the personal use allegations, the Complaints rely primarily on news articles by the Los Angeles Times, which reported that between 2015 and 2018, the Leadership PAC and MVF spent approximately $124,000 and $116,000, respectively, at Terranea Resort over a period of two and a half years.⁴ Complainants state that they are former employees of Terranea Resort in the banquet and catering departments and claim to have no recollection of any event hosted by or on behalf of McCarthy or any of his committees at the resort.⁵ The Complaints also point out that the owners of Terranea Resort contributed $300,400 to McCarthy and his committees from 2012 to 2022, suggesting “an extremely cozy relationship between the parties.”⁶ Regarding the reporting allegations, the Complaints claim that the listed purposes, e.g., “PAC LODGING,” are insufficient to determine the actual purpose.⁷

Based on its experience and expertise, the Commission has established an Enforcement Priority System using formal, pre-determined scoring criteria to allocate agency resources and assess whether particular matters warrant further administrative enforcement proceedings. These criteria include (1) the gravity of the alleged violation, taking into account both the type of activity and the amount in violation; (2) the apparent impact the alleged violation may have had on the electoral process; (3) the complexity of the legal issues raised in the matter; and (4) recent trends in potential violations and other developments in the law. This matter is rated as low priority for Commission action after application of these pre-established criteria. Given the low rating and considering that the five-year statute of limitations to seek a monetary civil penalty on any potential violations in these matters has run,⁹ we recommend that the Commission dismiss the Complaint consistent with the Commission's prosecutorial discretion to determine the proper ordering of its priorities and use of agency resources.¹⁰ We also recommend that the Commission close the files and send the appropriate letters.
