

I would like to view the corporate donors to a political campaign in a separate area to see how much of a difference the Supreme Courts ruling on Citizen's United has made on the election process. I do not wish to see a President that is bought by a corporation, and I would not like to see a President that is under the control of a multinational corporation.

I also would not like a President who considers themselves to be a citizen of Rome and put the Roman Catholic Church and its policies before the welfare of the American people and its court system and allow the laws to wither in the face of evil and lawlessness, and instructs the judges to allow a criminal to go free, or partially prosecute him.
