FEC RELEASES 1989-90 18-MONTH CONGRESSIONAL FIGURES Candidates' spending approaching $200 million

WASHINGTON -- During the first 18-months of the 1990 election cycle, U.S. Senate and House candidates raised $279 million, spent $191.8 million and have remaining campaign war chests of $158.8 million, according to the Federal Election Commission.

Congressional receipts rose 3.3 percent, or $9 million, and spending increased 5.8 percent, or $10 million compared to the identical period for the 1988 elections.

As is typical at this point in the cycle, incumbents - of both political parties - commanded sizable financial leads over their challengers. Not taking into account open seat races, the FEC report found that four of every five dollars received by a congressional campaign went to an incumbent.

Other highlights of the FEC report, which covered activity from January 1, 1989, through June 30, 1990, include:

 1,372 U.S. House candidates...

- Raised $164 million and spent $117 million
- Received $78 million from individuals
- Received $63 million from political action committees
- Entered third quarter of 1990 with campaign war chests of $104 million

 151 U.S. Senate candidates...

- Raised $115 million and spent $74 million
- Received $76 million from individuals
- Received $26 million from political action committees
- Entered third quarter of 1990 with campaign war chests of $54 million

Information attached to this report provides race-by-race statistics, candidate rankings and overall summary data by political party as well as by candidate status (incumbent, challenger or open seat). Some charts also detail figures which compare current activity to that in 1988, 1986, and 1984 congressional elections.

Summary tables on Senate candidates includes financial activity since 1985. (Part of the earlier figures may relate to debt retirement from prior elections and should not automatically be presumed to have been raised for the candidate's 1990 campaign).
