AGENDA ITEM

For Meeting of: 3-23-00

SUBMITTED LATE

SUBJECT: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Administrative Fines

The Office of General Counsel has drafted the attached Notice of Proposed Rulemaking ("NPRM") to implement the Administrative Fines program, 2 U.S.C. 437g(a)(4) (as amended).

The Administrative Fines program provides for the assessment of civil money penalties for reporting violations of 2 U.S.C. 434(a). The proposed rules in new subpart B of 11 CFR part 111 would establish procedures for processing such violations and would include the fine schedules. The Office of General Counsel has worked with the Commission's Reports Analysis Division and Staff Director's Office in drafting these new regulations.

The NPRM does not provide for a hearing on this rulemaking even if there is a request for a hearing. Such a hearing would delay the publication of the final rules until late June or early July, at the earliest. This office is concerned that there may not be thirty (30) legislative days left in this Congress after the publication of the final rules if they are published this late.

Recommendation

The Office of General Counsel recommends that the Commission approve the attached Notice of Proposed Rulemaking for publication in the Federal Register.

4 ADMINISTRATIVE FINES

5 AGENCY: Federal Election Commission.

6 ACTION: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.

7 SUMMARY: The Treasury and General Government Appropriations Act, 8 2000, amended the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971 9 (hereinafter "the Act" or "FECA") to permit the Federal 10 Election Commission to impose civil money penalties for 11 violations of the reporting requirements of the FECA that 12 occur between January 1, 2000, and December 31, 2001.

13 The amendments are intended to expedite and streamline the 14 Commission's enforcement procedures. The Commission is 15 proposing amendments to its compliance procedure 16 regulations to implement the new program. Please note that 17 the proposed rules that follow do not represent a final 18 decision by the Commission on the issues presented by this 19 rulemaking. Further information is provided in the 20 supplementary information that follows.

21 SUPPLEMENTARY

22 INFORMATION: The Treasury and General Government Appropriations Act, 2000, 23 Pub. L. No. 106-58, 106th Cong., § 640, 113 Stat. 430, 476-77 (1999), amended section 24 309(a)(4) of the FECA, 2 U.S.C. 437g(a)(4) to provide for a modified enforcement process

1 for violations of reporting requirements. The amended procedure provides that if the 2 Commission finds a violation of 2 U.S.C. 434(a) it may:

3
4 (i). . . require the person to pay a civil money penalty in an amount 5 determined under a schedule of penalties which is established and published 6 by the Commission and which takes into account the amount of the 7 violation involved, the existence of previous violations by the person, and 8 such other factors as the Commission considers appropriate.

9 (ii) The Commission may not make any determination adverse to a person 10 under clause (i) until the person has been given written notice and an 11 opportunity to be heard before the Commission.

12 (iii) Any person against whom an adverse determination is made under this 13 subparagraph may obtain a review of such determination in the district court 14 of the United States for the district in which the person resides, or transacts 15 business, by filing in such court (prior to the expiration of the 30-day period 16 which begins on the date the person receives notification of the 17 determination) a written petition requesting that the determination be set 18 aside.

20 The Commission is seeking public comments on the proposed rules at 11 CFR part 21 111, subpart B, that would implement this amendment to the Act and would establish a 22 new streamlined procedure for only those enforcement matters that involve alleged 23 violations of the reporting requirements of 2 U.S.C. 434(a). The new rules would also 24 impose civil money penalties in accordance with the schedules of penalties. The current

1 enforcement procedures in 11 CFR 111.1 through 111.24 would be designated as 11 CFR 2 part 111, subpart A - Enforcement, and would continue to apply to other types of alleged 3 violations of the FECA.

4 Applicability

5 The amendment to the Act applies only to violations that occur between January 1, 6 2000 and December 31, 2001. The Commission would have discretion to apply these new 7 procedures to reporting violations of 2 U.S.C. 434(a). These reporting violations include 8 failure to file or timely file monthly, quarterly, pre-election, post-general election, mid-year 9 and year-end reports, and 48 hour notices regarding contributions after the 20th day but 10 more than 48 hours before the election. While the Commission anticipates that it would 11 use these new procedures to handle most of its non-filer and late filer enforcement matters, 12 the Commission may decide not to apply the new procedures to certain violations because 13 of unusual circumstances. The Commission also contemplates that complaint generated 14 matters that deal only with alleged 2 U.S.C. 434(a) violations would be processed under 15 the new procedures. Complaints that contain allegations of 2 U.S.C. 434(a) violation(s) as 16 well as violation(s) of other provisions of the FECA would be processed under the current 17 enforcement procedures.

18 Enforcement Procedures

19 1. Due Process Considerations

20 In developing the procedures to implement this amendment to the FECA, the 21 Commission is taking into consideration the requirements of the Administrative Procedure 22 Act (hereinafter "APA"), 5 U.S.C 551 et seq., and the Due Process Clause of the U.S.

1 Constitution, U.S. Const. amend. XIV, § 1, and the intent of Congress in enacting this 2 amendment.

3 Because the only procedures specified in the amendment to section 434(a) of the 4 FECA are "written notice and an opportunity to be heard by the Commission," it is quite 5 clear that the statute on its face does not trigger the formal adjudication provisions of the 6 APA. Section 554(a) of the APA states that the relevant program statute must require an 7 opportunity for a hearing "on the record," before the APA's formal adjudication procedures 8 are triggered. Although the Supreme Court has never interpreted this language in section 9 554(a), it has so interpreted the almost identical language pertaining to formal rulemaking 10 in section 553(c) of the APA in United States v. Florida East Coast Railway Co., 410 U.S.
11 224 (1973). Furthermore, the leading court of appeals decisions, City of West Chicago v.
12 NRC, 701 F.2d 632 (7th Cir. 1983), and Chemical Waste Management, Inc. v. EPA, 873 13 F.2d 1477 (D.C. Cir. 1989), have required the presence of the phrase "on the record" unless 14 there is some extraordinary indication of congressional intent that formal APA procedures 15 should apply. Nothing extraordinary in the amendment or the legislative history indicates 16 that Congress intended to require the Commission to follow the formal APA adjudication 17 procedures.

18 Although the FECA does not require a formal APA procedure, the U.S.
19 Constitution requires the Commission to afford respondents adequate due process prior to 20 assessment of a civil money penalty. Because the APA is silent on what type of procedure 21 agencies must follow in informal adjudication, the Commission must look to case law to 22 determine what procedure will satisfy the due process requirements. Under Mathews v.
23 Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319, 334-335 (1976), the Supreme Court stated that courts must

1 employ a balancing test to determine the adequacy of an agency's procedures, once a 2 protected property or liberty interest has been shown to be affected. The balance involves 3 the following three factors: (1) the private interest affected by the official action, (2) the 4 risk of an erroneous result and the probable value of additional procedural safeguards, and 5 (3) the government's interest in avoiding administrative burdens. Because the APA does 6 not prescribe procedures for informal adjudications, the Commission is left with devising 7 a procedure that meets the Mathews balancing test.

8 Another consideration is congressional intent. The legislative history suggests that 9 a purpose for the amendment is to streamline the process for reporting violations in order 10 to redirect more resources to more complex violations. Congressman William Thomas, 11 Chairman of the Committee of House Administration, stated the following on the floor of 12 the House of Representatives on September 15, 1999:

13 Allowing the FEC to impose administrative fines for reporting violations without 14 the lengthy procedural steps required in a normal enforcement case will free 15 critical FEC resources for more important disclosure and enforcement efforts. The 16 rights of those under these regulations are protected by preserving the option of 17 appeal to a U.S. District Court for those who believe the FEC erred.

18 The Commission believes it has developed procedures in this proposed rule that 19 address these considerations. The private interests involved in this rulemaking are 20 protected. The risk of erroneous results is relatively low in most cases given that reporting 21 violations are relatively straightforward. Absent extraordinary circumstances, there are 22 basically only three issues - whether the respondent was required to submit a report, 23 whether the report was timely filed, and whether the civil money penalty was calculated

1 correctly. The opportunity for the respondent to submit a written response and to have the 2 enforcement matter reviewed by an independent reviewing officer will protect the 3 respondent from an erroneous result as will the opportunity for the respondents to appeal 4 to federal district court. This streamlined process will ensure that the Commission does 5 not devote too many resources to these relatively minor, straightforward violations. The 6 streamlined process will also meet the requirements of the amendment. The Commission 7 seeks comments on the adequacy of the procedures proposed to protect respondents' due 8 process rights.

9 2. Notification to Respondents of Reason to Believe Finding

10 The amendment to the FECA did not change the 2 U.S.C. 437g(a)(2) requirements 11 pertaining to reason to believe findings and notifying respondents of the reason to believe 12 findings. Thus, under the proposed 11 CFR 111.32, the Commission would continue to 13 authorize the Chairman or Vice-Chairman to notify the respondents in writing if it finds 14 reason to believe that a violation has occurred. The notification would contain the factual 15 and legal basis for the reason to believe finding and the proposed civil money penalty in 16 accordance with the applicable schedule of penalties. Before the reports are due, the 17 Commission intends to follow its current procedures of informing all committees of their 18 duty to submit the reports and the filing deadlines. Thus, all committees will have prior 19 notification of the requirements and an adequate opportunity to meet the requirements 20 before the Commission finds reason to believe and commences an enforcement action.

21 Under the proposed 11 CFR 111.34, if the respondent does not wish to challenge 22 the reason to believe finding, the respondent may pay the proposed civil money penalty 23 within forty days of the Commission's reason to believe finding. The Commission would 1 then send the respondent an acknowledgment of the payment and its final determination.

2 The matter would then be closed and the information placed on the public record.

3 3. Respondent's Written Response

4 If, however, the respondent wants to challenge the reason to believe finding and/or 5 the proposed civil money penalty, the respondent under the proposed 11 CFR 111.35 6 would be required to submit a written notice of intent to challenge the reason to believe 7 finding and/or the proposed civil money penalty to the Commission within twenty days of 8 the Commission's reason to believe finding. The respondent would also be required to 9 submit a written response to the Commission within forty days of the Commission's reason 10 to believe finding. The written response must set forth one or more of the following 11 arguments: alleged factual and/or legal errors in the reason to believe finding; and/or 12 reasons why the proposed civil money penalty was improperly calculated; and/or 13 extraordinary circumstances that were out of the control of the respondent and that were for 14 a duration of at least 48 hours and that prevented the respondent from filing the report in a 15 timely manner. Extraordinary circumstances would not include negligence, illness of staff, 16 computer failures, problems with contractors and vendors, and other similar occurrences.
17 Respondents would be required to include all supporting documentation with their written 18 response.

19 4. Reviewing Officer

20 The respondent's written response would be forwarded to a reviewing officer under 21 proposed 11 CFR 111.36. To ensure impartiality, the reviewing officer would not be 22 someone who was involved in developing the reason to believe finding. The reviewing 23 officer would review the reason to believe finding with supporting documentation and the

1 respondent's written response with supporting documentation. The reviewing officer 2 would also be allowed to request that other Commission staff and the respondent submit 3 supplemental information. The reviewing officer would draft a written recommended 4 decision and forward it to the Commission along with the reason to believe finding with 5 supporting documentation, the respondent's written response with the supporting 6 documentation, and supplemental information, if any. These materials along with the 7 Commission's final determination and any statement(s) of reasons, subject to any claims of 8 privilege, would constitute the entire administrative record.

9         The amendment to the FECA requires that a respondent have "an opportunity to be 10 heard" before the Commission makes a final adverse determination. The Commission 11 believes that this requirement would be satisfied by the respondent's opportunity to submit 12 a written response to the reason to believe finding with a review by an impartial reviewing 13 officer. The Commission recognizes, however, the possibility that respondents may want 14 the opportunity for an oral hearing before the reviewing officer in those infrequent 15 situations where there may be a disputed issue of material fact. The Commission seeks 16 comments on whether oral hearings should be incorporated into the new procedural rules.
17 If so, under what circumstances should an oral hearing be held? Who should preside over 18 an oral hearing? What procedures should be followed? What topics should be addressed 19 in an oral hearing?

20         A broader concern is that oral hearings would necessitate increasing the resources 21 the Commission devotes to these straightforward reporting violations, thereby defeating the 22 congressional intent to streamline the process. Hearings may also increase the 23 respondent's expenses and unduly prolong the enforcement process. Comments are

1 requested on ways to reduce the amount of resources needed if the process includes an 2 opportunity for an oral hearing, and ways to avoid procedural delays.

3 5. Final Determination by the Commission

4 Proposed 11 CFR 111.37 contemplates that once the Commission receives the 5 respondent's written response, if any, to the reason to believe finding, the reviewing 6 officer's written recommendation, and all supporting and supplemental documents and 7 information, the Commission would then make a final determination, by a vote of at least 8 four of its members, as to whether a violation of 2 U.S.C. 434(a) has occurred. If the 9 Commission determines that a violation has occurred, then it would assess a civil money 10 penalty in accordance with the schedules of penalties in proposed 11 CFR 111.43. For 11 purposes of judicial review, the final determination would be the final agency action.

12 The Commission would modify the proposed civil money penalty if the respondent 13 can demonstrate that the proposed civil money penalty was incorrectly calculated. An 14 example of an incorrectly calculated civil money penalty is when the respondent can 15 convincingly demonstrate that it filed the required report earlier than the filing date alleged 16 in the reason to believe finding, though the report is still filed late. Then the Commission 17 would reduce the fine to the appropriate amount based on a recalculation of the number of 18 days late.

19 The Commission may also determine that there was no violation. Finally, the 20 Commission may determine, by a vote of at least four of its members, that a violation of 2 21 U.S.C. 434(a) has occurred but waive the civil money penalty because the respondent has 22 convincingly demonstrated the existence of extraordinary circumstances that were beyond 23 the respondent's control and that were for a duration of at least 48 hours.

1           The proposed rules do not include provisions for mitigating factors that may reduce 2 the civil money penalty. The Commission believes that this is the simplest, most 3 straightforward way to effectuate statutory intent, particularly since the new administrative 4 fine program is limited to a two-year period. The Commission is also concerned that the 5 inclusion of mitigating factors would result in a lack of uniformity and certainty in the 6 imposition of civil money penalties. Nevertheless, comments are sought as to whether the 7 Commission should include mitigating factors, what those factors should be and how the 8 factors should be applied.

9 6. Failure to Submit Payment or Written Response

10           If the respondent fails to pay the proposed civil money penalty within forty days of 11 the Commission's reason to believe finding or to submit a notice of intent to challenge the 12 reason to believe finding or to submit the written response within the time stated in 13 proposed 11 CFR 111.35, the Commission would, under proposed 11 CFR 111.40, issue a 14 final determination with a civil money penalty consistent with the appropriate schedule of 15 penalties. The respondent would then have thirty days from receipt of the final 16 determination either to submit payment of the civil money penalty or to seek judicial 17 review.

18 Judicial Review

19           As provided in the statutory amendments to the FECA and section 111.38 of the 20 Commission's proposed regulations, the respondent may seek judicial review of the 21 Commission's final determination within thirty (30) days of receipt of the final 22 determination. The respondent may seek judicial review in a U.S. district court where the 23 respondent resides or conducts business. The review would be limited to issues and facts

1 raised during the enforcement process. This is consistent with the Commission's 2 procedures for presidential repayment determinations at 11 CFR 9007.5(b) and 9038.5(b) 3 where the failure to timely raise issues constitutes a waiver of the right to raise the issues in 4 future proceedings.

5 Schedules of Penalties

6 The amendment to the Act requires the Commission to take into account the 7 amount of the violation and the existence of previous violations by the respondent in 8 developing the schedules of penalties. In establishing the proposed schedules of penalties 9 set forth in 11 CFR 111.43, the Commission considered its past enforcement of 2 U.S.C.
10 434(a) violations and the civil penalties involved in those enforcement cases and the fine 11 schedules of state agencies for similar reporting violations. In addition, the Commission 12 believes that it is vital that civil money penalties not be set at a level so low that they will 13 be treated as merely "the cost of doing business." Conversely, the penalties must not be so 14 high that they become unduly burdensome.

15 The Commission also considered the election sensitivity of a report. While it is 16 important that all reports should be filed in a timely manner, it is especially important that 17 reports due just before an election, i.e., pre-primary, pre-general, October quarterly, and 18 October monthly, be filed in a timely manner to maintain the integrity of the campaign 19 finance system. Therefore, the Commission proposes to subject these election sensitive 20 reports, which are defined in proposed 11 CFR 111.43(e) as the October quarterly and 21 October monthly, and the pre-election reports under 11 CFR 104.5 to a higher civil money 22 penalty. Election sensitive reports and the pre-election reports under the schedules of 23 penalties in proposed 11 CFR 111.43 would be assessed an additional 50% of the base

1 amounts. An alternative method of handling election sensitive reports would be to add a 2 flat $1000 to the base amounts. The Commission seeks comments on which alternative the 3 Commission should adopt.

4 The schedules of penalties in proposed 11 CFR 111.43 for late filers and non-filers
5 would have four components. The first is a base amount depending on the level of activity 6 on the report. The level of activity is the amount of receipts plus the amount of 7 disbursements in the report. The base amounts would range from $100 to $5000 for all 8 reports except for election sensitive reports and from $150 to $7500 for election sensitive 9 reports. This component would satisfy the statutory requirement that the schedules of 10 penalties take into account the amount of the violation.

11 The second component is a set amount depending on the level of activity on the 12 report multiplied by the number of days the report is filed late up to thirty days. This set 13 amount ranges from $25 per day to $200 per day for all reports. This component would 14 also satisfy the statutory requirement that the schedules of penalties take into account the 15 amount of the violation.

16 The third component is a set amount for respondents who are non-filers. The 17 Commission considers respondents to be non-filers if they do not file their pre-election 18 reports within eight days of their due dates or if they do not file any other report within 19 thirty days of its due date. This set amount ranges from $1600 to $17,000 for all reports 20 except election sensitive reports and from $1650 to $19,500 for election sensitive reports.
21 These amounts were achieved by doubling the per day penalty and multiplying this penalty 22 by thirty days and then adding the base amount of the first component.

1           The fourth component is an additional premium for each prior civil money penalty
2 that was assessed against the respondent for failure to file timely reports. This component 3 would satisfy the requirement that the schedules of penalties take into account the 4 existence of previous violations. This premium would be an additional 25% of the civil 5 money penalty for each prior civil money penalty that had been assessed under this subpart 6 during the current two-year election cycle and prior two-year election cycle.

7           For non-filers, the Commission would estimate their level of activity by adding the 8 total receipts and total disbursements reported in the current election cycle and then 9 dividing by the number of reports received in the current election cycle. If the respondents 10 have not filed any reports in the current election cycle, then the Commission would 11 estimate the level of activity by adding the total receipts and total disbursement reported in 12 the most recent election cycle and then dividing by the number of reports received in the 13 most recent election cycle.

14 Examples of Civil Money Penalties

15 Example 1: The respondent files an October quarterly report 20 days late. The level of 16 activity on the report is $105,000. The civil money penalty would be calculated as follows.
17 The base amount would be $900. The per day amount would be $125 multiplied by 20 18 days, which equals $2500. The civil money penalty would be the sum of these two 19 amounts, which would be $3400.

20 Example 2: The respondent in the above example has one prior violation in the current 21 two-year election cycle. The premium for the one prior violation would be 25% of the civil 22 money penalty calculated in example 1, which would equal $850. The civil money penalty

1 would be the sum of this premium and the civil money penalty from example 1, which 2 would be $4250.

3 Example 3: Instead of being subject to the proposed schedule of penalties that adds 50% of 4 the base to the civil money penalty, the respondent in example 1 would be subject to a 5 schedule of penalties that adds $1000 to the base amounts for election sensitive reports.

6 The civil money penalty would be calculated as follows. The base amount would be 7 $1600. The per day amount would be $125 multiplied by 20 days, which equals $2500.
8 The civil money penalty would be the sum of these two amounts, which would be $4100.

9 Example 4: The respondent in the example 3 had one prior violation in the current two-10 year election cycle. The premium for the one prior violation would be 25% of the civil 11 money penalty calculated in example 3, which would equal $1025. The civil money 12 penalty would be the sum of this premium and the civil money penalty from example 3, 13 which would be $5125.

14 The Commission believes that these proposed schedules of penalties reflect a 15 reasonable approach. The additional premium that is added for those respondents who 16 have had previous civil money penalty assessments is intended to ensure that the schedules 17 of penalties would not be viewed as "the cost of doing business." The Commission seeks 18 comments on the reasonableness of the schedules of penalties in the proposed rule; the 19 comprehensiveness of the schedules of penalties; additional factors that the Commission 20 should consider; and alternative means to develop the schedules of penalties.

21 The Commission does not anticipate processing alleged failures to file or to file 22 timely 48-hour notices through these new procedures at this time. Such violations would 23 be handled under the current enforcement procedures. The Commission seeks comments

1 on whether alleged failures to file or to file timely 48-hour notices should be subject to 2 proposed subpart B. The Commission also seeks comments on whether there should be a 3 different schedule of penalties for such violations.

4 Debt Collection Improvement Act

5 The Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996 (hereinafter "DCIA"), Pub. L. 104-6 134, 110 Stat. 1321-358 (1996), codified at 31 U.S.C. 3711(g), requires Federal agencies to 7 transfer to the Department of the Treasury for debt collection action any non-tax debt that 8 is over 180 days delinquent, subject to certain exemptions. The DCIA also permits the 9 voluntary transfer of debts less than 180 days delinquent to the Department of the Treasury
10 or, with the consent of the Department of the Treasury, to a Treasury-designated debt 11 collection center for debt collection services. Section 111.44 of the proposed rules would 12 incorporate, by reference, the Department of Treasury's debt collection regulations and the 13 Federal Claims Collection Standards.

14 After a final determination as to the amount of the civil money penalty, the 15 Commission intends to utilize the DCIA to collect civil money penalties from respondents 16 who fail to pay within a reasonable time. This debt collection procedure, however, would 17 not preclude the Commission from filing suit under 2 U.S.C. 437g(a)(6) in the appropriate 18 United States district court to collect the civil money penalty where it determines that this 19 is preferable to transferring the debt to the Department of Treasury for collection under the 20 DCIA.

21 Conforming Amendments

22 The proposed rules contain conforming amendments to the existing regulations.
23 The current sections of part 111 would be designated as "subpart A - Enforcement."

1 Paragraph (d) would be added to 11 CFR 111.8 to allow the Commission to apply proposed 2 subpart B of part 111 to internally generated matters relating to violations of 2 U.S.C.
3 434(a). Paragraph (c) would be added to 11 CFR 111.20 to provide for public disclosure of 4 non-exempt 2 U.S.C. 437g investigatory materials within thirty (30) days after the final 5 disposition of a civil action. This paragraph, if promulgated, would not be limited to civil 6 actions arising from enforcement actions undertaken under subpart B of part 111 but would 7 be applied to all civil actions.

8 The Commission welcomes comments on these and any other issues raised by the 9 new statutory provisions on administrative fines for reporting violations.

10 Certification of No Effect Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 605(b) (Regulatory Flexibility Act)

11 The attached proposed rules would not, if promulgated, have a significant economic 12 impact on a substantial number of small entities. The basis for this certification is that the 13 attached proposed rules, if promulgated, would impose penalties which are scaled to take 14 into account the size of the political committees. Thus, committees with less financial 15 activity would be subject to lower fines than committees with more financial activity.
16 Also, the Commission anticipates that there will not be a large number of small committees 17 that would be subject to the process in the proposed rules. Therefore, the attached 18 proposed rules, if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact on a 19 substantial number of small entities.

13 (a) No. Sections 111.1 - 111.8 and 111.20 - 111.24 of this part shall apply to all

If the Commission determines, by an affirmative vote of at least four (4) of its members, that it has reason to believe that a respondent has violated 2 U.S.C. 434(a), it shall authorize the Chairman or Vice-Chairman to notify such respondent of the Commission's finding. The written notification shall set forth the following:

- (a) The alleged factual and legal basis supporting the finding including the type of report that was due, the filing deadline, the actual date filed (if filed), and the number of days the report was late (if filed);
- (b) The applicable schedule of penalties;
- (c) The number of times the respondent has been assessed a civil money penalty under this subpart during the current two-year election cycle and the prior two-year election cycle;
- (d) The amount of the proposed civil money penalty based on the schedules of penalties set forth in 11 CFR 111.43; and
- (e) An explanation of the respondent's right to challenge both the reason to believe finding and the proposed civil money penalty.

§111.33 What are the respondent's choices upon receiving the reason to believe finding and the proposed civil money penalty?

2 money penalty pursuant to 11 CFR 111.34 or submit a written response pursuant to 11 3 CFR 111.35.

4
5 §111.34. If the respondent decides to pay the civil money penalty and not to challenge 6 the reason to believe finding, what should the respondent do?

7 (a)     The respondent shall transmit payment in the amount of the civil money penalty to 8 the Commission within forty (40) days of the Commission's reason to believe finding.

9 (b)     Upon receipt of the respondent's payment, the Commission shall send the 10 respondent a final determination that the respondent has violated the statute or regulations 11 and the amount of the civil money penalty and an acknowledgment of the respondent's 12 payment.

13 14 §111.35. If the respondent decides to challenge the alleged violation or proposed civil 15 money penalty, what should the respondent do?

16 (a)     Within twenty (20) days of the Commission's reason to believe finding, the 17 respondent shall submit to the Commission a written notice of intent to challenge the 18 reason to believe finding and/or the proposed civil money penalty.

19 (b)     Within forty (40) days of the Commission's reason to believe finding, the 20 respondent shall submit to the Commission a written response.

21 (c)     The written response shall contain the following:

22         (1) Reason(s) why the respondent is challenging the reason to believe finding 23             and/or civil money penalty which may consist of:

- 1 (i) the existence of factual errors; and/or 2 (ii) the improper calculation of the civil money penalty; and/or 3 (iii) the existence of extraordinary circumstances that were beyond the control 4 of the respondent and that were for a duration of at least 48 hours and that 5 prevented the respondent from filing the report in a timely manner;

6 (2) The factual basis supporting the reason(s); and 7 (3) Supporting documentation.

8 (4) Examples of circumstances that will not be considered extraordinary include, 9 but are not limited to, the following:

10 (i) negligence;

11 (ii) problems with vendors or contractors;

12 (iii) illness of staff;

13 (iv) computer failures; and 14 (v) other similar circumstances.

15
16 §111.36. Who will review the respondent's written response?

17 (a) The reviewing officer shall review the respondent's written response. The 18 reviewing officer shall be a person who has not been involved in the reason to believe 19 finding.

20 (b) The reviewing officer shall review the reason to believe finding with supporting 21 documentation and the respondent's written response with supporting documentation. The 22 reviewing officer may request supplemental information from the respondent and/or the 1 Commission staff. The respondent shall submit the supplemental information to the 2 reviewing officer within a time specified by the reviewing officer.

3 (c) Upon completion of the review, the reviewing officer shall forward a written 4 recommendation to the Commission along with all documents required under this section 5 and 11 CFR 111.32 and 111.35.

6
7 §111.37. What will the Commission do once it receives the respondent's written 8 response and the reviewing officer's recommendation?

9 (a) If the Commission, after having found reason to believe and after reviewing the 10 respondent's written response and the reviewing officer's recommendation, determines by 11 an affirmative vote of at least four (4) of its members, that the respondent has violated 2 12 U.S.C. 434(a) and the amount of the civil money penalty, the Commission shall authorize 13 the reviewing officer to notify the respondent by letter of its final determination.

14 (b) If the Commission, after reviewing the reason to believe finding, the respondent's 15 written response, and the reviewing officer's written recommendation, determines by an 16 affirmative vote of at least four (4) of its members, that no violation has occurred, or 17 otherwise terminates its proceedings, the Commission shall authorize the reviewing officer 18 to notify the respondent by letter of its final determination.

19 (c) The Commission will modify the proposed civil money penalty only if the 20 respondent is able to demonstrate that the amount of the proposed civil money penalty was 21 calculated on an incorrect basis.

22 (d) The Commission may determine, by an affirmative vote of at least four of its 23 members, that a violation of 2 U.S.C. 434(a) has occurred but waive the penalty because

1 the respondent has convincingly demonstrated the existence of extraordinary circumstances 2 that were beyond the respondent's control and that were for a duration of at least 48 hours.
3 The Commission shall authorize the reviewing officer to notify the respondent by letter of 4 its final determination.

5
6 §111.38. Can the respondent appeal the Commission's final determination?

7 Yes. Within thirty (30) days of receipt of the Commission's final determination 8 under 11 CFR 111.37, the respondent may submit a written petition to the district court of 9 the United States for the district in which the respondent resides, or transacts business, 10 requesting that the final determination be modified or set aside. The respondent's failure to 11 raise an argument in a timely fashion during the administrative process shall be deemed a 12 waiver of the respondent's right to present such argument in a petition to the district court 13 under 2 U.S.C. 437g.

14
15 §111.39. When must the respondent transmit payment of the civil money penalty?

16 (a) If the respondent does not submit a written petition to the district court of the 17 United States, the respondent must remit payment of the civil money penalty within thirty 18 (30) days of receipt of the Commission's final determination under 11 CFR 111.37.

19 (b) If the respondent submits a written petition to the district court of the United States 20 and, upon the final disposition of the civil action, is required to pay a civil money penalty, 21 the respondent shall remit payment of the civil money penalty to the Commission within 22 thirty (30) days of the final disposition of the civil action. The final disposition may 23 consist of a judicial decision which is not reviewed by a higher court.

1 (c) Failure to pay the civil money penalty may result in the commencement of a
2 collection action under 31 U.S.C. 3701 et seq. (1996), or a civil suit pursuant to 2 U.S.C.
3 437g(6)(A), or any other legal action deemed necessary by the Commission.
4

5 §111.40. What happens if the respondent does not pay the civil money penalty 6 pursuant to 11 CFR 111.34 and does not submit a written response to the reason to 7 believe finding pursuant to 11 CFR 111.35?

8 (a) If the Commission, after the respondent has failed to pay the civil money penalty 9 and has failed to submit a written response, determines by an affirmative vote of at least 10 four (4) of its members that the respondent has violated 2 U.S.C. 434(a) and determines the 11 amount of the civil money penalty, the Commission shall authorize the reviewing officer to 12 notify the respondent by letter of its final determination.

13 (b) The respondent shall transmit payment of the civil money penalty to the 14 Commission within thirty (30) days of receipt of the Commission's final determination.

15 (c) Failure to pay the civil money penalty may result in the commencement of a 16 collection action under 31 U.S.C. 3701 et seq. (1996), or a civil suit pursuant to 2 U.S.C.
17 437g(6)(A), or any other legal action deemed necessary by the Commission.

19 §111.41. To whom should the civil money penalty payment be made payable?

20 Payment of civil money penalties shall be made in the form of a check or money 21 order made payable to the Federal Election Commission.
22

1 §111.42. Will the enforcement file be made available to the public?

2 (a) Yes. The Commission shall make the enforcement file available to the public.

3 (b) If neither the Commission nor the respondent commences a civil action, the 4 Commission shall make the enforcement file available to the public pursuant to 11 CFR 5 4.4(a)(3).

6 (c) If a civil action is commenced, the Commission shall make the enforcement file 7 available pursuant to 11 CFR 111.20(c).

8 9 §111.43. What are the schedules of penalties?

10 (a) The civil money penalty for all reports that are filed late or not filed, except election 11 sensitive reports and pre-election reports under 11 CFR 104.5, shall be calculated in
